FIRE GUTS FAIRFAX HOME

Firemen estimated damage at $30,000 to this home at 75 Spruce Road, Fairfax, and blamed it on a furnace which apparently was operating despite the summery weather. The home was unoccupied when the blaze was discovered at 9:58 p.m. yesterday. The flames also did an estimated $1,500 damage to the George Ponder residence at 77 Spruce Road (visible in background). Firemen had to climb more than 200 steps to reach the houses on a steep hillside. The gutted house is listed as belonging to Kingston Trio Inc. and is believed leased to Peter Barrett, whom firemen have been unable to locate.

Holiday Weekend Temperatures Soar

Predicted Gas Shortage Turns Out Not Serious

Marin County residents took advantage of clear skies and sun washed weather yesterday to make the most of the Memorial Day holidays, despite the widely-feared gasoline shortage.

Although many residents marked the day with backyard barbecues, others jammed county thoroughfares for holiday outings on the three-day weekend and generally found they were able to buy enough fuel for the trip home.

Yesterday temperatures rose to 100 degrees in Fairfax and Marinwood, the hottest day of the year so far.

Some beach-seeking funmakers were disappointed, however, as Stinson Beach officials began turning people away by midafternoon because there was no more room.

A crwod estimated at 5,000 persons attended the final day of the Marin Israeli Fair at the Civic Center yesterday, raising total attendance at the two-day event to about 12,000, according to Marin Box Office spokesmen. About 350 attended Memorial Day services at the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, highlighted by a speech by Capt. William W. Butler of San Rafael, a former prisoner of war.

The California Highway Patrol reported heavy southbound traffic on Highway 101 yesterday afternoon, aggravated by an accident on the Golden Gate Bridge involving two motorcyclists and another auto, all driven by out-of-county residents. The accident sparked a delay of about an hour at 4:45 p.m. for motorists attempting to cross the span, and backed up traffic to Waldo Grade, officers said.

The California Highway Patrol also reported traffic congested on Highway 101 near Novato, where traffic lights were placed on manual operation to ease the flow.

Marin service station operators said today they had "plenty of gas" to handle holiday crowds, although some colleagues had cut back on business hours or shut down entirely for the day to conserve fuel.

"Our gas is holding out terrific," declared Reno Guerra, owner of a Shell station in Novato, who said holiday sales were up about 40 per cent. Guerra said, however, that a station across the street on Nave Drive posted a sign rationing gas to six gallons per customer.

Jesse Katz, owner of a Chevron station in Corte Madera who last week said he faced bankruptcy because of delayed deliveries by his supplier, said his fuel "is holding out fantastic" in the wake of two new deliveries over the holiday weekend. "I don't think there's a shortage," he said.

Robert Moore, secretary of the Marin Independent Service Station Association said it is "too early to say" what effect a gas shortage is having on Marin stations. He reported that about 15 Arco stations in Marin were closed yesterday in a bid to conserve fuel, and that other stations are hiking prices, reducing business hours and rationing gas to remain in business.

United Press International reported service stations in Oregon, Ohio, California, Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York and North Dakota

Water Shortage In Bolinas, Again

Bolinas water users were asked today to halt all nonessential consumption for at least two weeks in the wake of the loss of more than a third of the community's water supply.

It was the second water crisis in Bolinas in six months. Heavy storms in January caused about $300,000 in damage to the supply system and for a time residents were ordered to boil all drinking water.

The latest episode occurred at 4 p.m. Sunday when a car smashed into a fire hydrant at Elm and Evergreen roads on Bolinas Mesa. For an hour water spewed from the broken line, said Lyman Robinson, clerk to the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, which supplies water to the seaside town.

About 150,000 gallons of water were lost, leaving Arroyo Hondo Reservoir, the only source of water for Bolinas, "very, very low," said Robinson. The capacity of the reservoir is 420,000 gallons but Robinson said he didn't know just how much water was left.

It will take at least two weeks for Arroyo Hondo Creek to refill the reservoir and in the meantime residents are asked to conserve water as much as possible, said Robinson.

The water situation led to the closure of the Bolinas Laundromat at 3 p.m. yesterday, seven hours earlier than usual.

Owner George F. West said he closed at the request of the utility district but refused to do the same today until he receives a written request from the utility board.

"I'm getting damn sick of being picked on just because I'm a big user," West declared. The same thing happened late last summer and he shut down for five days, he said.

"They (the district) just don't have enough water and they're not trying to do anything about it," he said.

Robinson said a written request asking West to close down was on its way to the laundromat this morning.

If a water emergency develops the district can pump water from Pine Gulch, said Robinson. He said the utility district board will discuss the water situation when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Engagement Announced For Anne

LONDON (UPI) — Ten weeks after she insisted they were just good friends Princess Anne, 22, changed her mind and asked her mother, Queen Elizabeth, for permission to marry Lieut. Mark Phillips, a 24-year-old, $100-a-week career soldier.

The Queen gave the couple her blessing and announced the engagement tonight, thus bringing into the royal family a man whose mother does most of her own housekeeping, whose father is only comfortably off as a

Marin City Remodeling Approved

Marin County supervisors voted 3 to 2 today to accept a housing authority plan to remodel 150 low-rent units in Marin City and at the same time increase white residency in the predominately black community to one-third.

Supervisors Robert A. Roumiguiere and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. opposed the plan which calls for remodeling 12 units at a time and filling four of the 12 with white families.

Housing authority chairman Irving Perlman said the contractor for the project indicated remodeling would cost about $3,200 per unit if done in blocks of 12 and $3,640 per unit in blocks of four.

Since the housing authority has limited money, he said, 20 per cent more units could be refurbished under the authority's plan.

The county grand jury, asked by supervisors to investigate reports of units standing vacant in Marin City despite the need for public housing, recommended only four units be remodeled at a time.

Perlman said that once 12 units are complete, the housing authority would try to fill four of the refurbished units with white families and eight with black families already living in Marin City public housing.

The authority would then move on to 12 more units, using the eight vacated by Marin City families and four which normally are vacated each month as tenants move out of the community.

Thus, he said, the housing authority would be breaking the ethnic pattern, which he blamed for many of Marin City's problems.

He said the housing authority has found it difficult in the past to place white families in Marin City but hoped refurbished housing would help.

Perlman added that some families, at the head of the

Memorial Day Crowd Is Asked By Ex-POW To Support Nixon

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. William W. Butler, for more than five years a prisoner of war in North Vietnam, asked a Memorial Day audience yesterday to support President Richard M. Nixon and remember those missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Butler, trim in his Air Force uniform, was spending his first Memorial Day at home since he was captured in November, 1967.

Before an appreciative audience of more than 350 persons gathered for Memorial Day services, he praised President Nixon for courage and decisive leadership, the man who "brought us to the end of a very, long unpopular war."

Butler said he was among prisoners of war who met President Nixon Thursday, and "we are behind him."

"I for one would like to see our country give the President some of the support he so desperately needs if he is to carry this next most difficult period to success," Capt. Butler said.

The continuing talks with China and the arms limitation talks with Russia "all have as much at stake and all have greater implications to the future of the world than Watergate."

"I think this man has done a lot more for this country and has the capability to do even more in the future than many Americans give him credit for. He needs only the chance."

Butler asked the audience to think of the courage it took to order the bombing of Hanoi when public sentiment was against such an act. "North Vietnam believes him now when he says he's going to do something," he said.

President Nixon "has our best interests at heart for he is one of us," Butler said.

With Memorial Day, 1973, designated as a day of special remembrance to those missing in action, Butler urged the audience not to forget those missing.

"In the midst of our jubiliation over the termination of the war, let us not do what the Communists are expecting us to do ... forget the missing in action," he said.

He said he couldn't predict whether the North Vietnamese would "come through with an accounting" of those missing, "because one cannot predict them."

Butler received a standing ovation and after the program was surrounded by a crew of youngsters seeking his autograph.

In a change of pace, the Novato High School Music Theater Workshop, a singing group, accompanied by members of the Novato High School Band, presented a lively program, unlike Memorial Day music of the past.

The youths romped through

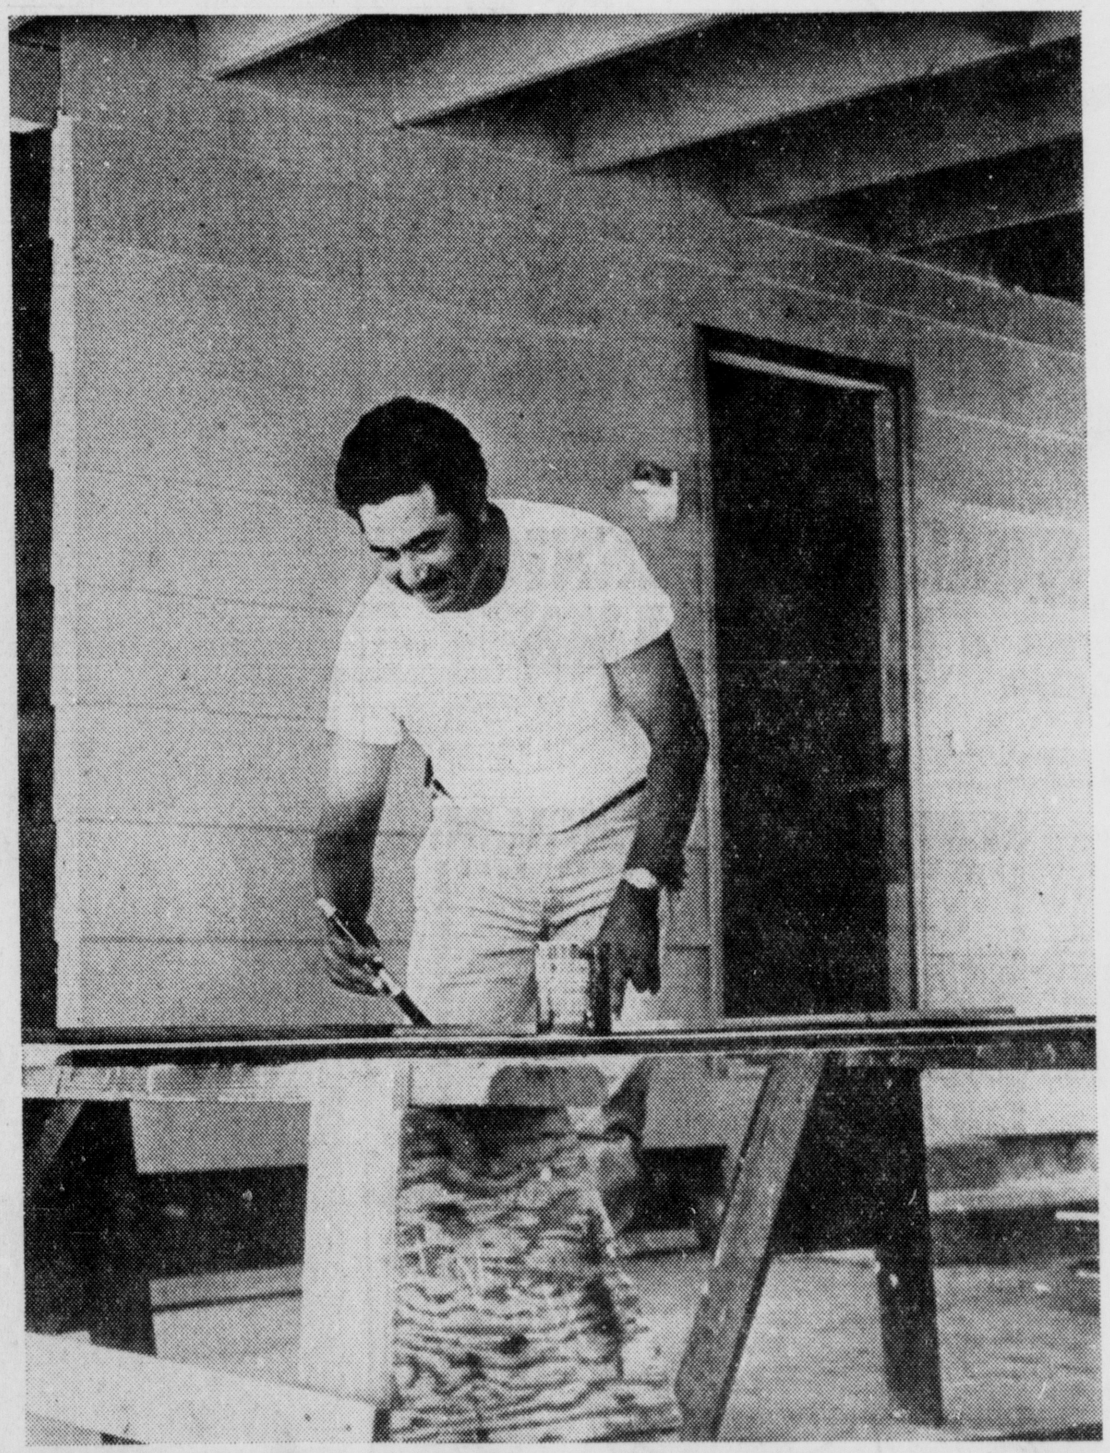
GLAMOUR

The alluring charm which surrounds a woman, especially when there are a few drinks in a man.



DUAL REWARD—Do-it-yourselfers find a dual reward in fix-up projects around the house — substantial money savings and a good deal of self-satisfaction. The home handyman's corps is growing, with suburbanites performing chores from simple painting to complete remodelings.

SUBURBIA

Reasons Are Varied For Home Handyman

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service
(Second of three articles)

He joined the home handyman corps in full colors more than a year ago, when a contractor's $2,000 estimate for modernizing a small bathroom seemed "exhorbitantly high."

With the help of a blowtorch and plumber's wrench, several instruction manuals, and many weekends of hard but satisfying work, the dextrous engineer completed the job — new tiling, tub, shower, and vanity — for less than $600.

He also enclosed a sun porch, another handyman's special. The Betzas reckon the two improvements boosted the resale value of their 50-year-old colonial home by some $3,500.

The desire to save money and enhance resale values are probably the two most popular reasons behind the do-it-yourself boom sweeping the nation.

Experts also cite steeply rising labor costs for plumbers, carpenters, and other skilled craftsmen, sometimes shoddy workmanship by builders, and growing leisure time as key factors sustaining the home "fix-it" trend.

There may be increasing social cachet involved, too.

"Suddenly, it's very fashionable to brag about refinishing the basement or replacing the sink yourself," comments a Long Island banker who has just installed a $150 intercom system with the aid of his 11-year-old son. The boy thought fishing the "snake" through the walls "was a blast," the father noted, and "it was wholesome activity we enjoyed doing together."

With so much hammering, plastering, drilling, and painting going on in suburban households, the home improvement industry is flourishing. The industry expects to sell more than $8 billion worth of wood paneling, ceiling tiles, pre-hung doors, and other home improvement products to do-it-yourselfers this year, according to Building Supply News, a trade magazine.

The magazine estimates that home handymen will redo some 1.9 million kitchens, 1.6 million baths, and 400,000 basements this year.

Americans probably will spend another $9 billion to renovate, repair, or remodel with the help of professional contractors or builders.

To meet the growing demand

Bay Of Pigs Plotter Hunt Suggested Slaying Castro

By DONALD LAMBRO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator and former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, who helped plot the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, says he recommended to CIA superiors that Fidel Castro be assassinated as part of the scheme. His proposal was never approved.

Hunt makes the disclosure in a forthcoming book in which he describes his role and that of the Kennedy administration in the ill-fated invasion by several hundred Cuban exiles who were organized and trained by the United States to overthrow Castro's regime.

A copy of the printer's galleys for the book, to be published in November by Arlington House, was obtained by UPI.

In it, Hunt charges that Kennedy tried to "whitewash the New Fronter" when the invasion failed by "heaping guilt on the CIA."

Kennedy accepted responsibility for the Bay of Pigs fiasco at the time but much of the blame for its initiative and implementation was placed on the CIA by others.

Hunt said he proposed assassinating the Cuban leader because he believed that "without Castro to inspire them the rebel army and militia would collapse in leaderless confusion."

Hunt said his proposal was to "assassinate Castro before or co-incident with the invasion." He added that the role of carrying out the killing was "a task for Cuban patriots."

He said he was told by Richard Bissell, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency's Clandestine Services, that his plan was being considered by a "special group" within the government.

But Hunt said: "So far as I have been able to determine no coherent plan was ever developed within CIA to assassinate Castro, though it was the heart's desire of many exile groups."

Hunt's part in the invasion plan included organizing Cuban exiles in Florida and coordinating their activities with the invasion forces being trained by U.S. Air Force and Army specialists which included the Army's Special Forces unit.

He said plans had called for a Cuban Exile Executive Committee with Hunt at their side to enter Cuba after the invasion, declare themselves a "government-in-arms" and call for military aide.

Under the plan, the United States was prepared to immediately recognize the exiles and provide "whatever might be necessary to overthrow Castro," Hunt said. "American ships would be standing near Cuban waters so help wouldn't be unnecessarily delayed."

Destroying Castro's planes was "basic to the success of the entire invasion," Hunt said. A final decision by Kennedy, according to Hunt, to send fighter planes from the U.S. carrier Boxer to provide cover for the last rebel forces coming ashore was made too late. Hunt said the Boxer was the flagship of a naval task force, which included Marine landing forces, that was stationed in the waters off Puerto Rico.

"By some incalculable mischance the timing had been fouled up," he said. "By then we had run out of time, aircraft and men. The invasion was over."

Entitled "Give Us This Day," Hunt's book described a meeting he attended in Schlesinger's White House office to discuss the administration's white paper on Cuba with Bissell's assistant, Tracy Barnes.

"Barnes and Schlerea for the offensive, Hunt said.

Hunt said that despite Schlesinger's knowledge of the entire plan, the White House intellectual criticized it "as a staging of the CIA's "Gunsmoke stance" in the invasion's afterstance" in the invasion's aftermath.

Hunt also said that U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who was later to allege being kept in the dark about the invasion, had been briefed by Barnes "well prior to invasion date."

Moreover, the Joint Chiefs of Staff—who later maintained they had no opportunity to determine the military preparedness of the invasion forces — had sent "an assessment team" to the Guatemalan camps and had "cabled back an enthusiastic appraisal of the (Cuban) Brigade and Air Force as well-trained and battle-ready," Hunt said.

Hunt recalled a luncheon he had in mid-1960 with Brig. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, then a military adviser to Vice President Nixon.

"Cushman told me that the vice president was the (invasion) project's action officer within the White House and that Nixon wanted nothing to go wrong."

Cushman, now Marine Corps commandant and member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, allegedly authorized the CIA to help Hunt in preparation for burglarizing the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

One of Hunt's closest assistants among the Cuban exiles in Florida was Bernard L. Barker, a Cuban-American who was convicted with Hunt for the Watergate break-in.

"I welcomed his assistance and over the months found him eager, efficient and completely dedicated," Hunt said of Barker.

Another Watergate conspirator, Frank Sturgis, who then went by the name of Frank Fiorini, piloted planes over Havana to drop anti-Castro propaganda leaflets, Hunt said.

Hunt said he wrote the book in 1967 and intended it as "a private legacy to my children."

But due to the Watergate publicity and disclosure of his CIA background, Hunt said he decided publication would serve to correct "distorted accounts of my involvement in the Bay of Pigs invasion."

Motorists Pick On Wrong Man

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (UPI) — Two men fleeing a minor accident became angry yesterday when they sighted a motorist following them.

They stopped their car. One grabbed a tire iron and the other a wrench. They approached the motorist but took off when he pulled a .38-caliber revolver.

The two were captured a short time later after the motorist radioed an all-points bulletin for the man.

The motorist was South San Francisco Police Chief Salvatore Rosano, who had been in an unmarked car.

William McGowan, 20, and James McEvoy, 20, both San Francisco, were charged with assault with a deadly weapon, displaying a dangerous weapon, resisting arrest, hit and run and reckless driving.

Former Governor Hurt In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Louie B. Nunn, a former Kentucky governor who ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate last November, suffered a broken right ankle in a weekend boating accident.

Nunn was hurt while in a boat on Dale Hollow Lake, south of Burkesville. A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital here reported Nunn's condition yesterday as satisfactory.

Liza Calls Peter A 'Lovely Man'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Actress Liza Minnelli arrived from London yesterday and called her latest companion, middle-aged British actor Peter Sellers, a "lovely, lovely man."

However, the 27-year-old Oscar-winning actress refused to say if she would marry Sellers, who is 47. "That's bloody private," snapped Miss Minnelli, who has apparently ended her romance with singer Desi Arnaz Jr.

WAR DEAD HONORED

There were many empty seats at Arlington National Cemetery during Memorial Day services yesterday, apparently the result of a combination of inclement weather and a declining interest in Memorial Day. Sitting alone in the amphitheater where the ceremonies were held is World War I veteran William R. Mason, 77, of Mount Rainer, Md.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Offer Accepted

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Iceland and Britain today accepted an offer by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to mediate the dispute over the so-called "cod war" between the two countries.

NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns extended the offer after Iceland told the alliance that it must help get British warships out of Icelandic waters. Britain and Iceland are both NATO members.

Government officials in Reykjavik, the Icelandic capital, said earlier today Iceland may reconsider its role in NATO unless the organization can solve the fishing dispute.

Map Exchange

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese and the Communists agreed today to begin work next week on one of the most difficult tasks of the four-month-old cease-fire: determining which territory each side controls.

Saigon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said the two sides will exchange maps outlining the territory each claims to control.

Hien said the maps will be the only issue discussed next week by the two-party Joint Military Commission composed of representatives of the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Planes To Be Given

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources said today the United States will give about 12 transport planes to the Cambodian armed forces so the Phnom Penh government can take over emergency airlift operations from the U.S. Air Force.

In battlefield activity today, 26 civilians were reported killed and scores wounded in Communist mortar and rocket attacks on two northern Cambodian villages.

The reason for the gift of the C123 twin-engine transport planes, the sources said, was to relieve the U.S. Air Force of running Cambodia's emergency airlift program.

That operation has been carried out for months by U.S. C130 transport planes flying supplies from American bases in Thailand to Phnom Pehn and Cambodian troops in the field.

Nixon Will Fill SEC Position

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday said he will nominate John R. Evans to a full five-year term on the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Evans, 40, has been serving on the commission since last February, when he was named to succeed James J. Needham. His new appointment, at an annual salary of $38,000, will expire June 5, 1978.

Meeting Extended

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — African leaders decided early today to extend their annual conference into a third unscheduled day to enable them to finish unresolved business — the touchiest involving a border dispute between Somalia and Ethiopia.

Charges of troop mobilization and threats of possible war between the African neighbors tied up the conference of the 41-member Organization of African Unity and marred its 10th anniversary celebrations.

Rogers Is Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has wound up his 17-day, 8-nation Latin American trip pleased with the way it went.

Rogers returned last night and was reporting today to President Nixon.

He encountered some minor student demonstrations in Venezuela and Colombia "but generally it was a good trip," he told newsmen.

In each of his stops-Mexico, Nicaragua, Venezuela, Peru, Brazil, Jamaica, Colombia and Argentina — Rogers stressed the theme that U.S. paternalism in the Western Hemisphere is dead.

LA Mayor's Race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty, fighting to retain leadership of the nation's third largest city, is discounting public opinion polls that show black City Councilman Thomas Bradley is the favorite to win today's mayoral election.

Four years ago, when Yorty and Bradley met on the same battleground polls showed the councilman to be ahead, but Yorty, who has a history of outfoxing the pollsters, won by a near landslide.

City Clerk Rex E. Layton estimates from 65 to 70 per cent of the city's more than million voters will cast ballots today as temperatures soar into the 90s and vacationers settle down from the long Memorial Day weekend.

I lost 600 pounds

The same 10 pounds 60 times. Diets? I've tried them all.

I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.

I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged and quit.

I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot fudge sundae.

One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I'd lost.

Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.

I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little more.

Does this sound like you?

Well I have solved all of these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2-1/2 months.

No hunger! No depression! No cravings!

I've shared this method with hundreds; I'll share it with you.

I'd like to loan you a 50 minute tape cassette for seven days which tells the whole story... or you can come in and listen to it privately.

Immunity Is Ordered For Bugging Witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge John J. Sirica issued an immunity order today to compel Senate testimony by Roy M. Sheppard, a deliveryman who allegedly was hired to take Watergate-related documents from the White House the day after the break-in.

The immunity order was requested by the Senate's Watergate committee, which has completed two weeks of public hearings. The hearings resume June 5.

Sheppard's attorney, Ben W. Cotten, raised no objection to Sirica's action. Cotten said Sheppard has been hospitalized since Friday for high blood pressure and nerves.

Earlier, Sheppard was granted immunity and ordered to testify before a federal grand jury investigating criminal actions in Watergate. Sheppard had earlier refused to answer questions even about his marital status or whether he drove a car.

In other developments:

— The special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, began his first full week on the job in charge of the Justice Department's handling of the case, and presumably will make all future decisions on which witnesses will be granted immunity and when indictments will be prepared. Hundreds of lawyers have filed applications to work with him.

—Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said at a commencement address at Temple University in Philadelphia that Watergate "was not a mark of desperation, but of the ultimate arrogance of power."

—Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss was scheduled to give a deposition today in the party's $6.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee to Re-Elect the President. The scheduled appearance today by former Attorney General John N. Mitchell for a similar deposition was canceled because Mitchell had to be in court in New York where he is under indictment in another case.

Sheppard allegedly was hired to haul away eight cartons of documents from the White House the morning after the June 17, 1972, burglary arrests at the Democratic national offices in the Watergate complex.

It has not been disclosed who hired him or to whom he delivered the documents.

The papers were said to have been taken from the office of a former White House consultant, E. Howard Hunt Jr., who pleaded guilty last January to being a leader of the Watergate operation. The documents were said to have been hidden for about four months.

While the Senate hearings resume a week from today, they probably will not include crucial testimony from former White House officials until mid-June, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said.

Friends Say Berrigan Is Married

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (UPI) — Vietnam war resisters The Rev. Phillip F. Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister were married Monday, friends of the couple reported today.

A spokesman for the Rev. Paul Mayer, said Mayer, a close friend of the couple performed the wedding ceremony at Sister McAlister's Montclair home.

According to the spokesman, a "few friends and relatives," were at the hour-long ceremony, with the bride in a white dress and Berrigan in a suit and tie.

The couple was not available for comment.

A clerk in the Hall of Records at Montclair said Berrigan, 49, and Sister Elizabeth, 33, applied for a marriage license in person May 22.

There were other reports that the couple had been wed at the New York apartment of Berrigan's brother and fellow war resister The Rev. Daniel J. Berrigan.

The Baltimore Sun reported Monday that Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth were married by "mutual consent" in 1969.

such tunes as "Going Out of My Head," and "Joy To The World," before closing with "We Shall Overcome," and the traditional "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

During one of the new songs, one man was overheard complaining that it didn't sound like Memorial Day services to him, but a companion replied . . . "we have to keep up with the times." The audience gave the singers a warm reception.

The indoor ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial Building closed with introduction of color guards from various organizations, ranging from Cub Scout Pack 39 of Santa Venetia to World War I Veterans, Barracks 550.

Units then paraded to the Doughboy Statue outside the Veterans Memorial Building, where floral tributes from 34 veterans and fraternal organizations were laid at the foot of the statue. The collection of flowers, red, white, blue and gold, spread from flagpole to flagpole under the statue.

The wreaths were placed one by one and there was a moment of silent tribute for those who have died in all wars. The strains of the Star Spangled Banner came from a car radio in the parking lot, signalling the start of a baseball game.

Chaplain Bernard F. Schumacher of Hamilton Air Force Base gave the benediction under a hot sun and the crowd, which had dwindled to less than 100 dispersed.

The Memorial Day program was arranged by the Marin County Veterans and Auxiliaries Memorial Committee.

Among organizations represented on the committee were the Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of World War One, Marin County Retired Officers Association, Marin County Fleet Reserve Association, Reserve Officers Association and Gold Star Mothers.

Economic Indicators Showed Drop In April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators, considered one of the best barometers of future economic trends, turned down in April for the first time in two and one half years, the Commerce Department said today.

The index dropped 0.6 per cent last month, ending a sustained climb that began in October, 1970.

Each month, action is monitored in 12 diverse areas of the economy and combined into a composite figure. Over the years, turnabouts in the direction of the index have signaled major future shifts in the economy.

A sustained decline in the index has always meant that an expansion is about to end while an upturn during a recession has signaled that hard times are about over.

April's was the first decline in the index since October, 1970.

Eight of the indicators used in the index are always reported first, with four others coming later when more statistics are available. This means that the over-all April decline could be less than the 0.6 percent for the first eight.

Only two of the eight indicators available today increased in April over March levels —the length of the average work week and industrial materials prices.

Of the six that declined, the largest dip was in building permits, reflecting a lag in home construction in recent months.

The other indicators declining in April were new orders for durable goods, contracts and orders for plant and equipment; stock prices; and the ratio of prices to unit labor costs in manufacturing. Initial claims for unemployment insurance were up in April, considered another unfavorable sign.

The Commerce Department revised the March increase in the index from 1.4 to 1.6 per cent.

The index now stands at 161.5 compared to 162.4 in the previous month and 113.6 in October, 1970, at the beginning of the expansion.

Robber Gets Cash At Restaurant

An armed robber yesterday forced the manager of the International House of Pancakes at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to open the safe at gunpoint and escaped with between $7,000 and $10,000 in cash and checks.

Mgr. Paz B. Mendoza told police that the man took him and three employees upstairs at 2:30 p.m. where he forced Mendoza to open the safe. The robber took the money from the safe and cash register.

"If I look down there and see more, that's it. If anyone makes a move I'll shoot," he said. After he got the money, he left, whether in a car or on foot, was not known, police reported.

The man was described as a Caucasian, about 21 to 25 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. He had brown hair. He was wearing a brown imitation leather shirt, fancy brown boots, dark pants and green Benjamin Franklin type glasses.

No Trace Found Of Intruder In Mill Valley

Mill Valley police said today they haven't found a trace of an intruder who reportedly exchanged gunfire with a resident early yesterday.

Despite a search behind the Lew N. Cameron house at 141 Tamalpais Avenue, no sign has been found of the man Cameron told police was trying to break into his house.

Police said Cameron told them he exchanged rifle, shotgun and pistol fire with the man at 12:30 a.m. yesterday when he went to investigate noises coming from the downstairs of his home.

Police Chief William A. Walsh said one bullet hole was found in a back door at Cameron's house but no other hole or slug was found. Slugs from several of the shots Cameron fired were found in the back yard, Walsh said.

Oakland Man Faces Charges

An Oakland man was to appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court today after being arrested early Sunday morning when found inside the typing room at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma.

Michael David Upton, 28, was seen entering the building about 5 a.m. by a security guard who called police. Police said he was inside the typing classroom when they arrived.

Upton was arrested on suspicion of attempted burglary and booked into Sonoma County Jail.

$100,000 Fire Cause Unknown

Belvedere firemen said today they still don't know the cause of a fire which caused $100,000 damage to the home of Dr. Roy E. Eldred at 1 Belvedere Avenue, Saturday.

Firemen said an investigation is continuing and said it is possible but highly unlikely that a cat, whose charred remains were found wrapped in electrical wiring, started the blaze.

have either curtailed hours or limited customers to purchases of about 10 gallons or less.

Temperatures in Marin which lured many residents onto the roads ranged from 100 degrees in Fairfax and Marinwood to 91 in Ross. Other temperatures reported were: Novato, 98; Petaluma, 93; Sausalito, 92; Mill Valley, 96; San Anselmo, 97 and Woodacre, 94.

Temperatures rose to 83 in San Francisco and Oakland, 96 in San Jose and Ukiah and 97 in Sacramento, while a heat wave in Southern California sent the mercury to 103 in Burbank.

National weather forecasters said the warm weather will continue today, with a cooling-off expected tomorrow.

Residents throughout the state enjoyed the holiday weather, with a spokesman at Yosemite National Park reporting up to 20,000 people on the valley floor.

The holiday also brought tragedy, as at least 52 persons died in accidents on California highways, and 12 persons drowned in the state. The death toll includes Gloria Ann Hawley of Fairfax, who plummeted from a cliff 20 miles north of Fort Bragg while on a holiday sightseeing stop.

HOUSING

authority's waiting list for housing, have chosen to be dropped to the bottom of the list rather than move into Marin City.

His comments brought a bitter response from Supervisor Arrigoni who said a policy of placing people at the bottom of the waiting list when they refused Marin City housing was "a policy of implementing integration by coercion."

"People should not be forced to live where they don't want to," he said, suggesting that those at the top of the waiting list simply be passed over if opposed to accepting a vacant unit in Marin City.

He drew support from colleague Michael Wornum who asked that the housing authority board reconsider its policy and let families keep their positions on the waiting list if opposed to accepting housing in Marin City or elsewhere in the county.

On his motion, the supervisors voted 3 to 2 to approve of the housing authority's plan to remodel 12 units at a time.

The announcement in the court circular said: "It is with the greatest pleasure that the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh announce the betrothal of their beloved daughter, the Princess Anne, to Lt. Mark Phillips, the Queen's Dragoon Guards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phillips."

The Buckingham Palace press secretary, Ronald Allison, said the wedding would be in the early autumn —probably November —either in Westminster Abbey or St. George's Chapel on the grounds of Windsor Castle.

SUBURBIA

for "easy to install" products, manufacturers are striving to provide more prefabricated products and better instructional material for the novice handyman. Fiberglass tub kits, carpet tiles that are easier to put down than long rolls of broadloom, and "peel and stick" floor tiles are among the newer products that aim to simplify what used to be a complex job for a trained installer.

Retailers are putting pressure on manufacturers to provide more explanatory information, accompanied by lucid graphics to help sell items like automatic garage doors and underground sprinkler systems to the home handyman. The guy who thinks he's "all thumbs," says a J.C. Penney spokesman, will appreciate the 10-page instructional booklet that comes with the latest model of its private-label electric garage door. The big merchandiser hopes to market an economical vinyl siding "package" for do-it-yourselfers within the next year. Estimated savings over commercial siding are in the 40 to 50 per cent range.

To encourage do-it-yourself neophytes, a growing number of suburban "home centers" — a greatly enlarged version of the corner hardware store — employ trained salesmen, who advise customers on how to patch a driveway or put up paneling.

Going even further, some retailers show brief teaching films, free of charge, to convince skeptics that a particular job isn't so complicated as it might first appear. Rickel Brothers, which operates 13 home centers in the Northeast, up from only six in 1969, recently introduced professionally taught "how to" courses on plumbing, electric wiring, and carpentry.

At $48 a shot, more than 300 people have signed up for the seven-week evening courses. The most popular, a Rickel instructor says, are paneling walls, hanging a drop ceiling, and running water line.

Increasingly, schools and adult evening courses are offering instruction aimed at turning "Mr. Bungle-it-yourself" into a self-confident handyman. Courses range from appliance servicing and carpentry to plumbing and electrical work. Puncturing the special mystique that surrounds the latter two subjects is often a challenge, one professional instructor says.

Petaluma Man Held For Murder

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Petaluma man was being held in county jail today on suspicion of murdering a Santa Rosa resident during an early morning scuffle Sunday at a Santa Rosa restaurant.

Being held without bail was Mitchell Dixon, 24, of 1535 Weaverly Drive, who told sheriff's officers he was a student.

The dead man was James A. Baker, 27, who died in a Santa Rosa hospital about two-and-a-half hours after the shooting at the Busy Bee Restaurant.

Officers were told that the 3 a.m. shooting followed an earlier disturbance in which Baker reportedly brandished the shotgun and made threats to restaurant patrons. Officers said they had not yet determined whether Baker shot himself during a struggle with Dixon or whether Dixon shot him.

Dixon was arrested Sunday afternoon at a Petaluma hospital where he had gone for treatment of minor injuries.

Officers said the case was still under investigation.

Dixon is to appear in municipal court tomorrow.

Library Branch To Be Discussed

The Santa Margarita Homeowners Association will consider a proposal for a Terra Linda branch of the San Rafael Library when it holds its annual meeting at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at Santa Margarita School.

The association also will consider acquisition of open space in the western portion of the Terra Linda valley, listen to a financial report and discuss activities of its emergency relief committee.

Entertainment will be provided by an impressionist.

OBITUARIES

Rite Set For Robert Levesque

Robert Levesque, partner in the Corte Madera furniture firm of French Brothers Marin, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 44.

A native of Maine, he moved to Marin County from San Francisco some three years ago, shortly before the furniture firm opened. The company has another branch in San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife Betty, and sons Robert Jr., and Michael, and a daugher, Nicole, all of the family home.

Other survivors include his brothers, Paul R. Levesque and Raymond J. Levesque, both of Daly City, Arthur J. Levesque of Oakland and a sister, Juliet Hall of Pittsfield, Mass.

Rosary services will be recited tonight at 8 p.m. at Daphne Funerals, Corte Madera. A requiem mass will be offered tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Sebastian's Church, 373 Bon Air Road, Kentfield. Burial will be private.

The family prevers memorial contributions to the Heart Association.

ANTONE SILVA

Antone F. Silva, lifelong Petaluma resident, died today in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 91.

Born and reared in Petaluma, he worked as a blacksmith-carpenter in the area before retiring many years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Juanita; two sons, Stanley Silva of Petaluma and Anthony B. Silva of Redwood City; two daughters, June Silva of Petaluma and Mrs. Carmelita Henke of Palo Alto; a sister, Marian Metcalfe of San Francisco; a brother, Alexander Silva-Brown of Vallejo; one grandchild and one great-grandchild.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent De Paul Church in Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Sorensen Funeral Home.

CARRIE SCHULER

Funeral for Carrie F. Schuler, 76, of Rohnert Park, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma.

Mrs. Schuler died Sunday at her home at 56 Adele Avenue after a short illness.

She was born and reared in Hampton, Va. and worked as a secretary for a real estate firm there before marrying her husband, William P. Schuler, in 1929.

Schuler, who worked 32 years for the old national advisory committee on aeronautics was an instrument research engineer, retired in 1957. The couple moved to Rohnert Park at that time.

Burial will be in Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Three Face Charges In Deer Killing

Two Novato men and a 17-year-old youth were arrested on suspicion of violating fish and game laws after a deer was killed on the Marin Country Club grounds early Sunday, according to Novato police.

Officers said the three, arrested in the 300 block of Fairway Drive at 12:16 a.m., had the freshly butchered hind quarter of a deer, a .22 caliber rifle, a bow with arrows and two hunting knives in their car.

Arrested were Alexander Zuel Osborn, 20, of 114 Palm Drive, and Ralph James Purtill, 20, of 98 Pico Vista, who were booked at Marin County Jail. The identity of the 17-year-old, who was taken to juvenile Hall, was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

After the arrest the remains of a male deer with hind quarters missing was discovered in the country club area, police said.

The three were arrested on suspicion of unlawful possession of a deer, carrying a loaded rifle in a car and using artificial light in tracking deer.

JOHN WILDE

Wilde, of 142 Stewart Drive, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 78.

Born in Berlin, Wilde lived much of his life in Spain, where he gained an appreciation of that country's wines. During World War I he was a lieutenant in the German army, and then returned to Spain.

He moved to San Francisco 23 years ago and founded an import-export firm, Atlantic and Pacific Trading Co., which imported Spanish wines and exported heavy machinery, pharmaceuticals and precision instruments.

Wilde retired in 1966 and he and his wife, Lilo, moved to Tiburon. There he wrote and published two books, "Truth About Wine" and "Memories of a Real old Winemaker." He was working on a third volume, a comprehensive book on wine, when he died.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Lawrence of Boston; a daughter, Carmen Oryall of San Francisco; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society.

LILLIAN E. BUSCHMANN

Funeral for Lillian E. Buschmann, 54, of Novato, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Mrs. Buschmann, wife of Warren W. Buschmann of 30 San Aleso Court, died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness.

She had been employed as a receptionist by Roberts and Aquirre Mobile Homes Sales for five years. She was a native of California and had been a resident of Marin for 25 years.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two daughters, Barbara Poole of Lucas Valley and Jayne O'Calaghan of Santa Venetia; a son, David Buschmann of Novato, and six grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

MARIAN D. TRAVERSE

A Mass of the Resurrection for Marian D. Traverse, 65, a housewife, of San Rafael, will be celebrated at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Sylvester's Church, San Rafael.

Mrs. Traverse was the wife of Cletus J. Traverse, commodore of the Marin Yacht Club in 1964 and formerly in the food market business in the East Bay.

She died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Traverse of 62 Dunfries Terrace was a native of San Francisco and had lived in Marin for four years but the family had kept its boat at the Marin Yacht Club for many years.

She was a member of Chi Omega, Mortar Board and Prytenean at the University of California at Berkeley and was senior women's editor of the Daily Cal.

Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Hayward. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Chapel, San Rafael. The family prefers that memorial contributions be to the American Cancer Society or Hanna's Boys Center, Sonoma.

ROBERT LEE

Mass of the Resurrection for Robert Edward Lee of Ross will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo.

Lee, a retired plant foreman for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., collapsed in the backyard of his home at 42 Woodside Way Sunday evening. He was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital. He was 71.

The Marin County coroner's office said an autopsy is pending and that Lee had a history of heart problems.

Lee, born in New Hampshire, lived 38 years in Marin County. He retired 10 years ago, after 45 years with the telephone company. He was a member of the Telephone Pioneers in America and of the Marin Chapter, Sons In Retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Marion A. Lee of the home; two daughters, Janet Lockett of San Rafael and Joan Hubb of Cotati; five sisters, Cora Gorman, Ruth Pepin, Lucille Mitchell and Doris McKinney, all of Seattle, and Margaret Pease of Edmonds, Wash., and four grandchildren.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in Keaton's Chapel, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

TORNADO PATH — There was little left of Brent, Ala., today after a tornado ripped through the town yesterday clearing everything in a path a mile wide and four miles long. The twister destroyed 95 per cent of the business district and 300 homes in the town of 2,000, leaving four dead. Total death toll in Alabama was eight. (UPI Telephoto)

New Series Of Twisters Wallops South, Midwest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Another series of tornadoes swooped on the South and Midsest yesterday from a storm system that has spawned the worst onslaught of tornadoes in the nation's history.

Violent weather and floods have killed at least 40 persons since Friday.

The National Weather Service in Washington said 160 tornadoes hit the nation between noon Friday and noon yesterday in the worst 72-hour period on record. More than 600 twisters have occurred since January, also a record.

Alabama, with eight deaths, was the hardest hit by the Memorial Day holiday tornadoes that also killed five persons in Keefeton, Okla., three in Jonesboro, Ark., and one each in Panama City, Fla., Laurel, Miss., and Athens, Ga.

The latest tornado victim was Mrs. Barbara Lively, 52, who was killed late yesterday when three tornadoes hit Athens, site of the University of Georgia about 60 miles northeast of Atlanta. Athens Mayor Julius Bishop said the damage appeared to be worse than a March storm that caused some $22 million damage. Large parts of the city were without power and National Guardsmen rushed three generators to help meet the power crisis.

The North Carolina twisters were reported in Charlotte and Albemarle, but damage was minor and no injuries were reported. Several houses were damaged by a tornado near Greenville, S.C.

Flash flooding killed seven persons in the North Carolina mountains around Asheville and National Guardsmen were rushed to the area to help find stranded campers and prevent looting. Preliminary estimates of damage to roads and bridges in the Asheville area alone ranged up to a half million dollars. Some communities were isolated by mud slides that blocked roads.

A tobacco farmer at Louisburg, N.C., Sherill Lester, was struck by lightning and killed yesterday afternoon when a thunderstorm caught him plowing his field.

Gov. George C. Wallace toured Alabama's hardest hit area yesterday and said the tornadoes "just destroyed the town of Brent."

The storm wiped out about 95 per cent of the business district and at least 300 homes in the town of 2,000. Most of the residents have left town, at least temporarily.

Of the eight persons killed by tornadoes across north and central Alabama, four lived in Brent. Among the more than 100 persons injured statewide, about half are from Brent.

Wallace said an unofficial preliminary estimate put damage at $20 million in Alabama.

Weather officials said the twisters created the worst natural disaster in Alabama in 41 years. On March 21, 1932, tornadoes struck several Alabama communities, killing 268 persons and injuring 2,000 others.

Severe thunderstorms and torrential rains pounded the east last night, particularly the metropolitan New York area. About 12 homes were damaged by high winds at Mount Olive and Flanders, N.J. Wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour were reported at New York's Kennedy Airport.

Symphony Wins Berlin Applause

BERLIN (AP) — The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and its Japanese conductor won sustained applause yesterday night from a knowledgeable public in the West Berlin Philharmonic Concert Hall.

It was a well received performance by the orchestra, little known here, and a popular return for 37-year-old Seiji Ozawa, who studied here under Herbert von Karajan.

This was a reference to both a smooth performance and the financial backing from a California oil company and a bank that sent the San Franciscans on their first European tour.

Der Abend criticized the program selected by the San Franciscans for their single Berlin appearance.

The orchestra opened with "The Roman Carnival Overture" by Berlioz, followed by Bernstein's "Serenade for Violin and Orchestra" before the intermission. The final piece was Tschaikovsky's Symphony No. 4.

Four Are Killed In Gilroy Crash

GILROY (AP) — Four persons were killed when a trailer truck carrying a carnival ride veered into oncoming traffic on a crowded mountain highway, struck two cars, and plunged over a 300-foot cliff, the California Highway Patrol said.

Officers said the accident occurred yesterday about 20 miles east of here on State Route 152 as the carnival truck, driven by Edwin (Sonny) Catwell, in his late 20's, of San Francisco, was westbound downhill. The truck veered off the road into a bank, then crossed over into the eastbound lane where it hit one car and demolished a house trailer attached to it.

Then the truck collided headon with a second auto, breaking it into four fragments, before ripping through a guardrail and plummeting 300 feet down a cliff, the CHP said.

Catwell and his passenger, Charles Grimsley Jr., 23, of Utah, were killed as were two occupants of the second auto — Ernest H. Sorensen, 64, of Altadena, the driver, and Agnes Schefcik, 73, of Pasadena.

Hand Found On Beach At Bolinas

A Modesto man leading a Boy Scout hike along the beach at Bolinas made a grisly find Saturday afternoon — a left hand resting palm down at the water's edge.

Deputy County Coroner Bill J. Thomas reported yesterday that his office was trying to get fingerprints from the hand, found at 5:30 p.m. He said it was the hand of a caucasian adult, presumably a male.

Nothing else was found in the area of the discovery, about 100 yards north of Brighton Avenue, he reported. He said it was undetermined if the hand had been cut off or fell off through decomposition. He estimated it had been in the sea for less than one month.

The Modesto man, Mike McCarthy, 34, put it in a plastic bag and turned it over to sheriff's deputies in Bolinas.

Tests At Nuclear Site Not Atomic

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (UPI) — The booms coming from this nuclear testing ground this week are made by conventional explosives.

The Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday it will set off a number of explosions, using charges up to 265 pounds, to study "cratering effects." The blasts will be heard off the test site, and might kick up a big dust cloud, the AEC said, but will cause no damage elsewhere.

The AEC normally uses the testing ground for underground detonation of nuclear explosives and weapons.

Murder Trial Is Set For Sonoma Student

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma State College student Eloy Farias is due to go to trial June 26 in Sonoma County Superior Court on charges of murdering a former girl friend and her mother.

Judge John Moskowitz set the trial date Friday after refusing to reduce the first degree murder charges against Farias to voluntary manslaughter.

Farias's attorney, Robert Y. Bell, had argued that evidence at a preliminary hearing showed that the slayings of Debra Lee Henthorn, 19, and Nancy Lee Henthorn, 42, were not planned in advance. He said Farias, a 21-year-old baseball player from Geyserville, was carrying a gun for self-protection.

Moskowitz ruled, however, without further comment, that there was enough evidence to hold Farias for trial on the murder counts. The judge also denied a motion to grant bail.

The student has been held in jail since his arrest March 30 on suspicion of killing the two-women at their Geyserville home. Police said Farias was upset when the daughter rejected his proposal of marriage.

Whitlam Plans Washington Visit

CANBERRA (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam says the relationship between Australia and the United States is so close that he doesn't have to wait for an official invitation to visit Washington.

Whitlam said today he would visit Washington on his way from Mexico to Canada to attend a conference in early August.

The Australian prime minister was asked in parliament whether he had been invited by President Nixon to the White House. There has been a marked coolness in relations between the two countries caused by Whitlam's criticism of Nixon's Vietnam bombing policy early this year.

Four Cows Killed By Falling Tree

Four cows, valued at $1,000 were killed at noon yesterday when a large oak tree on the Silveira ranch, north of Jacinto Drive, toppled onto them, according to Novato police.

At first it was believed that children might have been trapped by the fallen tree, but it turned out to be livestock, Fire Chief Jack Kidder said.

9 ways to cut your phone bill.

Typical phone bills are up 50% in the last 10 years. These 9 tips can help you beat the crunch and save (on a $300 annual phone bill) up to $75. One of 44 articles and features in the JUNE Reader's Digest

Solving the energy problem will be expensive. For you as well as for us.

More costly fuel supplies, construction schedule delays, high interest rates, inflation and the increasing costs of protecting the environment all add up to higher utility rates.

At PG&E we're doing everything we can to provide you with reliable gas and electric service and to keep rates as low as possible. But rates are higher today and they'll continue to increase.

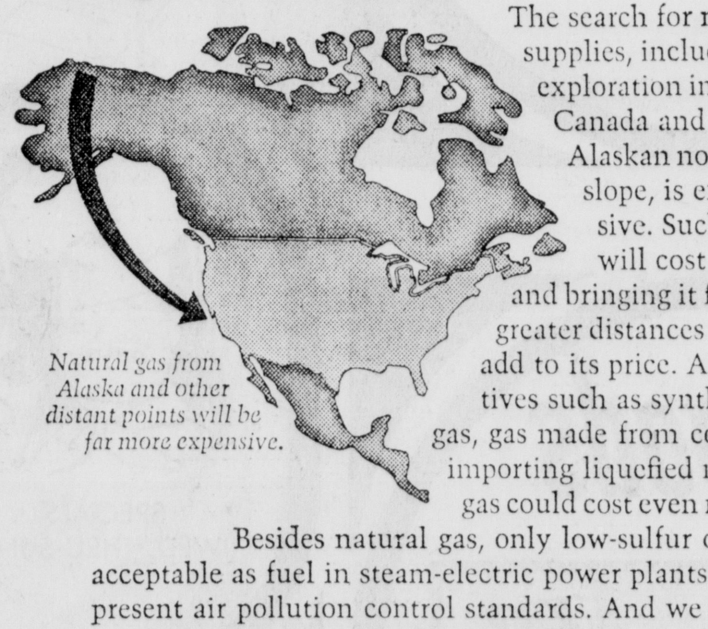
Last year we spent $48 million to help improve the environment, including undergrounding power lines.

Higher fuel costs.



Natural gas from Alaska and other distant points will be far more expensive.

The search for new gas supplies, including exploration in Canada and the Alaskan north slope, is expensive. Such gas will cost more and bringing it from greater distances will add to its price. Alternatives such as synthetic gas, gas made from coal, and importing liquefied natural gas could cost even more.

Besides natural gas, only low-sulfur oil is acceptable as fuel in steam-electric power plants under present air pollution control standards. And we have to pay high premium prices for low-sulfur oil.

(When the costs of oil and natural gas go up, so must electric rates, because most of our steam-electric power plants are fueled by gas or oil.)

Construction schedule delays.

Regulatory procedures, involving 30 or more public agencies, are taking longer and longer. And new laws have established more complicated procedures for plant siting and construction. All these slow down construction schedules, and inflation alone is adding substantially to costs during these periods of delay.

Environmental costs.

It costs more to put power lines underground, to build and landscape esthetically pleasing plants, to minimize stack emissions and to cool the water discharged from power plants. During the period 1973-76, PG&E's environmental costs will exceed $300 million.

Higher interest rates.

Utilities are "capital intensive" industries. That means money to build new facilities must be raised—in vast sums. Our construction program this year will exceed $600 million. And interest rates have risen from about 4½% in 1965 to about 7½% today, which adds more millions to the cost of gas and electric service.

All these things, plus the inflationary pressures which affect every business, add up to higher costs for us and higher rates for our customers.

The era of plentiful energy at bargain rates is ending. Our job is to hold down costs wherever possible, without sacrificing the environment or the quality and reliability of your service. We're working hard to meet that challenge.

You can help—by not wasting gas and electricity and by understanding the reasons why your utility bill is going up. Like almost everything else.

Stocks Are Mixed With Light Trade

Some analysts said news that the government's composite index of economic indicators fell for the first time in 30 months last April had dampened the buying enthusiasm that carried stocks sharply higher last week.

Among other negative outside developments, the dollar dipped sharply on European foreign markets, with a corresponding jump in the price of gold buillion exchanged.

W.T. Grant was most actively traded and fell ⅜ to 17 ¾ on 65,900 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange posted gains in quiet trading. Syntex led the actives, up ¼ at 68 ⅛ on 19,200 shares.

Gold mining stocks strengthened as the price of gold increased on foreign markets. Dome Mines rose 1 ⅞, Campbell Red Lake 1 ¾, and Homestake Mining 1 ⅝.

Glamors moved irregularly. Polaroid gained 1 ⅜, and ARA Services 1, While Corning Glass lost 1 ¼, and Xerox 1.

Superior Oil rose 1 ½, and Getty ½, but Atlantic Richfield fell 1, among irregular oils.

Steels were a little stronger, but motors, airlines and aircrafts and rails mostly lost in fractions.

Record Deficit

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has posted a record deficit in its overall balance of payments for the second consecutive month. The net outflow for April totaled $1.16 billion, compared with a $1.09 billion deficit in March and a $157 million surplus a year earlier, the finance ministry reported Friday.

INVESTING

Sale Of Securities Is Advised

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We hold the enclosed list of securities and would appreciate your advice as to holding or selling. We also have $5,000 to invest for capital protection and income. All securities are held at lower than current prices. — W.W.

A. The 14 issues in your portfolio have a current value of $60,000 and yield an average of 4.7 per cent. While this rate could be lifted appreciably by selling your two lowest return oil issues, their appreciation potential in my opinion is sufficient to override such a decision.

I would suggest sale of the small holding in low yield Inter. Tel. & Tel. (NYSE). U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty is heading into a slower period of earnings which has been reflected in recent price action. Sale is advised.

From these two sales and the additional capital now available, I would suggest buying 11M St. Joseph Light & Power 9 1/8s of 1976. This first mortgage bond is A-rated and non-callable.

At current trading levels the issue's yield of 8.9 per cent more than compensates for the small capital loss you would sustain at maturity. These revisions in your portfolio will provide annual income of $3,515 for an average yield of 5.4 per cent.

Q. In moving from one home to another I have apparently lost two Series-E Savings Bonds. How do I go about replacing them? — A.M.

A. You should report this loss to the Chicago office of the Treasury's Bureau of Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605. When serial numbers of lost bonds are known, form PD1048 should be completed and forwarded to the above address.

Duplicate bonds will usually be issued within 6 months. However, if these numbers are not known all other pertinent information — series, face value, time of purchase, name and address of owner plus numbers on bonds still in owner's possession — should be included when reporting the loss.

ONDINA HARDY
Wins Scholarship

Youth Wins Award Given By Realtors

Ondina A. Hardy, a 17-year-old senior at Terra Linda High School, is the 1973 winner of the $500 Archie Culpepper Award, given annually by the Marin County Board of Realtors.

Miss Hardy received the award at this morning's breakfast meeting of the board of realtors at the Corte Madera Lions Club. She is the fourth young lady in succession to be so honored. The award perpetuates the memory of Archie Culpepper, the long-time Marin Board of Realtor member and past president.

Miss Hardy plans to use the $500 gift for part of her education at the University of California at Berkeley. She is president of her senior class and the speech team at Terra Linda High School and is captain of the debate squad.

She has worked for many fund-raising projects, won honors for public speaking on local and state levels, participated in a summer forensics institute at University of San Francisco and graduated with honors from a Chinese Language School.

Miss Hardy is the daughter of Mrs. Ornella M. Hardy of San Rafael, an employee of Wells Fargo Bank.

Runners-up in the Culpepper competition were Teresa Yang and Thomas Elkjer, both Terra Linda High School; Jeffrey Escabar, Sir Francis Drake High School, and Daryl Weinroth and Joseph Robinson, both Novato High School.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By WAT TAKESHITA

Interior Design, Woodwork Are San Rafael Firm's Specialty

All-Heart Construction, which specializes in interior design and ornate woodwork, has opened for business at 517 Jacoby Street No. 7 in San Rafael. It is located in a building near the Golden Gate Transit District bus base.

All-Heart Construction is owned by David Mitchell of Glen Ellen, who has been in the woodworking business for seven years, operating out of his home. He moved his operations from his home into San Rafael to meet expanding business in Marin.

Mitchell is the designer-builder who did the interior of the Trident Restaurant in Sausalito several years ago. He also installed the entrance and interior at Emperor's Gate art gallery in Sausalito, the Aus Relais restaurant in Sonoma City and the Record Plant at 2200 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

Mitchell custom-builds everything from boxes and stereo cabinets to wall murals and interiors of large structures. He is also building a 17-foot sailboat entirely out of wood.

STEINAU & KURTZMAN Architects and Associates will open as a new partnership on June 1 at 81 Beach Road in Tiburon.

Principals are Allan Steinau, mayor of Belvedere, and Kenneth Kurtzman of San Francisco, who was associated with Hardison & Komatsu architects in San Francisco for the past five years.

Steinau

Mitchell

Steinau has been an architect since 1957, the last 10 years in Marin. Kurtzman, his new partner, formerly lived in Mill Valley and worked for him from 1963 to 1968.

GOOD VI'S, the panthouse at Northgate Mall which features Levi's, will open a new branch in Vallejo on Aug. 1, exactly two years since the opening of the Northgate store in Terra Linda.

ROBERT J. CORDARO and R. DAVID MUIR of Larkspur, partners in Good Vi's, announced that the Vallejo store will be at 339 Georgia Street. It will have the same motif as the Northgate shop, with a full range of Levi's for men, women, boys and girls, plus shirts, sweaters and belts.

Muir

Cordaro

Cordaro and Muir announced that SCOTT BANKS of San Francisco and RANDIE BLAIR of Greenbrae will be manager and assistant manager, respectively, at the Northgate store. Both Banks and Miss Blair have been with Good Vi's since its opening.

Banks

Blair

In addition to the new store in Vallejo, Good Vi's plans to open a chain of six to eight stores in the next few years.

RON RIXMAN CARVING, a new firm that specializes in custom wood carving, has opened at 59 Deluca Place in San Rafael, near Bret Harte Super market.

Rixman, who lives in Fairfax, custom carves waterbed frames and remodels the interiors of motorhomes and some conventional homes. He does some retailing but mostly wholesale work.

Rixman owned clothing stores in Columbus and Athens, Ohio, for about two years before coming to Marin four months ago. He has been woodcarving for about eight years.

MAGNOLIA FABRIC Shoppe, formerly located at 1115 Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, has opened at its new location at 5587 Paradise Drive in Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera.

The new store, next to Aquatics From Paradise tropical fish store, will have the same business hours as in the past — 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

THOMAS V. PARKS of San Rafael, who operated Parks Auto Electric in San Rafael for 16 years, has been named to a key post with the Bureau of Automotive Repair in Sacramento.

He is the bureau's program manager for the official stations branch, which supervises stations that install and inspect smog devices, lights and brakes throughout the state.

Parks served with the United States Marines for eight years and came out a captain in 1954. That year, he took over Parks Auto Electric, which his father had started in 1937 and operated it until 1970. He then worked for several auto agencies in Marin and as assistant service manager for Menzies Foreign Cars in San Francisco until his appointment to the state post.

Parks said he plans to continue living in San Rafael.

GERALD B. WEISS of San Rafael was elected to membership in the San Francisco chapter of the Administrative Management Society. He is president of Data Research Inc. in San Francisco.

Administrative Management Society seeks to develop the science of better management through the office and professional growth of office executives.

LAWRENCE R. JACKSON of San Rafael has been promoted to assistant manager of Bank of America's Montecito Center office in San Rafael, Manager Harvey L. Hukkanen announced.

Jackson, 27, is a graduate of San Jose State College with a bachelor's degree in business and industrial management. After two years in the United States Army, Jackson joined the bank's office in Mill Valley in 1971. In 1972, he was assigned to the Montecito Center office as a loan officer.

Drug Case Charges Dismissed For Five

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Indictments against four Marin County men and a Peninsula resident charging possession of cocaine with intent to distribute it, have been dismissed in U.S. District Court by Judge Lloyd Burke.

The dismissal came on motion of the attorney general as the five appeared in court Friday to begin trial on the charges, according to the federal court clerk's office. The prosecutor, Paul J. Fitzpatrick, was unavailable today for the reason for his motion.

Freed by the dismissal were Thomas F. Steinberg, 23, and Frank J. Keicher, 21, both of Sausalito; Louis J. Katzberg, 25, of Mill Valley; Gregory J. McGuire, 26, of San Anselmo, and Stephen D. Moran, 21, of Palo Alto.

They were among eight persons arrested last December by federal agents, who said they negotiated with three men to buy five pounds of cocaine, then arrested five persons at the rendezvous point in a Burlingame motel and three more in Sausalito.

Charges against three of the eight were dismissed in December for lack of evidence.

Short Lifetimes

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — California's Department of Public Health, urging that no nostalgia be wasted on the "good old days," medically speaking, has found a graveyard in the town of Mendocino to illustrate its point. Gravestones showed that in one family there were 11 children, none of whom lived longer than 12 years.

Airwest Seeks Tahoe Service

RENO (AP) — Hughes Air West has applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to serve the Lake Tahoe area through Reno International Airport, officials here said.

Reno Airports Manager Gene Juilfs says he has received notice the airline wants Reno designated as the airport serving Lake Tahoe.

Starting today,
Wm. Timmer Realty
has made all other forms of buying or selling a home totally obsolete.

Because starting today, he's introducing a whole new way to buy and sell a home. It's called Video Homes Selectra TV. And he's the only exclusive member of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network
MARIN COUNTY

Here's how it works:

If you have a home for sale, you call your Video Homes Selectra TV Network member and he'll put a tour of your home on video tape. So instead of dragging a lot of lookers around to your home, he'll give them the tour in front of the TV monitor in his office. The people he does bring finally will probably make you an offer and close the deal.

Or if you want to buy a home, instead of spending two or three days looking at homes that don't quite make it, you take a couple of hours to find the home that's just right.

And if you're moving out of town, he'll arrange to show you what your new community is like and a tour of the homes that best suit your needs. So you can decide before you ever spend a dime on travel.

In every community there's only one real estate broker who's way ahead of everyone else. Starting today, you know who that is in your community. And he knows who it is in every community in the country. Because they're all members of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network, the original coast-to-coast network that makes buying and selling homes as easy as an afternoon in front of the TV.

40-Foot Sloop Pulled From Rocks

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A 40-foot sloop which ran aground about 10 miles north of here was pulled off the rocks yesterday and towed to San Francisco Bay.

Six persons aboard the fiberglass sloop "Tenacity" were rescued after the vessel went aground in two feet of water on the rocky Pacific coast Sunday night.

The owner-captain, Rolfe C. Croker, 47, of 1 Laurel Avenue, Belvedere, had told the Coast Guard he would have a private firm attempt to salvage the vessel, even though she was lying on her side on the rocks.

Some of the six persons aboard rowed through the surf to shore, while others were picked up by Coast Guard helicopter.

Besides Croker, president of Pacific Coast Title Co. in San Rafael, others aboard the sloop were Doug Best, 22, Les W. Brilliant, 43, Mike Brilliant, 15, and Murray Connick, 16, all of Belvedere, and Lisa Jane Shuey, 22, of Kentfield.

Bill Gives Right To Television Newsmen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Television newsmen, who want to cover California's legislature on an equal basis with the printed media, apparently will soon have that right in the Assembly, at least.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, chairman of the powerful Assembly Rules Committee, said yesterday he will carry a measure to guarantee that "TV reporters will be treated on an equal basis with the pencil press." However, it would apply only to the Assembly.

Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, vice chairman of the Rules Committee, said he favored such a provision but warned television reporters not to abuse the privilege by making the lawmakers unfairly look like "clowns."

"When the newspapers say it's a circus here, that is one thing," he said. "But when you show the circus on television, that's something else."

Current Assembly rules state that television crews have the privilege of filming without prior consent of lawmakers. But the actual practice is that committee chairman have given any individual assemblyman the right to revoke the privilege.

Burton said his resolution would clarify that TV crews have the right to film any segment of a public meeting regardless of an individual lawmaker's wishes. It also will spell out new regulations on lighting and other aspects of filming committee sessions.

Record Established For Drunk Driving

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Don Pedro, 71, a pensioner with no fixed address, has received his 551st conviction for drunkenness in Perth Police Court.

"It's incredible," the magistrate said, and added he couldn't think of anything else to do with Pedro, so he jailed him for 14 days.

Public Shut Out From Too Many Meetings

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
10 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

On May 15, the Sausalito City Council went into closed session to discuss hiring a building inspector and a clerk.

On May 16, the Larkspur City Council went into closed session to discuss salary negotiations with city employees.

On May 17, the Cotati City Council went into closed session to discuss a charge that the police chief had been disrespectful in answering compalints about dogs.

On May 21, the Ross School District board went into closed session to hear reasons why three pupils had been suspended.

On May 22, the Novato City Council went into closed session to discuss complaints that have arisen from the resignation of Police Chief Allen V. Klemme.

That same day, the Marin County Board of Supervisors went into closed session to discuss salary negotiations.

ALL THESE sessions were legal — assuming that the only matters discussed were those given as the reasons for shutting out the public.

The Novato City Council has inaugurated a policy of having breakfast "briefing" sessions. These are announced. They are not closed to the public. Therefore they are legal; but they somewhat pervert the purpose of open meetings by forcing any member of the public who wants to hear what's going on to buy breakfast and then strain his ears to catch what's being said at another table.

SOMETIME prior to May 16, two members of the county board of supervisors, three judges, and several county aides met in closed, unannounced session for a different sort of purpose.

The supervisors, at their regular meeting the preceding week, had created a new county conglomerate department which placed the probation department under Betty L. Presley of public social services (welfare). Judges protested that the board could not do that. They insisted that the probation department must be answerable directly to the court.

And so, the supervisors (or two of them), the judges (or three of them), and staff members who hold no elective positions met privately to restructure the previous restructuring of county government.

The legality of that one may be open to question.

HOWEVER, the test of legality should not be the sole test regarding closed meetings of public bodies.

The law is there only because public bodies forgot the nature of their responsibilities so often that it was necessary to enact legislation to remind them.

There should be no need for a Ralph M. Brown Act. There is no need for the legal devices used to avoid its intent.

FAITH IN government is at an ebb right now. It is at an ebb because the public is learning of things done secretly by those entrusted with its national government.

The excuse for most of the secrecy has been "national security."

This is probably a better excuse than our local officials can offer for the increasing number of closed-door sessions. But it is not good enough.

Faith in government grows as the government operates openly, plainly answerable to the people. It declines whenever the government seeks secrecy, whatever its reason.

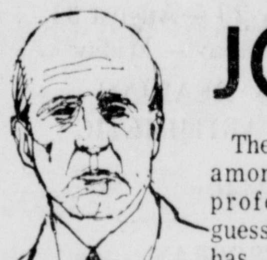
JOSEPH C. HARSCH: Watergate, Politics



The great new game among the political professionals is a guessing game. Who has been helped or hurt by Watergate?

Obviously, not even a Jim Farley could be entirely certain about how the dust (mist?) will settle from it all. But it is obvious that the fortunes of all men in both parties who hope to succeed Richard Nixon in January of 1977 have been touched and changed. Some have been helped and some have been hurt. Herewith, one Washington-watcher's preliminary thoughts about the gains and losses:

THE DEMOCRATS in general are the big gainers. Watergate has lifted them out of their Nixon-landslide doldrums of 1972. The assumption of a long-term "new majority" for Mr. Nixon and his chosen successor has been replaced by a scramble among most Republicans to get themselves clear of both Watergate and Mr. Nixon himself. The practical question is how and whether Republicans who are up for re-election in 1974 can get themselves untainted.

The "new majority" has been severely damaged, not only by Watergate, but also by the disenchantment of George Meany of the AFL-CIO with Nixon economic policies. In other words the Democrats no longer have to assume that the great craft unions now belong to the Republicans. Labor again is worth wooing. And the Democrats no longer have to assume that they are almost certain losers in 1976. The nomination certainly is worth seeking.

Among the Democrats who presumably are seeking that nomination the biggest gainer would seem to be Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who has solid union labor support, a conservative record on military and foreign policy matters, and is untainted by the slightest breath of scandal or impropriety. If the voters of 1976 are looking for someone untouchable in the ethical department, Senator Jackson would make an ideal candidate. Senator Kennedy would not. His chances at a 1976 nomination are probably at an all-time low. Probably he should be scratched now from any list of serious prospects.

AMONG REPUBLICANS the most plausible gainer is Nelson Rockefeller, who has been happily out of Washington and totally untouched by Watergate and never has been a political ally of Richard Nixon. If Nixon ideology and Nixon tactics continue to be a Republican liability (as they are right now), he could well be the beneficiary.

Obviously, John Connally of Texas is assuming the contrary: that the Nixon blessing will have regained value by 1976. He alone has sought closer identification with Mr. Nixon at the height of Mr. Nixon's ordeal. If there is gratitude in politics, he stands to be the beneficiary — provided, of course, that the Nixon blessing will be worth having in 1976.

Spiro Agnew would be the gainer only if Watergate should lead to a Nixon resignation. In that event — possible though unlikely — Mr. Agnew would be President and would, of course, inherit the usual advantage of being the incumbent when 1976 arrived.

But barring a Nixon resignation or conviction on impeachment, Mr. Agnew probably has lost ground for the same reason Hubert Humphrey did when he was vice president. Lke Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Agnew has "overfulfilled quota" in loyalty to his President. Mr. Humphrey never got himself out from under the LBJ shadow during the 1968 campaign. It's extremely difficult to see how Mr. Agnew could at this late date get out of the Nixon shadow.

If required to take a wild guess and identify the most likely next president of the United States, we would incline right now to pick Senator Jackson.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Survivor Of Chinese Revolution Questions Need For Watergate

PEKING — In the silence of the sleeping city, in the solemn quiet of a large, brightly lighted conference room in the Great Hall of the People, this amazing man talks of the past, present and future. Premier Chou En-lai speaks with the unassuming confidence, the sureness of self and the selfless goals beyond personal destiny that have seen him through adventures enough to fill a dozen lives.

In a discussion of nearly three and a half hours, beginning shortly before 11 o'clock at night, he talks about the ships of the Russian fleet that passed through the Taiwan Strait, about the developing relationship with the United States, about the perfidy of the Soviet Union, the Watergate affair, China's cultural revolution, his friendship with Henry Kissinger, America's role in Europe, the bombing of Cambodia. Although his voice is seldom raised, the gestures of his sensitive hands give eloquent emphasis to his major points.

THE PRELIMINARY to such a meeting is familiar. We are alerted in the early evening to expect a call to go to the Great Hall of the People, about 10 minutes from the Peking Hotel. As we enter the conference room he comes in from another door, and again this is familiar, to greet us.

Yet, anticipated as the formality is, the presence of this slight man in the gray Mao suit, looking younger than his 75 years, is a stunning surprise. For Chou En-lai is the living embodiment of the turbulent, agonizing, slashing rebirth of the most populous nation in the world.

The son of a high mandarin family, he joined the revolution early after a brilliant career in the Whampoa Military Academy in Canton. A former associate of Chiang Kai-shek when Chiang had formed an alliance with the Communist party, Chou fought in the early battles under Chiang against the forces bent on destroying the "Red bandits."

Later joining the revolutionary forces under Mao Tse-tung, he was one of the survivors of the 6,000-mile-long march to the retreat in northwest China where the first Chinese soviets were established. This epic band endured the snows of high mountain passes, hunger, fierce heat, constant assault from Chiang's troops and those of regional war lords. They crossed the boiling Yangtze River on a high cable suspension bridge from which the planks had been removed by the attacking force in the belief this would stop them.

In the quiet of the Great Hall his past is like a film out of another age. Administering an extraordinary range of detail in every area of government, the premier drives himself as hard as ever he did.

ABOUT MIDWAY in our discussion he brought up Watergate. Why, he asked, laughing, must there be a Watergate? Some people, he felt, were making use of it for ulterior purposes. He was not interested in the question of Watergate. Serious political talks should not depend on that sort of thing. These things are quite common at times like these in the rivalry between political parties. And, he wanted to know, could we be sure that the same sort of thing might not happen again in future elections?

An optimist on the developing relationship between Peking and Washington, he sees the establishment of missions of the two nations in their respective capitals as an encouraging forward step.

Several times Chou cited the communique signed in Shanghai at the end of President Nixon's visit in February 1972, and particularly the sentence stating that the Chinese living on both sides of the Taiwan Strait were Chinese, and both sides agree there is only one China. He attributed this sentence to Kissinger.

Reverting to the policy of John Foster Dulles, he said it was an error to assume that Dulles hoped to restore Chiang Kai-shek to the mainland. His goal, according to Chou, was to establish a claim to separate nationhood for Taiwan. To this the People's Republic was implacably opposed.

For that reason his government had made no effort to drive the Chiang troops off the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu that had been one of Dulles's constant preoccupations. Those islands are still occupied and they are shelled every other day, although the shelling is often symbolic. Quemoy and Matsu are Chiang's link to the mainland, a refutation of the claim to separate nationhood.

Following columns will give more of this far-ranging discussion. But so extensive was it that one must confess it can at best be suggestive of what way a sweeping review of the world as seen by the man who, with the sanction of Mao Tse-tung, directs the affairs of this vast land.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Marin Symphony Finds Cost Of Theater Burden

You have given our organization such fine coverage during our 1972-73 season that we were surprised to find the Marin Symphony omitted in your editorial regarding the use of the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building . . .

The Marin Symphony Association is one of the most consistent users of the auditorium, having booked the facilities a total of 14 times during the 1972-73 season, for performances by the Marin Symphony Orchestra, the Marin Youth Orchestra and the Orchestra Piccola. This does not include the performances we gave under the auspices of Youth in Arts, which perhaps makes more use of the facilities than any other organization.

In fairness to the rate schedule, we must correct the $600 per night week-end fee which you quoted. The charge is $400 for the use of the theater, $600 for the use of the exhibition hall. These prices are prohibitive to most of the local organizations, which is the reason our activities are on week nights, when the non-profit organizations are given one-half rates. The Marin Youth Orchestra, which for 18 years had performed on Sunday afternoons, had to be re-scheduled to a week night because of the cost. The Marin Music Chest, also with concerts on Sunday afternoons, was not given a special rate of $400, as mentioned in the editorial. Rather, they were given an extra grant by the board of supervisors from the transient-tax fund to offset the cost.

As one of the organizations involved for many years in working to obtain a county auditorium, we had no idea it would prove so expensive to use. As beautiful as it is, we find it a financial burden.

Denies Opposition To Moderate-Cost Housing

Pat Angle describes me and the Greenbrae-Kentfield residents opposed to the 272 condominium Bon Air development as being opposed to a "moderate-income development" in our neighborhood.

Unfortunately Miss Angle in search of a simplistic point failed to research the subject. The development is a high income condominium subdivision. Two hundred forty-two of the 272 units will be priced over $50,000. Many of us paid less than that for our homes . . .

As we have stated in front of the planning commission, we oppose the development for many good reasons . . .

There are those who say that the only way to provide adequate housing is to build and build everywhere. Usually these are developers who look upon Marin as a potential San Jose. They build and then they leave.

I am truly sorry that Pat Angle would sympathize with a developer from outside the community and put down a sincere effort on the part of many people to turn this area into an asset for the entire county. We do care about people.

BARBARA BOXER
Greenbrae.

(Unfortunately Mrs. Boxer, in trying to read a reporter's sympathies into a report of what was said at a hearing, appears to have mis-identified the reporter. It was Pat Perry, not Pat Angle, who reported in a story and column on the Pro-Total Environment Conference that Mrs. Boxer opposed moderate income housing in her neighborhood.—Editor.)

Historical Errors In Birthday Quiz

I have been a subscriber for many years to your very fine newspaper, and read it with pleasure, particularly the editorials which I consider one of the finer features of the paper. One of the very interesting and fact-reporting columns is the "Birthday Quiz". In the "Quiz" of May 16 I noted errors in historical facts which I desire to bring to your attention in the interest of young students of history of today. I refer to the quiz headed "Henry Fonda". Part of the error may have been typographical, but the other errors noted are definitely those of facts.

Henry Fonda was born in Grand Island, Neb., in 1905, not 1902 as stated in the quiz. More important: the Russo-Japanese war was fought in 1904-05, not 1902 as reported, beginning with the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1904 and ending with the annihilation of the Russian fleet by the Japanese navy under Admiral Togo in the Battle of Tsushima in 1905 . . .

Kitty Oppenheimer's Death Leaves Void

What a terrible loss the county has sustained in the death of Kitty Oppenheimer! Over the 21 years that she, miraculously, put on the "Sounding Board" program every week, including holiday weeks, without interruption, I kept telling myself that this day would come, but somehow her indefatigability almost had me persuaded that she was immortal.

Now the time has come when we will no longer have this remarkable person who, every week, hit upon the very issue of greatest concern to the citizens of Marin and put together an unbiassed presentation of both sides of that issue.

I realize that Kitty did a lot of other fine things, but the "Sounding Board" alone will entitle her to a permanent spot in the annals of Marin County history and in the hearts, and the minds, of all who knew her and listened to her outstanding public service program.

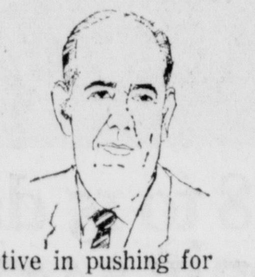
New Efforts To Improve Grand Jury System



By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts for reformation of the state's grand jury system are again under way in both houses of the Legislature. The struggle to update the grand jury has been going on for several years.

The functions of the grand jury are two- fold: the weighing of evidence in criminal matters, returning indictments when appropriate, and the reviewing of local government operations.

In this latter role the grand jury is intended to serve as the people's watchdog over its public affairs. For this reason the jurors traditionally have been a select group, chosen by the judges. But, increasingly it has been burdened with criminal matters, in some counties almost to the complete distraction of what should be its most important job.

Because of this heavy involvement in criminal cases there has been growing pressure to change the method of selection and make the membership more representative of a cross-section of the community.

THE IMPORTANCE of the grand jury as a body capable of auditing local government has bolstered resistance to such proposals. It is argued that random selection of grand jurors would weaken the system by placing persons on it who neither have the time nor the background for high level investigative work.

Assemblyman Ed Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, has been most active in pushing for reforms the past several sessions. His major effort has been for the establishment of two grand juries: one selected at random to deal exclusively with criminal cases and another being a blue ribbon panel for the more demanding task of overseeing local government. A similar proposal was made by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, while Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, had suggested making it optional with the counties.

Z'Berg's bill this session incorporates both ideas and has the backing of Att. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

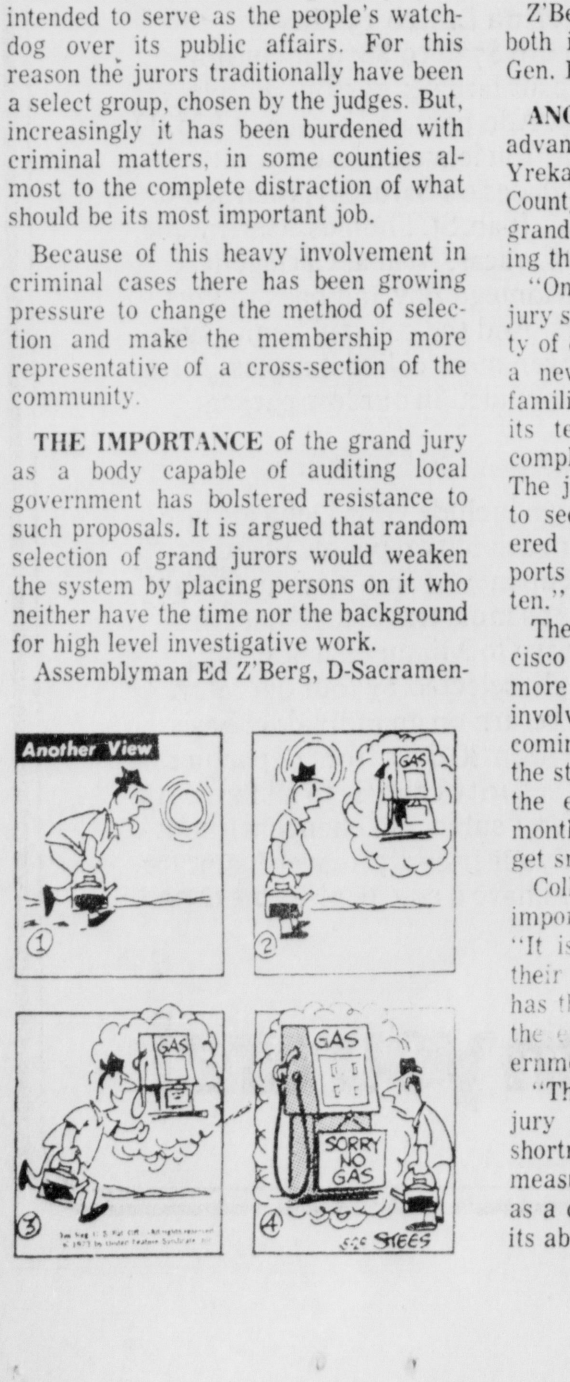
ANOTHER IDEA for change has been advanced by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, at the urging of the Siskiyou County Grand Jury. This would extend grand jury terms to two years, staggering the membership.

"One of the weaknesses of the grand jury system has been the lack of continuity of effort," Collier points out. "It takes a new jury several weeks to become familiar wth its job. When it finally gets its teeth into meaningful studies and completes its report, the year is over. The jurors are unable to follow through to see that situations they have uncovered are remedied. Most often the reports are simply filed away and forgotten."

The retiring foreman of the San Francisco Grand Jury, W.E. Goetze, put it more succinctly. Explaining the time involved in organizing a new jury, becoming oriented to the duties and making the studies and finalizing reports, he said the effective work time is only three months. "You grow old so quickly and get smart so late," he commented.

Collier said the grand jury is the most important agency of local government. "It is the link between the citizens and their government [illegible] agency which has the power [illegible] for the citizens the errors and ommissions of local government.

"The awesome powers which a grand jury posesses are often negated by the shortness of their time in office. My measure would establish the grand jury as a continuing body which would assure its ability to finish the jobs it starts."



THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

By the time they get around to making it legal for a private citizen to own gold it'll be priced so high he can't afford it.

All the gold a fellow has these days he can put in his tooth.

How come there's so much agitation for a return to the gold standard? What's wrong with our present credit-card standard?

The trouble with legalizing gold is that they'd then expect us to use it for paying our taxes.

Maybe it's time to again start digging gold out of the ground so we can bury it at Fort Knox.

'It's Hard To Keep Cast Straight In Washington's Soap Opera

WASHINGTON — It was May, 1975, and the Watergate hearings were still being televised every day. It was the longest show in the history of television and, like "The Forsyte Saga," it was hard to keep all the characters straight.

The Bilkin family sat in front of their set bleary-eyed, but determined to see it through.

On the stand was John Dean III who had been testifying every day for eight months.

MAUDE BILKIN said, "What a nice-looking boy. Tricia made a smart choice marrying him."

"Tricia isn't married to John Dean," Alan Bilkin said. "She's married to Jeb Magruder."

The Bilkins' 16-year-old daughter Ellie spoke up. "I thought Julie was married to Jeb Magruder and Tricia was married to Sen. Sam Ervin."

"No," said Joel, the 18-year-old son. "Sam Ervin is married to Martha Mitchell. Their son is Henry Kissinger."

Maude replied, "I thought Henry Kissinger was the nephew of John Ehrlichman."

ALAN BILKIN shook his head. "No, don't you remember last year it was revealed that Henry Kissinger was H. R. Haldeman's long-lost son?"

"That's right," Joel said. "And Henry Kissinger and Martha Mitchell were in love but they broke up when G. Gordon Liddy tapped their telephone."

"Didn't Martha Mitchell marry Maurice Stans?" Ellie asked.

"No, she married Robert Vesco and moved to Costa Rica," Maude said.

"I don't remember that," Alan said.

"You were working that day," Maude explained.

"WHAT HAPPENED to Dick Helms?" Alan asked.

"Dick Helms became the head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and lost a finger at Wounded Knee," Joel said.

"I thought Bebe Rebozo was at Wounded Knee," Ellie said.

"No, Bebe Rebozo became the governor of Florida when Daniel Ellsberg was appointed the head of the CIA," Alan said.

"Wasn't Daniel Ellsberg Patrick Gray's lawyer?" Maude asked.

"No, Ron Ziegler was Patrick Gray's lawyer. But then he resigned to become the commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps," Joel said.

"I thought Richard Kleindienst was made the commandant," Ellie said.

"No, Kleindienst became the head of ITT after Dita Beard moved to Denver," Alan said.

"IT DOES SEEM hard to follow," Maude said. "Let's listen."

Ellie said, "Dean seems to be talking about President Nixon."

"What happened to President Nixon?" Joel asked.

"He married Brezhnev's daughter," Alan said.

Maude replied, "It seems to me Spiro Agnew's son married Brezhnev's daugher. I think Nixon is still married to Pat."

"But if Nixon is still married to Pat, what happened to Donald Segretti?" Ellie asked.

"He was adopted by Senator and Mrs. Muskie and now lives in Maine with Jane Fonda," Alan said.

"I thought Jane Fonda had fallen in love with Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist," Joel said.

"I don't remember that," Maude said.

"You were shopping that day," Joel replied.

"Do you think John Dean will go to jail?" Ellie asked.

"I hope not," said Maude. "It would be awfully tough on Tricia."

Volkswagen Unveils Audi Fox In Detroit

By CHARLES E. DOLE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

DETROIT, Mich. — If Volkswagen had moved into the GM Technical Center for the day, the message could not have been sharper.

Here was one of the world's largest automakers, and an import at that, unveiling a new car in the very heartland of America's automaking genius. VW, in effect, was saying: "Here we are; and there's a lot more on the way."

And the new car? It's known as the Audi 80 in Europe; it's called the Fox in the U.S. A spunky little car, it is small in dimension but unusually roomy inside.

Its introduction does much more than funnel another import into the U.S. traffic stream. It points the way for the Volkswagen of tomorrow. VW plans to introduce a brand new car in the late fall, maybe not till December, and in size and concept it is expected to be very much like the new Audi Fox, especially from the windshield forward.

The new Audi entrant is a front-engine, front-wheel-drive car weighing a low 1,984 pounds, about the same as the VW Super Beetle. Its price, however, is almost $1,000 more — $3,399 for the two-door sedan compared to VW's $2,449.

Volkswagen has several other models in the works that could spell the demise of the rear-engine bug. J. Stuart Perkins, president of Volkswagen of America, Inc., says his firm "will have some interesting additions the next year or two."

Besides VW, several other importers are planning new car models for the U.S., among them Fiat, SAAB, Renault, and Toyo Kogyo, maker of the revolutionary Mazda with its twin-rotor engine known as the Wankel.

The Italian carmaker, Fiat, will bring in its new sports coupe, the X19, as a 1974 model. SAAB will import the last of its 96 models; while Renault has a couple of new cars on the way. Mazda will add the new RX-4 series and phase out all piston-engine cars.

The big news has to be Volkswagen and where it is going. Last February, for the first time in import history, the VW Beetle was second in total U.S. car registrations after the Chevrolet Impala —36,074 Impalas to 24,543 VW bugs. In third place was the Oldsmobile Cutlass. For the first two months of the year, the totals were: Impala 73,531; Beetle 50,181.

Among the small domestic sedans, the Chevrolet Vega checks in at 21,351; and the Ford Pinto, 19,038. In March the West German car importer sold 34,033 Beetles in the United States.

Yet even VW will admit that the familiar slope-nosed Beetle cannot go on forever. The famed Ford Model T had the garage door slammed after 15 million copies. The Beetle already has seized the longevity title from Ford and no other carmaker probably will ever see it.

So now, enter the Fox, a high-luxury compact at the upper low end of the market.

As for identity, many car buyers will ask: "Audi who?" or "Audi what?" Introduced in late 1969, the company sold a mere 7,691 in 1970. The next year sales jumped to 20,604; and were up to 28,764 in 1972. It was Audi that brightened the lights for VW after the U.S. tightened the import screws in the summer and fall of 1971, a time when VW sales themselves plunged precipitously.

Now the company's sales momentum has built up and sales are still expected to hit the half million mark this year, including the Porsche-Audi division. Audi sales for 1973 are projected at 52,500; and for next year, 72,000.

Porsche, named for the man who designed the prewar "people's car" known as Volkswagen, chalked up 13,600 sales in 1970 and 16,800 in 1971. By 1972 sales topped out at 20,600. By 1974, the importer looks for 100,000 sales for the division.

The Porsche, and even the Audi, are not bargain-basement cars. The lowest-priced Porsche, the two-passenger, midengine 914, sells for $4,499, while the base price for a 911 is $7,960. The Audi 100 LS, big brother of the Fox, sells, in its two-door version, for $4,150, but extras can jack up the price to close to $5,000.

East Coast prices for the Fox start at $3,399 for the two-door sedan. Automatic transmission is $245, while factory-installed air-conditioning goes for $395.

Not only did VW introduce the new car in Detroit's front yard, but it could be an embarrassment to the U.S. auto industry over emissions.

"The Fox was designed with the U.S. emissions standards in mind," declares John A. Cook, head of the Porsche-Audi division of VW of America. He adds: "There is a very good likelihood that we can meet the 1974 air-pollution interim standards, including California, without a catalyst." As for 1976, he says, "we're not talking about 1976 till the dispute over oxides of nitrogen is settled."

Several other foreign manufacturers, to the chagrin of the U.S. industry, have stated they can meet the 1975 standards, including two Japanese companies, Toyo Kogyo and Honda. Also, the Mercedes-Benz diesel is said to qualify.

Detroit is still sweating out the catalyst and has voiced doubts on the ability of the foreign antipollution systems to qualify on the larger-type engines generally offered by Detroit.

The only thing that could seriously dog the Audi is price. But VW doesn't seem too concerned as it peers over its back at the record.

Rocket Blast Peppers Belfast Catholic School

BELFAST (UPI) — Fragments from an exploding rocket aimed at a British Army post in Belfast peppered a nearby Roman Catholic nursery school today but caused no casualties, the army said.

An army spokesman said the Soviet-made RPG7 rocket exploded when it hit a fence surrounding the post, showering fragments on the Vere Foster school where 220 children were playing inside.

"It was a miracle none of the kids were hurt," the spokesman said.

Army sources said the attack could be the start of Irish Republican Army (IRA) offensive aimed at disrupting local government elections in Northern Ireland Wednesday.

More than 1,000 mourners attended the funeral yesterday of the 806th victim of almost four years of strife among minority Roman Catholics, majority Protestants and British forces.

He was 4-year-old Paul Crummey, a Catholic boy who was playing in his family's garden Saturday when he was hit by a stray bullet during an IRA attack on a British patrol in Belfast.

A wave of bombing and shooting attacks ceased Sunday and, except for a blast in which five Catholic children suffered shock. The lull continued Monday.

But British officers said they still expected the outlawed IRA —which seeks to unite Northern Ireland with the heavily Catholic Irish Republic —to launch an offensive aimed at disrupting local government elections Wednesday.

Preparing for the possibility, British commanders today mobilized the 9,000 man Ulster Defense Regiment militia to back up 17,500 troops and 4,500 police in guarding polling places and voters.

The militant Provisional wing of the IRA has urged Catholics to boycott the elections. Catholic politicians said the Provisionals have warned some candidates not to campaign and have assaulted some campaign workers.

In Dublin, the Irish government announced Monday it was dispatching two more battalions comprising 1,040 troops to strengthen anti-IRA security on its side of the border.

Though the Irish Republic believes in Irish unification as a long term goal, it opposes the IRA's campaign of violence.

Concerts Will Aid Autistic Children Class

Benefit concerts at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building Saturday and Sunday will donate net proceeds to the autistic children's class at Henry C. Hall School in Larkspur, according to the sponsors, Sausalito Is Spring.

Performing at 8 p.m. Saturday will be the Jerry Garcia/Merl Saunders group, Herbie Hancock and the Pointer Sisters.

The Sunday concert, also at 8 p.m., will feature Jesse Colin Young, Ramblin' Jack Elliott and Chris Williamson.

The Sausalito Is Spring also will hold an inaugural ball beginning at 8 p.m. Friday in Pepperland, San Rafael, featuring the Joy of Cooking, Nick Gravenites with Blue Gravy, Clover and Topaz groups.

Films On Modern Painters Slated

A series of six new color films on "Pioneers of Modern Painting" will be shown beginning June 21 and each Thursday through July 26 in the planning commission chambers of the Marin Civic Center.

The free series is sponsored by the county library. The first film, on Edouard Manet, will be shown at 12:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Congressional Probes

From 1792 to the present, Congress has exercised its right to investigate. Although there is no constitutional provision that expressly authorizes either house of Congress to make investigations, there is historical precedent. Such investigating power had been frequently used by the British Parliament and by the Assemblies of the American colonies. For many years, Congress's probes were limited to governmental departments. But the courts have since upheld the right to conduct investigations in many areas. The House conducted its first investigation in 1792 to study a severe defeat suffered by General St. Clair and his army against the Indians.

Abusive Parents Have Low Self-Image

By PAT BALMES

"The abusive parent thinks so poorly of himself that at first you could not believe his self-image is so low. The child he abuses is a wanted child," said psychiatric social worker Elizabeth Davoren of Tiburon, a pioneer researcher in the battered child problem.

"Abusive parents are going to have their own bad childhoods made up to them. They are going to have this baby and all will be well. They do not see the child as somebody with needs.

"One parent said, 'Nobody has ever loved me; I thought this baby was going to love me,' " she recalled adding that the child could never fulfill the parent's expectation of love.

Doing basic research with 100 child abusers in Denver between 1960-66, Mrs. Davoren thought many times before she considered placement, she said.

"We tried to keep the child in his home. Otherwise children are shunted to foster homes and nothing happens to alter his home situation," she said.

A VETERAN social worker, Mrs. Davoren was recruited by University of Colorado medical school physicians in 1960 to work on the first research project to find out why child abuse happens.

She had just had her first baby and her plan was to stay home. But the doctors asked her to "just see a few mothers of battered children," she said.

She became a researcher on their project, which was funded and stretched over the next six years, and was available 24-hours-a-day to people she was working with. It was an explosive situation — the child was back in the home where he had been battered, she said.

The team of researchers discovered techniques to work with these difficult parents. "We were hearing from all over the country, 'How do you do it?' " she said.

Their research was published in a hardback book, "The Battered Child" by Helfer and Kempe, by University of Chicago Press in 1968. Bess Dacoren wrote the chapter on the role of the social worker.

A native of New York City, Bess Davoren was graduated from Rutgers University in mathematics and worked on aircraft designs in World War II.

By the war's end she had realized she wanted to work directly with people. She came to San Francisco in 1945 when she was 20 and the Red Cross awarded her a scholarship to Simmons Graduate School of Social Work, an affiliate of Harvard University.

Her first Simmons placement in Boston was at the Children's Mission to Children agency, where children were received from the hospital to be placed in foster homes or group placement.

THERE Mrs. Davoren first saw "failure to thrive," a severe form of child neglect which is totally unintentional but can lead to death of an infant because the infant cannot live without psychological nurturing. The baby is fed by its parents but not nourished emotionally so food does no good, she explained.

At the same time she was employed at the New England home for Little Wanderers, a private agency for intake and study of disturbed children.

Completing her masters studies at University of Chicago, she worked for four years for United Charities in Chicago which was very strict about who could work with children, she said.

A boy whom she worked with for three years at first put his hands over his ears and screamed. She saw him two or three times a week and took him out on Saturdays, trying to make him trust an adult. His IQ improved from 71 to 120 during this time, she said.

In 1953 she married William Davoren, now an environmental officer for the Department of the Interior in San Francisco, and they moved to Denver where she worked at University of Colorado's Psychopathic Hospital as head of intake and in the child guidance clinic.

Next she headed psychiatric-social services at Denver General Hospital, retiring when she expected her first child in 1960, only to be summoned for the battered child research project.

"Real preventative work is helping the young mother. The child is probably formed during his first 18 months but the quality of his life is important.

"People need to be at peace with themselves; this preventative work has priority if we are going to survive as a civilization. Lay therapists are now used in Colorado, but you need very good professional people to supervise this program," she said.

"WHEN I moved to California in 1966 I thought I would forget about child abuse because it takes its toll; it used up a whole portion of me. First I want to raise my children," Mrs. Davoren said.

She has been asked to organize programs such as Child in Peril crash courses scheduled over weekends for teachers, social workers and other professionals.

She has appeared on panels, given college lectures and participated in a KQED Child Abuse Symposium. Everything she has done has been on a one-time basis, she said.

Mrs. Davoren just published her survey of probation officers, child welfare directors, protective services workers and heads of pediatric services in hospitals in California's 58 counties, conducted for the Rosenberg Foundation of San Francisco. Ninety-nine per cent reported need for expanded services of welfare and probation agencies, courts, hospitals, schools and private physicians to protect abused children and to provide treatment for abusing parents.

"We cannot leave children unprotected. They do not come free to society; they are expensive if they have to be institutionalized," she said.

To report a potentially dangerous situation where a child would be hurt, she advised that you call the police and say, "I am concerned . . . " You can remain anonymous; police will not reveal your name or you need not give it, she said.

According to Mrs. Davoren there is a new Marin County Interagency Committee on Child Abuse. Four members are representatives of public agencies which give protective services — Nancy Boggs of Marin County Probation Department; Jean Kimmick of Marin County Department of Public Social Services; Dr. Fredrick Phillips of Community Mental Health Center and Brenda Roberts of Department of Health Services. Calls should be funneled through chairman Boggs.

"I hope more professionals will learn what to do. Reports go up when there is a service available," said Mrs. Davoren.

The committee is an advisory and planning body for member agencies which provide services and programs for amelioration of child abuse cases which are reported to the committee, according to child psychiatrist Dr. Fredrick Phillips.

"WE ARE interested in treatment since prosecution seems not to be effective in preventing or ameliorating child abuse," he said.

The committee will be contacting each police jurisdiction so when they are notified of a case the police will call upon the appropriate committee member, according to Dr. Phillips.

Nancy Boggs said the committee is drafting a letter to be sent to agencies and people such as doctors, public health nurses and those who work in schools and day care centers who by law are required to report child abuse, so they know of the committee's existence and what to do.

Failure for them to report is a misdemeanor and they may also be civilly liable, she said adding that the penal code grants them immunity for reporting in good faith.

ON THE AGENDA

Parent-Teacher Association Will Plant A 'Freedom Tree'

John MacPhail Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association will plant a "Freedom Tree' tomorrow dedicated to Senior Master Sergeant Robert Hill, missing in action in Vietnam since 1966, and to all other California servicemen missing in action.

The ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. at John MacPhail school, Santa Venetia.

Mrs. Robert Hill will be the special guest along with Supervisor Robert Roumiguiere; John Plank, superintendent of the San Rafael School system; Col. John H. Fye, Presidio of San Francisco; Lt. Col., Chaplain James H. Eastland, Hamilton Air Force Base; Captain and Mrs. William Butler; Mrs. A. J. Whittle, Homeowners' Association, Santa Venetia; Sister Jude, principal, Blessed Sacrament School, Santa Venetia, and Herbert Witt, principal, Santa Venetia Middle School.

Other guests will include the John MacPhail school faculty, Hanlon P. Tharp, principal, and Frederick B. Baugio, vice-principal.

CYNTHIA LAMBERT, a sophomore at Sir Francis Drake High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Lambert, will be installed worthy advisor of the Tamalpais Assembly 191, International Order of the Rainbow for Girls, Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Masonic Temple in Larkspur.

Installing officers will be Kellie Oneal, retiring worthy advisor; Charles White, host; Marybeth Boerger, marshal; Marilyn Thompson, honorary marshal; Paige Kinney, chaplain; Diane Jessup, recorder; Janet Gilmore, tribute to American flag; Colleen Merwin, tribute to Rainbow banner, and Ruth Edgar, tribute to Christian flag.

Bible escort is Chris Logan and the members of Ross Valley Chapter Order of DeMolay will act as ushers and flag escorts. The Invocation will be offered by Rev. Harrison B. Kinney. Musicians for the installation are Theresa Glasner and Kathy Anderson. Accompanist is Sue Harrington.

Other officers to be installed are Cheryl Guasco, worthy associate advisor; Janet Fields, charity; Robin Merwin, hope; LoMae Mathis, faith; Lolette Davis, recorder; Jane Sullivan, chaplain; Deena Bliss, drill leader; Bonnie Burke, love; Amy Hughes, religion; Terri Wilks, nature; Janet Harriman, immortality, Jennifer Jessup, fidelity; Julie Strassburger, patriotism; Stephanie Boddy, service; Melodie Mathis, confidential observer; Diana Grant, outer observer; Diane Blumenfeld, musician; Ellen Littman, choir director; Patty Stahl, historian; Colleen Merwin, Rainbow banner bearer; Susan Gilbert, American flag bearer, and Sabrina Young, Christian flag bearer.

A SPRING FAIR is planned by parents of the Beginning School from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday on the school grounds at St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Marin City.

There will be balloons, pony rides, games of skill, a flea market, entertainment by musicians and dancers and food to take home and snack food.

The fair will benefit the private non-profit nursery school, with funds going to the operating budget.

STAR CANDIDATES will be honored jointly by the 4-H Council and Hi 4-H Club of Marin County Friday at 7 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

Marin members, leaders, their families and friends are invited, according to Mrs. Edna Manzoni of Novato, chairman of the Potluck dinner.

Following dinner, a program will be presented featuring candidates speeches and entertainment by members.

AN "AMERICAN Jamboree" will be presented by the Sonoma Valley Hospital Auxiliary Saturday at the Veteran's Building in Sonoma.

No-host cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner following at 8 p.m. Music will be provided by a Dixieland band.

Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce, the As-Is Shop or the hospital desk. Proceeds will be used for the intensive care unit at the hospital.

Tickets and information may be obtained from Mmes. E. C. Beachley of Boyes Springs and A.B. McEwing of Sonoma.

A FIRST SATURDAY Hoedown will be hosted by the Adobe Squares of Petaluma Saturday at the Kenilworth Recreation Center, East Washington and Payran Streets in Petaluma.

Ralph Thomas will be guest caller and dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served during the intermission.

The Adobe Squares hold regular Tuesday night workshops at the recreation hall and will have workshops during the summer months. Ralph Thomas is the club caller.

SOCIAL-LITES Single Adults of Sonoma and Marin will have a dance Saturday at the Veteran's Memorial Building in Santa Rosa beginning at 9 a.m.

Live music will be provided by the Aristocrats.

Contest Is Slated For December 8

The "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest has been announced for Dec. 8 by the North Bay Wool Growers Association Women's Auxiliary.

The contest is open to girls and boys age 10 to 21 who enter garments which they have knitted, crocheted or sewn.

The garments are judged for workmanship and are modeled by their creators at a luncheon and fashion show to be held in Santa Rosa Dec. 8.

Contest categories are preteens- skirts, jumpers, pants or shirts: juniors— (ages 14 to 16) dresses, coats or suits, and seniors— (age 17 to 21) dresses, coats or suits.

Edible Spoons Are On The Way

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Edible spoons and aerating straws are in the wind. The Dairy Research Digest says the spoons were developed in an unnamed Scandinavian country. Only the bowls are edible— the handles are plastic. The bowls made of a milk sugar are colored light blue and the milk-only variety are yellow. They dissolve while they sweeten and lighten coffee or tea. The Digest described the aerating straws as devices that convert flavored milk to milk shakes and flat beverages to carbonated ones as the straws are used.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Ferroni will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday. They have lived in Mill Valley since 1925.

Couple To Celebrate Golden Anniversary

The 50th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferroni of Mill Valley will be honored at a reception at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Michael Smugorzewski, Saturday afternoon.

The Ferronis were married June 2, 1923, at St. Rose Parish Church in Santa Rosa. In 1925 they moved to Mill Valley and have lived there ever since.

Their son, Lewis Ferroni, is also a resident of Mill Valley and there are nine grandchildren.

Ferroni was employed in the Mill Valley Post Office for 23 years, and after his retirement, put his talents to work as a gardener, specializing in landscape projects, and supplying rhododendrons, azaleas and camellias to customers.

The couple enjoy traveling. They have been to Europe twice, where they visited family members on both the French and Italian Rivieras. They returned from a trip to Western Canada last month. Their next trip will probably be to Hawaii.

Ferroni is a native Californian, born in Monterey in 1896. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Ferroni came here from Italy in the 1890s. His father's first job was as a dishwasher for the old Del Monte Hotel at Pebble Beach. The family moved to San Francisco, where the elder Ferroni was employed as the chef for the Olympic Club.

Ferroni was in San Francisco when the earthquake of 1906 hit. He remembers seeing the fires from Nob Hill and living in a tent in Golden Gate Park.

He was in the army during World War I and is a 40 year member of Mill Valley Post 284 of the American Legion.

The Ferroni family moved to Healdsburg after 1906. Angela Ferroni, who was born in Italy in 1904, traveled to Healdsburg when she was 18 to stay with a married sister. The couple met in Healdsburg in 1922 and were married a year later.

Ten women friends entertained Mrs. Ferroni at luncheon at Sabella's restaurant Thursday as an added anniversary celebration.

Foreign Stamps Feature Foods

NEW YORK (UPI) — Food stamps in many foreign countries are postage, not discount coupons for low income families. Hundreds of nations issue thousands such stamps picturing almost every vegetable and fruit, grain, spice, meat and farming process, says Raymond Schuessler in "Gusto International," a new quarterly magazine sold in food stores. Russia leads the world in the number of food stamps, he said.

Shakespeare Festival Is Seeking Many Items

The Marin Shakespeare Festival is seeking the use of folding chairs, couches, assorted chairs and cinder blocks to make shelves for use in the offices. Also needed for the offices are book shelves, a small filing cabinet, typewriter tables and sewing tables.

For the technical end of the theater, ironing boards, irons, dress forms, paint brushes, paint thinner, any color paint, assorted tools, paper, paperboard, cards, pencils, binders and shoe boxes are needed.

Also being sought are a coffee urn, chaise lounges, plugs, extension cords, electrical cord, wire, nails, screws, string and yard sticks.

Arrangements to have the items picked up can be made by calling the Marin Shakespeare Festival Office in San Francisco.

Bill Assures Hospital Rights

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pennsylvania has a citizen's bill of hospital rights, believed to be the first of its type formulated by a government agency. The 12-point bill duplicates and in some cases elaborates on other previously issued patients' rights statements, including one approved by the American Hospital Association.

Herbert S. Denenberg, the state's insurance commissioner, said the bill of rights is directed at the public, not just patients, because "every member of the public pays for hospitals through his health insurance, his Blue Cross and Blue Shield and his tax dollars."

Advice For 'A Buddy' Is That He Face His Problem For Self

HELEN AND SUE:

I need a little help for my friend.

You get into a habit of going with a girl and Cynthia is quite a habit! She manages things. But she's a good looking chick and you're knocked over because she is two years older. Pretty soon people are assuming you'll be married because you've been together three years.

But you (my friend, that is) need space and time to think, so he has transferred to a university 200 miles away and he'll start summer school there soon. Not wanting to hurt Cyn, he tells her the separation will about kill him. Or maybe she tells him that and he doesn't contradict her.

Well, she comes up with this great surprise: she's wangled a transfer from her company and can work in his university town, beginning in July. So . . . goodbye freedom!

How can he get it across that he doesn't want a baby-sitter any more? She's beginning to smother him, but she's always done the bossing and he doesn't know how to change things. Besides, he's soft-hearted. — A BUDDY

BUDDY:

Let's cut the camouflage and assume you're writing for your soft-hearted self, not your "buddy." So you're actually asking, "How do I get the courage to cool it with a hard-headed girlfriend?" There's only one way: level with her — and right now, while she can still cancel the transfer. Remember, he who makes like a mouse, ends up in a trap. — SUE

DEAR BUDDY:

And remember today's bossy "chick" is tomorrow's "mother hen." (Spelled "wife.")

You can't stop Cyn from getting a job transfer if she is determined, but you can go to the university a free man — if you are determined. Don't weaken! — HELEN

RAP:

I'm 17, white, and in love with a black guy who is 19. I'm afraid to talk to my parents about this. My Dad doesn't seem prejudiced but my mother is a little. They'd probably ground me.

The problem is we want to get married the minute I turn 18 and I want a big formal wedding but I don't want my parents to be there because it might hurt them.

How can I have what I want and still keep what I have? — A.T.P.

A.:

How about giving yourself a year or so to grow up? If you're afraid to face nearly-unprejudiced parents, are you mature enough to face the prejudice you'll surely find in both the white and black communities?

Your idea of marriage apparently centers on romantic dreams of a big, formal wedding. Until you can realistically assess what comes before and afterwards, you're too young to make it as a wife. — HELEN

A.T.P.:

Forget about race for a moment, and ask yourself, "What's my rush to get married?" I go along with my mother: it sounds as if you're more interested in a terrific wedding than the long haul ahead. Check your motives. Are they based mostly on romantic dreams?

You aren't even being realistic about the wedding: since an 18-year-old girl's parents usually pay the bills, how could you exclude them "because they might be hurt?"

Now about color: Though interracial marriages are becoming more acceptable than in the past, there will be times when you must put up with cuts and remarks and stares and stand together as two. Are you man and woman enough yet to do it? — SUE

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

FRESHEN UP that old heap: Here's a room the family used as the trap for every kind of junk. But now it has got a new life with Suntan-Orange Kodel carpeting by Congoleum, Nancy Tulip bed linens by Burlington House and a neat pair of bunks for guesting or napping.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Extra Room Can Be Saved With Minimum Of Effort

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Everybody has their claim on it. That little spot you call the extra room. It never quite jells as a space, just acquires things you can't use elsewhere in the house.

Whether it's in the basement, the attic or garage, it can have its face saved with just a minimum of effort and some small cash outlay.

The main investment should probably be floor covering. There's nothing as satisfying as a new carpet to convince everyone in the clan that the extra room may soon become the favorite.

For the revamp job shown today, the clients first built in two bunks and a working-height counter. Then they painted the walls and new carpentry a sunny yellow.

Their teen-age son found two artist light fixtures and hung them low to produce the right kind of light for close-up projects such as sewing and drawing. These were painted white.

Next purchase was a Suntan-Orange carpeting made of Kodel fibers with what is called a tip-sheared surface. It provides a gentle, plushy cusion and has all the easy-care advantages of its polyester contents. Made by Congoleum, it's called Front Row II.

With the bright color scheme established, they shopped for some bright fabrics or bedspreads. The nice surprise was finding Burlington's tulip-patterned bed sheets and cases with a permanent-press blend of Kodel polyester and cotton.

These added all the decoration the room needed and the owners made window shades of the same fabric by buying one additional sheet.

A few baskets were added as fabric and art supply storage and one good posture chair was found to round out the variety of sit-sleep-work activities anticipated for the room.

The finished project has become the first choice with guests since it now also has a tiny refrigerator, a plug-in coffeepot and saucepan. All anyone needs to be the perfect houseguest.

Check Vision At Early Age

NEW YORK (UPI) — When a child reaches age three, it is time to check the way he or she sees because poor vision can retard the normal development of skills needed for the tasks ahead in school.

The American Optometric Association points out that a youngster who is not visually equipped for school may fall behind his classmates, may be taunted by them, eventually grow to hate school and may become a behavior problem or a school dropout.

Famed Ballerina To Dance With Company In Marin

Dame Margot Fonteyn, considered by many to be the world's leading ballerina, will be a guest star in the New London Ballet Company's performance at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building on June 20.

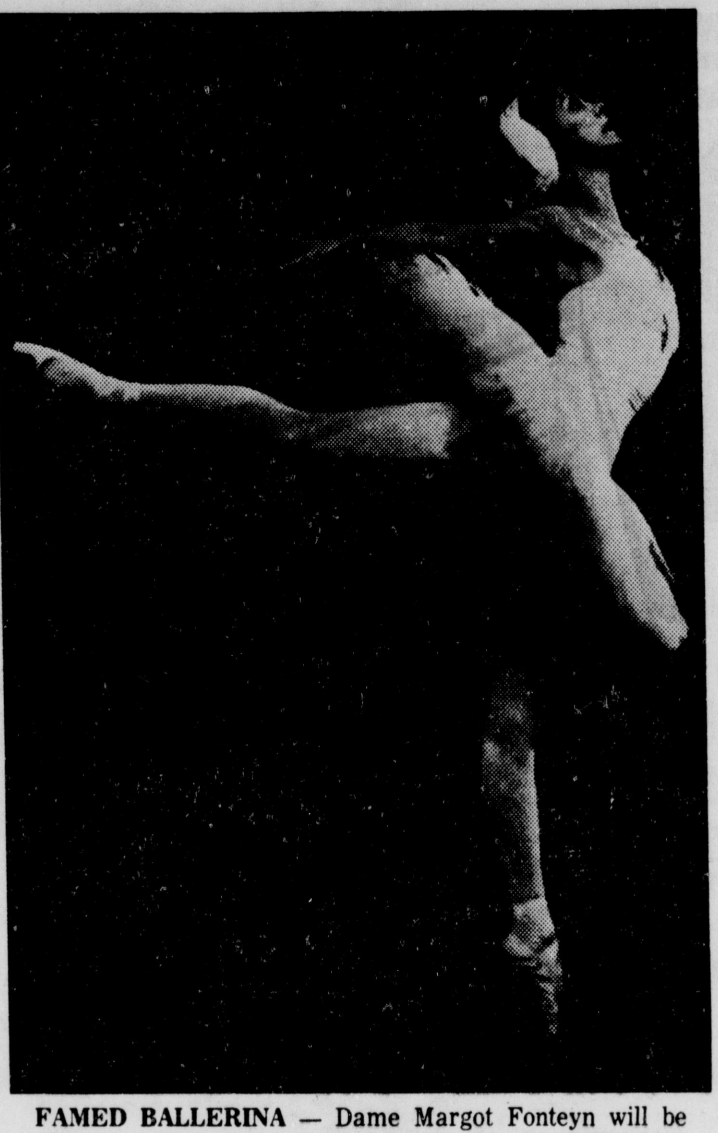
The company will perform "Bagatelle," a 20-minute ballet choreographed by Andre Prokovsky to Beethoven music; the complete "Othello," choreographed by Peter Darrell to Liszt music, and "Laurencia," choreographed by Galina Sansova.

Prokovsky and Miss Sansova will be featured dancers in several of the ballets.

The New London Ballet will be making its first tour of the United States. It also will perform in Cupertino and Berkeley the same week.



FAMED BALLERINA — Dame Margot Fonteyn will be guest star at a performance of the New London Ballet June 20 in Marin County. She will dance excerpts from "Swan Lake" and "The Sleeping Beauty."

Third Man Denies Sex Scandal Role

LONDON (UPI) — Government officials said Monday night that a third government minister denied any involvement in a sex scandal that rocked the government of Prime Minister Edward Heath. The prime minister, they said, accepts the denial.

The scandal drove two other ministers from public life last week and stirred fears that national security had been endangered.

A statement from Heath's office said a Scotland Yard inquiry failed to find any evidence to support a reputed call girl's allegations that the third man was involved in the affair.

The statement said the minister named by Mrs. Norma Levy as a client—he was not identified —"categorically denied" the allegation. Officials said Heath, who is currently making a private visit to West Germany, accepted this.

Mrs. Levy became involved in the case when two aristocratic ministers resigned in the spiciest scandal in Britain in a decade.

The two ministers were Lord Lambton, undersecretary for the Royal Air Force (RAF), and Earl Jellicoe, the leader of the House of Lords and a personal friend of Heath. They both confessed to "casual" relations with a call girl but denied this jeopardized national security.

The Heath statement said Scotland Yard was seeking Mrs. Levy and her husband for questioning on "certain criminal offenses."

Newspapers said Mrs. Levy and her husband apparently had been in Morocco but now have left. A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to elaborate on the "criminal offenses" that could concern the couple.

Mrs. Levy, in a telephone call from a hiding place, told the newspaper Sunday People her clients included a third British minister—and possibly a fourth.

The Heath statement said Scotland Yard investigated and found no evidence to support this. It said the investigation did not change Heath's statement last Thursday in the House of Commons on the affair.

In that statement, Heath said there were no grounds to believe the scandal had involved anyone beyond the two ministers who resigned.

But he said he was setting up a commission to see if, in fact, the affair had risked national security.

Nixon Backed By His Daughter

ABILENE, Kan. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower said yesterday the American people will never let the Watergate Scandal overshadow the achievements of her father's presidency.

"I think that when you are in political life you learn to live with crises," she said during a tour of the Dwight D. Eisenhower museum.

"I think that everything will be put in perspective in time. I don't think that the achievements of ending the war in Vietnam and the other things that my father has accomplished are going to be forgotten by the American people or that this will overshadow those achievements."

Greek Mutiny Really Was Overthrow Try

ATHENS (UPI) — The military-backed government of Premier George Papadopoulos conceded yesterday that a naval mutiny last week was really a full fledged attempt to overthrow Papadopoulos.

Military sources said as many as 50 ships, more than one-half the entire navy, were tied up in the Salamis naval base near Piraeus today as the government launched an indepth investigation into the affair.

Navy sources said the Salamis island navy base, opposite the port of Pireaus, was closed with as many as 50 ships, including four destroyers, anchored inside the base.

Military sources also said strict security measures were still in force in and around various air bases in the east central area of Greece.

The government maintained for days that the navy plot involved no more than a handful of active officers. Then it said yesterday that 35 officers, most of them holding senior rank, were involved in an attempted coup against the government.

A government statememt said the only plotter still at large was Cmdr. Nickolas Pappas, who withdrew his ship, the destroyer Velos, from North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) exercises off Sardinia Friday and asked Italy to grant him and 30 members of his crew political asylum.

A ministry of defense announcement said three retired officers, Capt. George Konofaos and Adms. Constantine Engolfopoulos and Ioannis Minaios, led the coup attempt. They were arrested last week.

A third retired admiral, Antonios Rozakis, was accused of leading a resistance organization, Greek Anti-dictatorial Youth (EAN), which was accused of placing bombs under automobiles owned by American military and diplomatic personnel and planning to assassinate Greek leaders.

The defense ministry said Rozakis left for Italy by ship May 19, but gave no further details.

It said navy mutiners planned to sail last Tuesday night with "as many ships as possible" to the island of Syros in the Aegean.

"From there," the ministry said, "they would have asked for the support of the army and the air force and demanded the resignation of the government."

Papadopoulos came to power in a military coup in 1967.

The ministry also said it would make no further announcements on the affair for the time being—in order to avoid hindering the investigation.

In Rome, government sources said a special commission would examine separately the asylum requests and not give blanket political asylum to Pappas and the 30 other defectors.

The government already has given permission for the men to remain in Italy but this does not mean they have political refugee status—an important point if Greece decides to seek their extradition on political charges.

Under its constitution, Italy cannot extradite persons for trial on political charges.

Italian Actress Gets Letter Bomb

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — The fifth letter bomb mailed to an actress in Italy this year burst into flames yesterday in a mail truck.

Police said the letter was addressed to actress Laura Betti in Rome. Like the other four mailed in January and February, it was sent from the Tuscany region.

Police said about 50 other letters and cards in the truck were scorched by the letter bomb, which contained gunpowder and a small vial of acid, but no one was hurt.

The earlier explosive letters were addressed to Italian actresses Mariangela Melato, Laura Antonelli and Elsa Martinelli and Solvi Stubing, a West German actress. The only person injured earlier was Miss Melato's sister, Anna, who suffered a burned eye when she opened the letter sent her sister.

Police said they did not know why the letters were sent to any of the actresses.

Legends Understood Each Other

By Corinne Greeting

Gertrude Stein and Pablo Picasso had much in common and they understood each other.

No wonder Picasso's portrait of Gertrude Stein was for her, in her own words, "the only reproduction of me which is always I, for me."

No wonder Stein, too, could honestly claim, in their early days in Paris, before either had fame, "I was alone at this time in understanding him, perhaps because I was expressing the same thing in literature . . ."

In the 1930's the Manchester Guardian recognized this kinship. "Miss Stein writes exactly as she thinks and she thinks by instinct and after all that is how Picasso paints, so why shouldn't that be a good way of explaining Picasso . . ." This review appeared soon after she had published a short book called, simply, "Picasso."

Gertrude Stein met Picasso in 1905. She and her brother, Leo, had taken up residence in Paris where he was building an art collection. She was 31. Picasso was only 24, and very, very poor.

They met in a gallery where Leo had taken Gertrude to view "The Girl with a Basket of Flowers" (Jeune Fille aux Fleurs). Picasso, hopefully waiting in the wings for an acceptance, asked "Who is the lady?" And when the gallery owner identified her, Picasso said, "Ask her if she will pose for me."

The Steins bought the little painting for $30 and it is conceivable it could now be the most valuable figure painting of the 20th century. But, it is reported, Gertrude did not at first like it.

However, she posed for Picasso. "I posed for him all that winter, eighty times," she said, "and in the end he painted out the head." He told her he couldn't "see" her any more when he looked at her and he went off to spend the summer in the Pyrenees.

The abaondoned, headless figure rested against the studio wall until Picasso returned to Paris. Gertrude was gone but he immediately painted in the final version of the head without her. The Negroid, masklike face dominated the heavily proportioned figure. Gertrude was delighted with it and Picasso gave her the painting.

In reporting the story, Stein told of the day a rich collector came to her home, looked at the portrait and wanted to know what price she had paid for it. "Nothing I said to him, nothing he cried out, nothing I answered, naturally he gave it to me."

She wrote of telling this to Picasso who smiled and said, " . . . he doesn't understand . . . that at the time the difference between a sale and a gift was negligible."

By his late 20's, according to Stein, Picasso "had almost never exhibited his pictures, his followers showed theirs but he did not." Evidently, his reluctance to show came from his conviction that he was not yet really ready. Or maybe he was convinced people would not understand him. " . . . there are so few people who understand" he had confided to Stein, "and later when everyone admires you there are still the same few who understand, just as few as before."

Still, he had been through his "blue period," his "rose period" and the "negro period." By 1908 he was back in Paris from Spain, says Stein, "with the beginning of his cubism in his hand." And she adds, "The time had come and the man."

"The head, the face, the human body these are all that exist for Picasso" said Stein more than once. She told of walking with Picasso and passing a learned man sitting on a bench, and Picasso said, " . . . look at that face, it is as old as the world, all faces are as old as the world." By contrast, Stein insisted, "the souls of people do not interest him, that is to say for him the reality of life is in the head, the face and the body."

Picasso's being Spanish made all the difference. Stein refers to this again and again. "Don Quixote was a Spaniard," she reminds us, "he did not imagine things, he saw things and it was not a dream, it was not lunacy, he really saw them . . . Well Picasso is a Spaniard."

Spaniards are like Americans she continues, not like Europeans, not like Orientals. For Spaniards and Americans reality is not real. She explains "that is why there are skyscrapers and American literature and Spanish painting and literature."

Picasso continued to express heads and bodies as he saw them, not as others saw them. He was not satisfied with appearance. In looking at a friend one sees one feature of the face, or another. Picasso "analyzed his vision" in this way, said Stein.

"Picasso was the only one (of the painters) who saw the twentieth century with his eyes and saw its reality," causing a terrifying struggle in the artist who chose to break away from the past.

In an Epilogue to her short book, Stein describes the earth seen from a plane. When she looked at it she "saw all the lines of cubism made at a time when not any painter had ever gone up in an airplane." She realized Picasso's instinctive understanding of the earth lines, "coming and going, developing and destroying themselves" as they did on his canvas, and she realized again that "a creator is contemporary, he understands what is contemporary when the contemporaries do not yet know it."

"Picasso was always possessed by the necessity of emptying himself, of emptying himself completely," Stein comments. He emptied himself of all types of influences, African sculpture, Italian and French things, even Oriental calligraphy but he never empties himself of being Spanish. That one influence, though threatened at times during his life, stayed with him.

His friends in Paris were primarily writers, not painters, since, as Stein noted, he was born knowing how to paint but needed ideas and writers had ideas — though he tried during his life to turn his hand to poetry, he did so with scant success.

"The only way Picasso has of speaking, the only way Picasso has of writing is with drawings and paintings," said Gertrude Stein. Once when he had read some of his poetry to friends in a cafe, during a period of two years when he painted nothing, Stein said, "of course he who could write, write so well with drawings and with colors, knew very well that to write with words was, for him, not to write at all."

Writing poetry was, for him, a period of rest. As Stein explained it, poetry was "his way of falling asleep."

Gertrude Stein's book "Picasso" ended with 1937, when he had just started painting bright colored pictures. They were to live through the war. Stein was to be forced by Hitler's threatening shadow to abandon her home and vast collection of paintings in Paris, and flee with her companion, Alice B. Toklas, to the country.

They decided to take only two paintings, a valuable Cezanne and Picasso's portrait of Gertrude. The Cezanne had to be sold when they ran out of money but it brought them a substantial sum on which to survive the duration of the war.

In the middle of December, 1944, hearing all was again well in Paris, Gertrude and Alice hired a woodburning taxi and started at midnight on a frightfully uncomfortable two-day journey home.

The second night out, they were stopped by four officers and their papers were examined. One of the men asked about packages in the taxi. Gertrude said they contained meat, butter, and eggs sufficient to keep them a week in Paris. But still he insisted on knowing what was in one particularly large and carefully packaged bundle.

"That," said Alice, "is a Picasso painting, don't touch it."

"I congratulate you," said the officer, and allowed them to go on their way.

The same could be said of her friend, Picasso.

Two legends remain with us, one of a painter who explained a writer in paint, the other of a writer who explained a painter in words.

Man Convicted Of Burglary Try

A jury in the court of Judge Henry J. Broderick found Michael Galarza, 23, guilty after deliberating three hours Thursday. The judge set sentencing for June 14.

Galarza was arrested March 14 when police found him hiding in a shed near the Seawood Photo Shop at 115 Tunstead Avenue. A window of the shop was smashed, police said.

Fairfax Woman Falls To Death From Coast Cliff

I-J Special Report

FORT BRAGG — A Fairfax woman fell 200 feet to her death from a rugged coastal cliff yesterday after she stepped from the family car on a sightseeing stop during a holiday trip, the Mendocino County sheriff's department said today.

Gloria Ann Hawley, 34, of 61.5 Bolinas Road, plummeted to the beach after slipping off a bluff at 2:08 p.m. yesterday near a rugged stretch of coastline on Route 1 near Warren Creek, 20 miles north of Fort Bragg.

Mrs. Hawley, her 8-year-old daughter, Kimberly Fernandez, and a companion, Valerian Kozloff, all of the Fairfax address, had stopped at the cliff on a sightseeing break during a trip to Seattle, sheriff's deputies reported.

Mrs. Hawley stepped from the car, walked several feet and tumbled over the cliff, according to the sheriff's department. No one saw her fall, deputies said.

The trio had moved to the Fairfax apartment above the Guild House on Bolinas Road last month, deputies said.

Chinese Representative Arrives In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador Huang Chen arrives today with his wife and a 12-man delegation to open the "Liaison Office" of the People's Republic of China in Washington.

Huang, who previously served as Peking's ambassador to France, was scheduled to arrive at National Airport aboard an American Airlines plane from New York.

A 19-year-old girl complained that the eight-car motorcade going to Kennedy Airport in New York yesterday to meet the Chinese diplomat forced her Cadillac off the road, causing minor damage to the vehicle. Miss Leslie Sybrnik, of Lawrence, N.Y., and Carol Luckman, 19, also of Lawrence, who was riding with her, pursued the motorcade to the airport where they lodged complaints with the mission delegation, police and Secret Servicemen.

HUANG CHEN
Chinese liaison

With the arrival of Huang, the process of re-establishing permanent ties between the United States and China will be completed after two decades of mutual hostility.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce returned from retirement at the request of President Nixon to open the U.S. "Liaison Office" in Peking on May 14.

The liaison offices were created under an accord negotiated by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger earlier this year.

The offices will permit the two countries to maintain regular contacts in each other's capital without the establishment of formal diplomatic relations between Peking and Washington.

Huang, who serves also as a member of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party, will be met by members of the Chinese advance team which arrived earlier this Spring and by Arthur W. Hummell Jr., ranking foreign service officer in the State Department's East Asian Bureau, and Marion H. Smoak, the acting chief of protocol.

Hummell, acting assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs, will be a particularly appropriate greeter. Born of American parents in China, Hummell studied and taught there before he was interned in 1941 by the invading Japanese.

Holiday Use Of BART A Headache

OAKLAND (UPI) — More than 40,000 riders took a holiday excursion on the Bay Area Rapid Transit system yesterday and the railway's officials had to request passengers to curtail their trips.

Huge waiting lines along with several breakdowns gave BART officials headaches all day.

"It wasn't our best day," a BART spokesman said.

Two trains were sent to the yards on the Fremont-Richmond run after their automatic speed control systems broke down, halting service for 40 minutes.

Interruptions of 25 minutes took place on the newly opened Oakland-Concord line after trains picked up erroneous signals that the tracks ahead were occupied. The snafu forced BART operators to switch to manual operations, which meant the trains had to keep the speed under 25 miles per hour.

"We just didn't have any more cars available," said the spokesman of BART's inability to replace the broken down equipment for the trains, which normally speed along at 80 mph.

Order To Delete Race References

CHICHAGO (AP) — The Loyal Order of Moose has voted to end its requirement that members be white.

One delegate said the show-of-hands vote yesterday was overwhelmingly in favor of a proposal to delete references to race from the Moose consitiution and bylaws.

Moose officials would not comment on the vote.

Ash Takes Over One Of Haldeman's Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy L. Ash, President Nixon's management and budget director, has quietly taken over one of the jobs of H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, by providing final staff clearance for top level government jobs, it was learned today.

Ash, controversial former president of Litton Industries, has assumed the additional duties temporarily in his capacity as an assistant to the President. Administration officials said the function was not part of his duties as director of OMB.

As a result of Ash's efforts, Nixon has been able in the past week to announce a flurry of second echelon appointments, although many top jobs remain unfilled.

A backlog of vacancies in executive posts below the Cabinet level had built up because Haldeman, who resigned April 30, was preoccupied with planning his response to suggestions he was linked to the cover-up of the Watergate scandal.

The White House said last week there were 48 vacancies out of 520 positions at the executive levels of the government.

Leave Request Discussion Due

Kentfield School District teacher Anita Fonte is expected to meet in closed session with district trustees tonight over their refusal to grant her a leave for the next school year.

The trustees, at their regular meeting beginning at 8 p.m. in Greenbrae School, also will consider pay request from the Marin County Substitute teachers Association and set a schedule for the board's summer meetings.

Miss Fonte's leave was denied May 14, because it had already granted leaves to two other teachers for the year, and was facing problems of laying off other recently hired teachers when those on leave return. Miss Fonte appealed the ruling and requested the closed session tonight.

School Slots

St. Anselm's Parochial School is accepting a limited number of registrations for first through eighth grades for the year beginning in September. The San Anselmo school is open to students of all faiths, according to Cathie Ostrem, publicity chairman.

ECOLOGY STUDY — Teacher Dan K. Campbell lectures to a spellbound class from Ross School before the children take off on a hike around Phoenix Lake, part of the school's regular curriculum which uses the Earth Workshop on the lake's dam.

OUTDOOR LESSON — Students from Ross School clamber on the banks of Phoenix Lake as ecology teacher Dan K. Campbell listen to a question about the lake he calls "my Walden."

Phoenix Lake Likened To Walden

By PATRICIA PERRY

"As much as Thoreau's Walden Pond was a study of wilderness, Phoenix Lake provides a study of nature's reluctance to bend under man's trespass . . ."

So wrote ecologist Dan K. Campbell, in his "Earth Workshop Guide," a book that resulted from his experience teaching ecology in the Phoenix Lake area to Ross and Kentfield school children for two years.

Campbell, who first saw Marin three years ago, leaves the county this summer to return to Colorado where he'll direct a state wide environmental education program for the University of Colorado.

But Campbell, sho lives in Forest Knolls, intends to return to Marin county next year. He loves Phoenix Lake and, indeed, the entire county, which he calls "an absolute dreamland."

And he will want to see how his Earth Workshop is progressing.

The Earth Workshop is a former pump station on the earth dam of Phoenix Lake. The Marin Municipal Water District has revamped the 70 year old wooden building with plywood panelling and fitted out the inside, transforming it into "an environmental education laboratory" for the Ross and Kentfield school districts.

"The thing I like the best is that when I come up here to work on my own, incredible members of kids are already up here at Phoenix Lake, just to walk, looking at birds and studying nature."

And he says one of the highest experiences of his stay in Marin was meeting two small children from his class trudging through Ross, binoculars around their necks, en route to the Corte Madera marshlands to study birds.

"By the end of that year they'd made a long list of birds they knew . . . this year they're in the seventh grade and I couldn't hope to know as much about birds as they do."

Campbell teaches exactly the same ecology curriculm to Ross and Kentfield sixth graders as he teaches at College of Marin. "You don't get the same attention but they are absorbing an incredible amount."

Although the green-painted Earth Workshop is ideally located in the hillsides above Ross, Campbell guesses students "don't like the earth workshop - they like the field trips."

During this rainy winter the weather didn't keep students hiking the terrain around the lake (Campbell scoffs at Marin's predominantly fair weather hikers, and says they're missing marvelous fungi and lichen with "over 1,500 species of lichens in this county alone" and splendid slugs and snails.)

As taught by Campbell, environmental education is more than nature study. He considers a child must learn that he is an integral part of a system composed of people, culture and the natural environment.

And while the workshop is equipped with microscopes sinks, desks and chairs of the traditional laboratory, the instruction isn't tradition.

"I've got a full skeleton of a deer — sometimes I throw down all the bones on the floor, we can spend hours putting that thing together and by the time they've completed it they know more about anatomy and bones and evolution than you can shake a stick at," said Campbell.

After his year in Colorado — where he'll also work as a consultant to the Outward Bound School — Campbell hopes to return to the Earth Workshop and also teach at Indian Valley Colleges. He envisages a new environmental education program with much more strenuous field trips involving mountain climbing, backpacking and survival techniques. "The trip as totality of the course," he describes his theory.

His place at the Ross Earth Workshop will be taken by Sally Stapp of San Rafael, who will teach sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and Ben Benjamin who will teach kindergarten through fifth grades. Virginia Habel will coordinate a docent course teaching parents and teachers who will work in the program.

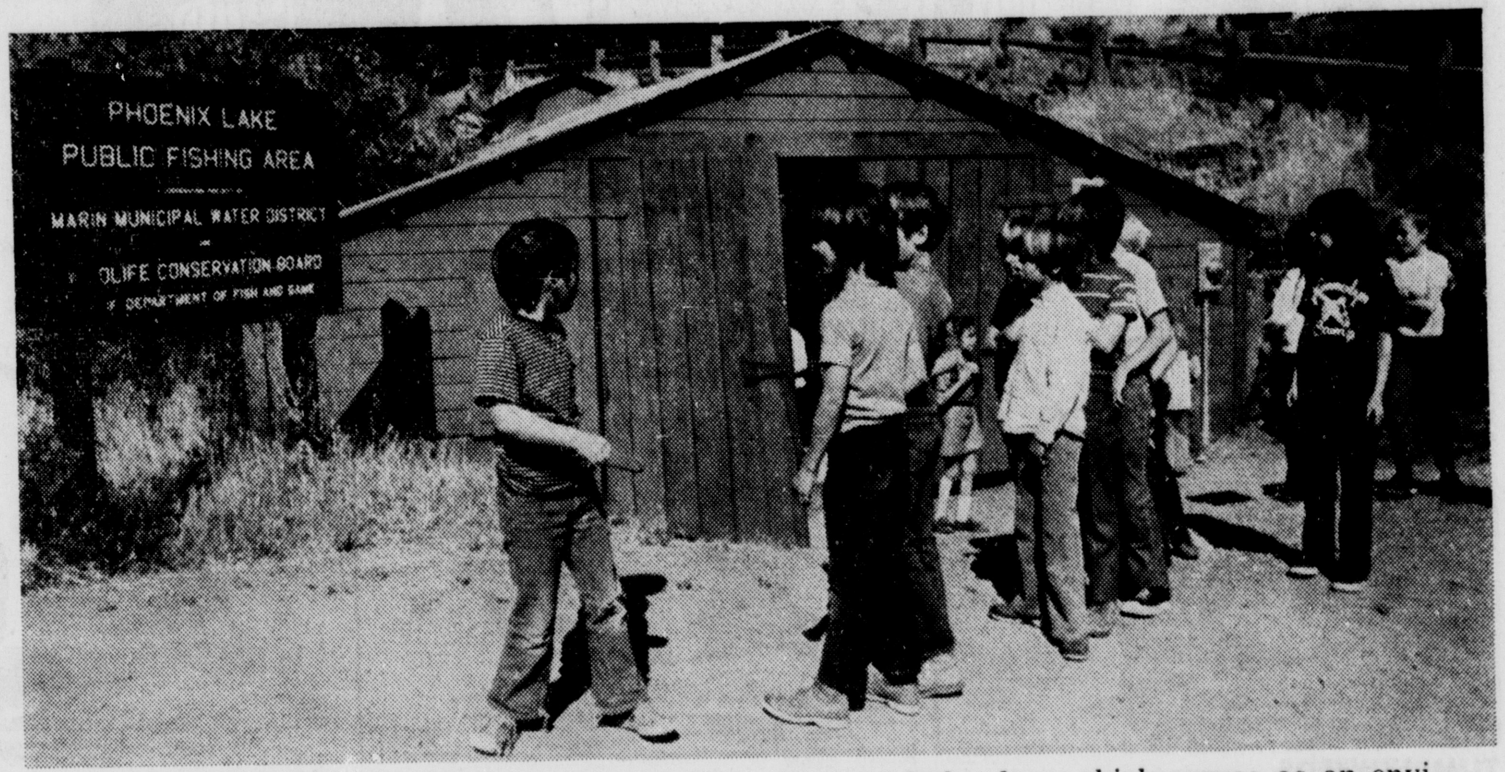
They will use as a text Campbell's Earth Workshop Guide, an extensive and highly readable exposition on his teaching methods, the ecology, history and future of Marin county.

He explains that the Phoenix Lake area can serve as a case-study of man's impact on natural systems. Close at hand are examples of smog, forest fire, erosion, water pollution, noise pollution, litter and over-population of deer.

But privately, Campbell admits he loves Phoenix Lake — "my Walden."

Describing the blue heron that fly down from Alpine Lake, the swallows that smother the old spillway, the crawfish and salamander, the wild flowers and fantastic fungi, he adds:

"Phoenix Lake demonstrates to me how incredibly able nature is to bound back after being abused."



CLASSROOM AWAY — Third graders from Eileen Clancy's class at Ross School gather outside the Earth Workshop, the former Marin Municipal Water District pump station on Phoenix Lake dam which serves as an environmental education laboratory to Ross and Kentfield students.

County Audit Shows System To Be 'Healthy'

"It's pretty healthy," County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said, adding that interest for the year was also at an all-time high at $1 million.

The total assets are $19,988,000, up from $16,834,000 in 1971, he said. The increase was from a $1.5 million county contribution and a $1.6 million employee contribution.

The retirement system has 1,514 active members, 191 retired members, 43 deferred members and six survivors of deceased members.

During 1972, Mitchell said, $651 in benefits were paid out. His report concluded that "from a fiscal standpoint the retirement system is administered very well and is in an excellent fiscal status."

Astronomer Sets Lecture In Tiburon

College Of Marin Poll Shows Students Favor Impeachment

With 6.4 per cent voter turnout, students at the College of Marin have voted to support impeachment of President Nixon.

Students voted all last week for student government representatives, and on two referendums — one on impeachment, the other on the advisability of continuing development of Indian Valley Colleges.

Paul Delucia, a member of the board of directors of Associated Students, said 319 students cast ballots, out of 5,000 students eligible.

Delucia said the board of directors will send the results of the impeachment election to representatives, senators, and California legislators. Reports of the referendum also will be mailed to other California junior colleges, said Delucia.

In its campaign support of impeachment, the Associated Students board stated: "Mr. Nixon's policies have destroyed many Americans' ability to have confidence in the integrity of their government."

Students voted overwhelmingly for continued development of Indian Valley Colleges, reported Delucia. The referendum: "Should the Marin Community College District proceed with construction and development of Indian Valley Colleges. . . ?" got 227 yes votes, 60 no votes and 32 undecided.

Delucia said the results of this referendum will be sent to the college district board.

$1,100 Is Pay Of Supervisors

The county grand jury has recommended the salaries be increased to $1,400 per month if administrative aides are not hired and $1,155 if they are.

School District's Yard Is Burglarized

Burglars broke into the Tamalpais High School District's corporation yard on Doherty Drive between Thursday and Friday, reported Larkspur police.

Toolboxes and lockers were rifled but the district hasn't tabulated the loss yet.

Joint Session Slated On Bonds

The Novato City Council and the North Marin County Water District board will have a joint meeting at 8 p.m. today to discuss the district's upcoming $4.1 million bond election.

The council also will review the city's proposed capital improvements budget for 1973-74.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Keeping A Sure Loser Has Some Value At End Of Game

What is the use of keeping a sure loser? Strangely enough, there is one. The sure loser enables you to saddle the proper opponent with the lead at a time when he cannot make a safe exit.

OPENING LEAD

West opened the king of diamonds and then switched to the queen of clubs. Declarer won the second trick with dummy's king of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and jack and then led the jack of diamonds.

West took the ace of diamonds and led a third diamond to dummy's queen. This gave South the problem of discarding on the queen of diamonds.

South naturally thought first of discarding the queen of hearts. West surely had the king of hearts, so the queen was a sure loser.

SECOND THOUGHT

A second thought then came to South's rescue, and he discarded a small club. His next step was to cash dummy's ace of clubs.

If both opponents followed, South would give up a club and reach dummy with a trump in order to discard the queen of hearts on dummy's last club.

BAD CLUB BREAK

As it happened, however, the clubs broke badly. South thereupon abandoned the clubs, leading the ace of hearts and then the queen of hearts from his hand.

West had to win with the king of hearts. What could West do then, poor thing? Whether West returned a heart or a diamond, dummy would ruff while South discarded his last club. Either way the contract was safe.

There would be a different story to tell if South discarded the queen of hearts on the queen of diamonds. He would have no way of sticking West with the lead, and South would lose two clubs as well as two diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- A Q 9 5
♥- 7 4
♦- Q 9 6
♣- A K 8 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

With four cards in each of the black suits and with the strength for an opening bid, open with one club rather than with one spade.

Library Has Robot On Display

A three-and-a-half foot robot and other articles made by Donald Edward's fourth grade class at Pleasant Valley School are on display at the Novato Library.

The library also reported that two pre-school story hours will be discontinued after Thursday and replaced by one session at 10:30 a.m. each Wednesday, starting June 20.

A school-age story hour will be held at 11 a.m. Fridays, starting June 22.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Look Who's Talking! It's as easy as A, B, C to credit the right birthday celebrity for what he said. Guess who?

1. BOB HOPE is happiest in a crowd. Birthday fun for this comedian would be counting numbers in the audience, not his age today, which is 70. Born near London, this youngster moved to Cleveland at age four. Later he would star in the Ziegfeld Follies, then rise to stardom in radio, film, and TV. Did he once say, (A) "People generally quarrel because they cannot argue."

2. PATRICK HENRY, American patriot, stirred the Virginia legislature with his oratory more than 200 years ago. He favored a war of independence but opposed the Continental Convention of 1787. Did he once say, (B) "There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us."?

3. JOHN F. KENNEDY, 35th U.S. President. After serving as a naval officer in World War II, he entered politics, winning election to Congress, then the Senate, finally the White House. Did he once say, (C) "I have it on good authority that Senator Joe McCarthy is going to disclose the names of 2-million communists. He just got his hands on a Moscow telephone book."?

4. G. K. CHESTERTON (1874-1936) was a distinguished English author, poet, and critic. He became a regular contributor to English and American magazines. Did he once say, (D) "If the time ever should come. . .when my office would require me to either violate my conscience or violate the national interest, then I would resign from office."?

ANSWERS: 1 - No (See C); 2 - Yes; 3 - No (See D); 4 - No (See A).

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

Only one-third of Canada's total area has been brought under development to date.

Buying Your New Car In Marin COSTS YOU LESS

Here's Why

1. You KNOW your local dealer. He's been in business in Marin for a long time - and will continue to be.
2. Cost of doing business is lower in Marin than in San Francisco.
3. Sales tax is less in Marin than "ACROSS THE BRIDGE."
4. Service is local - from the dealer you KNOW

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

City of Larkspur, State of California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Larkspur will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Larkspur, California, on or before 2:00 P.M. on the 4th day June, 1973, for the furnishing of all labor, materials and services required for the following designated project:

1973 STREET RESURFACING—PROJECT "A"

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of City Clerk, where they may be examined, and copies thereof be obtained upon deposit of $10.00 per set, which deposit shall be refunded upon return of such copies in good condition, on or before thirty (30) days after opening of bids. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the City Engineer, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is set forth in Exhibit A attached hereto and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provisions, be recognized.

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS TAMALPAIS VALLEY COMMUNITY SERVICES DISTRICT SEWER LINE REPAIR AND SLOPE STABILIZATION BARONE LANE SEWER EXTENSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Tamalpais Community Services District of Marin County California, will receive up to but not later than 7:30 p.m. on the 12th day of June, 1973, sealed bids on a lump sum basis for the award of a contract for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and all the other services required to construct, install and place broken sewer line, concrete encasement, rubble rock revetment, and slope reconstruction as required by and in accordance with the plan entitled "Underpinning and Protective Encasement of Sewer Line, Lots 28 and 29, Tamalpais Woods, Tamalpais Valley, California" dated May 20, 1973 and prepared by the District Engineer, Job 73-24, and on file in the office of the Secretary of the District.

A bid bond will not be required for this project. Within fifteen (15) days after written notice that the contract has been awarded, the successful bidder shall execute a contract with the District and shall furnish a labor and material bond in a sum equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the amount of said bid; said bond shall comply with all the provisions of Chapter 3 comprising Sections 4200 - 4208 inclusive of the Government Code of the State of California except that the amount is 100% as stipulated rather than the 50% provided by statute.

Notice is hereby given that on January 9, 1973, the Community Services Board adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which the public work herein provided is to be done, for each craft or type of workmen required to execute the contract, a copy of which wage scale is attached hereto and incorporated herein and made a part of the specifications for said work.

The Board reserves the privilege of rejecting any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

Unless otherwise required by law, no bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days (30) after the date set for the opening thereof.

No. 860 May 29, 1973

Contract No. 587
File D72-469B

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, June 12, 1973 at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 2700 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances and service connections. The work to be done lies in San Pedro Road and adjacent streets and rights-of-way in the City of San Rafael and in the county areas of Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Pipe Relocation at San Pedro Road, Phase II" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

Brant Leads Knicks To Twin Bill Split

VACAVILLE — Pitcher Kevin Brant went the distance in the second game Sunday and drove in three runs with three hits to lead the C.L. Moore Knickerbockers of Novato to a 5-3 victory and a doubleheader split with the Vacaville Merchants.

Vacaville won the opener, 11-10. The Knicks are now 1-2 in the semi-pro Sacramento Rural League and will play a home-opening doubleheader next Sunday at noon at Novato High School against defending champion Lodi.

Two Officers Killed In Crash

WINCHESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Two off-duty policemen who had marched in a Memorial Day parade were killed later yesterday in a traffic accident. A third patrolman in the same car survived the crash but was hospitalized with injuries.

The officers killed were Frederick J. Marasca, 24, and Andrew J. Saraco, 25. The third officer, Williamm Gannon, 27, was in serious condition in Winchester Hospital.

Authorities said the car the three men were in swerved off a city street and struck a tree.

Argentina To Resume Cuban Ties

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's new civilian government resumed diplomatic relations yesterday with Cuba and said it would shortly establish relations with both North Korea and East Germany.

The decisions were among the first taken by President Hector J. Campora, who assumed office Friday as the first civilian president in seven years.

The move to renew ties with the Communist government of Cuba came after a meeting between Campora and visiting President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba. It makes Argentina the fourth Latin American country to recognize Premier Fidel Castro's government.

Campora also met an envoy from the North Korean government before announcing that measures to recognize that country are underway. Foreign Minister Juan Carlos Puig met East German Chancellor Gerhard Wis before releasing a statement that said the two countries would complete negotiations on establishing formai ties as soon as possible.

Cuba and Chile are the only Latin American countries that now recognize North Korea.

Mrs. Juan D. Peron, whose exiled husband was overthrown as Argentine president 17 years ago, recently visited North Korea as an official guest. Peron picked Campora personally as his candidate in the March elections that carried him to power and gave Peronists authority for the first time since Peron's ouster.

Acting on what he called Campora's orders, Puig said yesterday that Peron will shortly receive an Argentine passport.

Peron has been using a Paraguayan passport since taking refuge in Paraguay in 1955. The military government of President Alejandro Lanusse offered Peron an Argentine passport last November, but Peron rejected it.

Peron has lived in Spain during most of his 17 years in exile, but next month he is expected to return to Argentina to take up residence again and guide, as Campora pledged, the country's policies.

In another move, the Campora government announced yesterday it is reducing the price of beef. The ceiling price for one pound of beef was set at about 23 cents on the wholesale market. The ceiling last week was a record 33 cents.

Council To Consider Plan Amendment

The Rohnert Park City Council will consider an amendment to the city's general plan aimed at limiting growth in the town when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the council chambers.

The council also will consider setting up a committee to look into the cost of acquiring open space.

Congress Preparing New Farm Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in memory, Congress is preparing to act on a new farm program the average man can understand.

It would work this way:

—The Agriculture Department would announce, for each of the five years beginning in 1974, a target price for major crops including feed grains, wheat and cotton.

—After harvest, the department would compare the target with the actual open-market price in the first five months of the marketing season.

—If the market was at or above the target, the government would pay farmers nothing. But if the market fell short of the target, the government would make up the difference with payments to all farmers who had complied with any federal planting controls announced for the season.

Without accepting the specific price targets set in a version of the bill approved recently by the Senate Agriculture Committee, President Nixon has told congressional leaders he's willing to use the Senate plan as the basic framework for negotiating new legislation.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and other administration farm experts contend the target prices set in the Senate bill are too high and should be reduced.

Congressional farm sources said the administration, which has at least temporarily shelved its own plan to phase out income-supplement crop subsidies, probably would put up only a token fight on most portions of the farm bill in the Senate, and would concentrate on seeking modification of the bill's price provisions in the House.

The Senate measure would set 1974 target prices for wheat at $2.28 a bushel, corn at $1.53 a bushel and cotton at 43 cents a pound. In future years, the targets would be tied to an index of farm costs. A Senate Agriculture Committee report pointed out that if inflation continues at a 3.5 per cent a year rate, the corn target could reach $1.73 by 1978.

Administration experts contend that if market prices come down from current high levels, costs under the Senate plan could begin at about $3.5 billion a year in 1974 and rise to about $7 billion annually by 1978.

But Senate Agriculture Committee chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and other backers of the plan argue that if the secretary is right about future increased demand the program costs could be well below the $2.5 billion expected this year.

"If market prices rise above the target, the cost to the government will be nothing. If prices fall below the target ... the consumer will reap the advantage and (farmers) will have been protected from the price effects of excess production. Unlike the current program, there will be no payments if the market price equals or exceeds the target," Talmadge said.

The Senate bill would retain the current system of crop support loans at relatively low levels as a companion to the standby direct payment program. It would also retain the present "set aside" acreage control program under which farmers can be required, if they want to be eligible for crop loans and potential targetprice payments, to idle a portion of their cropland if this is necessary to avoid surpluses.

The measure also would retain the present $55,000 per crop ceiling on direct payment to producers of feed grains, wheat and cotton and would open a potential new loophole in the limitation. The bill provides authority for a system under which part of the payment to each class of producers could be classed as compensation for "resource adjustment" and not counted against the limitation. However, strong efforts to lower the ceiling to at least $20,000 were expected in both the Senate and House.

The 51-page omnibus Senate bill, in addition to the new target price program for major crops, also includes a long list of other provisions including extension of the Food Stamp program for needy Americans and the Food for Peace program covering overseas food aid.

Wreath Is Laid By Schlesinger

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Defense Secretary-designate James M. Schlesinger yesterday laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns in a heavy rain and said the nation must not scorn patriotic sentiment or dedication to ideals.

Schlesinger, acting for President Nixon, lauded returned U.S. prisoners of war and "past generations of servicemen." Then he said:

"As long as this great nation survives, this willingness to sacrifice, this dedication to ideals, this upholding of patriotic sentiment must not be scorned, but rather must be honored. And I believe it will be honored."

Pakistani Plane Crash Kills None

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A Pakistan International Airways (PIA) plane on a domestic flight crashed yesterday night at Lyallpur airport, 89 miles southwest of Lahore, the government news agency said today.

It said the aircraft, a Fokker Friendship, was destroyed but that all of the 40 passengers and six crew members on board escaped serious injury.

Three or four passengers, it said, sustained minor injuries.

Court Says Broadcasters Have Right To Refuse Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 today that broadcasters are not required by either federal law or the Constitution's guarantee of free speech to accept paid advertising on such public issues as war or politics.

The Court reversed a decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals here in a test case brought by the Democratic National Committee and an antiwar group called Business Executives' Move for Vietnam Peace (BEM).

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in the majority opinion that giving everyone access to broadcast advertising time might lead to monopolization of the airwaves by those best able to afford it, and inject more government control over broadcast media.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented from the opinion, rejecting the appeals court ruling which directed the Federal Communications Commission to set up "regulatory guidelines" on how to deal with advertisements on matters subject to varying public opinion.

The Supreme Court, while the case was before it, had frozen the right of broadcasters to continue the traditional practice of not accepting such advertising. And in today's opinion, Burger suggested the FCC, Congress or the broadcasters might work out some limited form of advertising access.

Other actions:

—In another broadcasting case, the court refused to examine the denial of a license renewal of a Media, Pa., radio station with which fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire is associated.

—The justices agreed to examine Virginia's "insulting words" statute, under which three men won a damage judgment against their union because it referred to them as "scabs" in a union publication.

—The court agreed to decide whether the government must prove, to justify a warrantless search, that the person giving permission for it has the authority to do so.

Telescopes Readied For Skylab Sun Study

HOUSTON (UPI) — The three men of Skylab began their fifth and potentially most productive day in space today by preparing a $50 million set of telescopes for man's most extensive study of the sun.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were all business after being awakened by a call from earth at 7 a.m. EDT as their orbital home swept over Australia.

After breakfast, the pilots turned to the business of the day —the start of their first full day of scientific research. Kerwin's job was to check out the solar telescopes while Conrad and Weitz worked on earth resources sensors.

The sun watching instruments are aimed by an astronaut watching a television picture of the sun as seen by a telescope observing the red light emitted from hydrogen gas. Kerwin turned on the telescope for tests and said, "It's a beautiful picture."

"We're pretty well on our time line (timetable) and we're listening to some country music," reported Conrad.

Skylab is humming like an earth-bound laboratory and the astronauts have already run into some of the problems that face earthlings —the need for routine housekeeping.

"It looks like one of these days we're going to have to halt a couple of hours and 'GI' (clean up) the place if we're going to keep it clean," Conrad told mission control.

Conrad held a private radio talk with Christopher C. Kraft, director of the Johnson Space Center; flight director Neil Hutchinson and astronaut chief Donald Slayton and NASA said it planned to summarize the conversation later today. Before the flight, NASA said such talks would be conducted only in cases of "extreme operational emergency" but Conrad said when he requested the talk Monday night, "it's no emergency or anything like that."

Today's schedule was the first devoted primarily to scientific research since the pilots left Cape Kennedy Friday to salvage the nation's first space station, and with the hopes of staying up a record 28 days. They completed turning on all the systems in the eight-room assembly last night.

Research continued even while the pilots slept. Kerwin wore a special skull cap with sensors that measured his brain activity and eye movement to tell scientists how well he was sleeping.

Scientists believe sleep is affected by weightlessness and previous crews have not slept as soundly in space as they do on Earth. This could be a problem on long missions, according to Dr. James Frost of the Baylor College of Medicine, because a man is not as alert when he hasn't had enough sleep.

105-Day Isolation Ends In Space Program Test

DAVIS (UPI) — The first of six young students isolated for 105 days in two small rooms in an experiment to help predict how astronauts will perform on space stations was released today and immediately underwent psychiatric examinations.

Ricardo Giron, 20, a University of California at Davis student, walked from his 11-foot by 17-foot room at the UCD Bioastronautics Laboratory, looked at a crowd of newsmen nervously and said:

"I don't know what to say. So many people."

He then was examined by Dr. Don Rockwell, assistant professor of psychiatry and codirector of the project, supported by a National Aeronautics and Space Administration contract.

The other five men were released at half-hour intervals. Three other student volunteers were involved, but served as a control group and did not undergo the "social isolation."

In addition to helping predict astronaut performances, the experiment was designed to help explain the time lag disruption felt by jet travelers, Rockwell said.

The six men were divided into two groups. All had electrodes taped to their chests so their electrocardiograms could be measured. Rectal tubes measured and transmitted body temperatures automatically.

A final report on the project was expected to take at least a year to compile, but preliminary results of the experiment showed all six men were "totally bored."

"The whole thing is a drag for them," said Rockwell. "some of them aren't even terribly enthusiastic about getting out. It just seems like a lot of trouble to contemplate reentering the mean old world."

Kentfield Resident Is Found Dead

The man, Roger A. Graham of 312 Palm Avenue, was said by his wife, Joyce, to have been despondent recently, according to the Marin County coroner's office. He worked as an estimator for a hardware firm in San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Medical School Draws Family

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Three members of the Arthur Guyton family are graduates of the Harvard Medical School and two are enrolled.

The graduates are the father, 1943; sons David, 1969; and Robert, 1971. Son John will graduate next month and son Steve in 1975. One sister, Cathy, has been accepted to the school.

The father is head of the department of physiology and biophysics at the University of Mississippi.

Accident Victim Is Off Critical List

Mindy K. Klein, 21, of 30 Corte Sereno, Greenbrae, injured in an accident Saturday night, was removed today from the critical list, but reported still in serious condition at Marin General Hospital.

She was struck by a car on the Tiburon Boulevard overpass of Highway 101, California Highway Patrol reported.

Newspaper Is Hit By Bombing

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI) — An explosion demolished the editorial offices of the Wilmington Journal, a black-oriented weekly newspaper, last night and sent debris sailing into nearby homes and vehicles.

No injuries were reported although two people were in their apartments at the rear of the two-story frame building at the time.

Local, state and federal officials called to the scene said the explosion originated at the center of the building. The front end of the structure, the portion containing the paper's offices, was blown out while the back remained standing.

Nixon Asks Hard Talks In Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon urged today a start of serious negotiations — either direct or indirect — between the Arab states and Israel to find a just and lasting peace in the Middle East.

The American ambassador to the United Nations, John A. Scali, told reporters after a half-hour meeting with Nixon that the United States continues to insist that the November, 1967 Security Council resolution at the end of the six-day June war should provide the "basis for a settlement."

Scali met with Nixon in advance of the opening of U.N. Security Council debate on the Arab-Israeli impasse. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Nixon's national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, sat in on the meeting.

The President also met with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, after the first foreign policy discussion with advisers.

The second meeting was called for review of a wide range of matters, from the outlook for getting the Vietnam cease-fire to work to Nixon's meeting later this week with French President Georges Pompidou.

Kissinger returned last week from Paris talks on the cease-fire and the State Department's expert on the issue, William Sullivan, was just back from Saigon and discussions with the South Vietnamese on results of Kissinger's meetings with the North Vietnamese.

LBJ's Birthday Made A Holiday

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature yesterday designated Aug. 27 — the birthday of Lyndon B. Johnson — as a state holiday. But it wasn't easy.

The creation of another state holiday meant state employees had another day off. This, legislators figured, would cost the state too much money so an existing holiday had to be deleted.

The first choice was June 3, the birthday of Confederate President Jefferson Davis. But the Daughters of the Confederacy objected strenuously, so a compromise was reached that combined the birthdays of Davis and Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee into one holiday, called "Confederate Heroes Day," to be celebrated June 3.

The state senate, however, objected to this plan because it felt it did not give Lee the recognition he deserved. The final bill, agreed to yesterday the final day of the Texas Legislature's current session—made "Confederate Heroes Day" fall on Jan. 19, Lee's birthday.

Condition Improves

Sandra A. Wheeler, 17, of Sacramento, who was injured in an accident last Tuesday at Highways 37 and 121 in Sonoma County, has been removed from the critical list and was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital by hospital spokesmen.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Tuesday, May 29, the 149th day of 1973 with 216 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

John F. Kennedy, 35th president of the United States, was born May 29, 1917.

On this day in history:

In 1453, Constantinople now Istanbul, capital of the Byzantine Empire, was captured by the Turks. Some historians say it marked the end of the Middle Ages.

In 1790, Rhode Island became the last of the 13 original states to ratify the American Constitution.

In 1953, Sir Edmund Hillary of New Zealand became the first person to reach the top of Mount Everest.

A thought for the day: In his 1961 inaugural address, President John Kennedy said: "Let the word go forth from this time and place that the torch has passed to a new generation of Americans."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Teen Thinks Something Wrong After Trying To Get Pregnant

Worried writes: "Please help me. I'm 15 years old and, strange as it may seem, I wish I were pregnant. My steady and I have been trying since last June and every month my period is right on schedule. We know all about the 28-day cycle and the right times. I'm not a stupid kid and my boyfriend who is 19 has a good job. But I'm worried that something is wrong with me, although I have no other problems."

Dear Worried: Don't press your luck and be thankful you have not become pregnant. Don't put the cart before the horse — get married first. There is always a possibility that your very nice boyfriend will head for the hills when greeted with the news that his silly 15-year-old girl is pregnant. No doubt he is satisfied with life as it is. After all, he is getting what he wants without the extra responsibility and cost.

INFERTILITY PROBLEMS are the same in the unmarried person as in the married. Physicians usually tell a husband and wife to wait one year before undergoing the tests to determine whether conception is possible. And we usually start with the husband, because the semen test is the easiest of all. In three or four couples out of 10, the husband is wholly or partially responsible. Does he produce sperm and, if so, are they healthy, active, and in sufficient numbers? I wonder how Worried's boyfriend will react to her suggestion that he see a physician for this test.

The pelvic examination of the women includes a careful search for evidence of infection, growths, malformations of the uterus, and other conditions.

MORE COMPLICATED tests answer questions such as: Are the sperm cells going where they should and are they surviving? Do the ovaries release a matured egg? Do these eggs have a clear passageway to descend and meet the ascending sperm?

Many 15-year-olds get pregnant — a calamity because so few are married. Abortion is the alternative. In some segments of our society, early pregnancy is welcome and often encouraged because it means additional relief money. Some of these girls do very well financially, especially when they have two or three children by age 20.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

SITTING TOO LONG

B. K. D. writes: Whenever I go on a trip, my lower legs swell. Is there anything I can take to prevent this problem?

REPLY

Yes. Rise from the seat of the car, plane, bus, or train every half hour and stretch the legs or walk about. Swelling comes from sitting too long in one position, especially when there is pressure on the back of the legs.

CLUSTER OF WARTS

D. K. writes: For three years I've been treated for masaic warts. Are these clusters curable?

REPLY

Yes. If the diagnosis is correct, the entire wart can be removed. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on warts.

EVERYONE DOES

F. L. writes: Do all women get hardening of the arteries after the change of life?

REPLY

We all do if we live long enough.

Planners Will Consider Permit

The Petaluma Planning Commission will consider an environmental impact questionnaire and use permit application for the proposed San Antonio Continuation High School at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the city hall.

The school is proposed for Vallejo Street on the west side of the National Guard armory.

Also on the agenda are tentative maps for four subdivisions, Cambridge Square No. 3, Sunnyhills, Dickson Hill and Sun Terrace.

70 Riders Take Part In Bike Hike

About 70 bicycle riders turned out for Sunday's Bike Hike for the Retarded" in Novato and Ross Valley, according to Peggy Stanley, spokesman for Marin Aid To Retarded Children.

The organization had hoped that its effort would attract up to 2,000 participants and raise more than $10,000. But competition from Memorial Day weekend trips and events, and a series of recent similar hikes for other charities, resulted in the benefit for mentally retarded youngsters getting pledges for only $2,000, Mrs. Stanley reported.

Roadwork To Alter Auto Flow

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced today by the State Division of Highways.

Sections of the freeway involved are:

1. North and southbound lanes at the Richardson Bay Bridge will be closed intermittently from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. to install joint buffers at the end of the bridge.

2. In the vicinity of the Petaluma Creek Bridge, repair and rehabilitation of the roadbed will be undertaken on the bridge's northbound lanes, the highway passing under the bridge and the Route 116 interchange from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. One lane at a time will be closed, leaving the other open at all times to through traffic.

Man Killed By Burglar Of Home

ORINDA (UPI) — David F. Siewet, 58, was killed and his wife, Mary, 51, was wounded late Sunday when they were shot by a burglar they confronted in the driveway of their home.

The Contra Costa County sheriff's office said the couple found a car in their driveway when they returned home. As they approached the house, a man came out, firing at them.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, June 12, 1973, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 1400 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances and service connections. The work to be done lies in Miller Avenue and adjacent streets and rights-of-way in the City of Mill Valley in Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Pipe Relocation at Miller Avenue" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specification will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

Rain Again Delays Indy 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — For the second time in as many days, rain aborted the start of the 500 mile auto race today.

A field of 32 cars ran the parade lap after a delay of more than an hour due to a wet spot on the south straightaway, but before the pace lap was completed and the race actually started, the drivers were red flagged to a stop.

A light sprinkle of rain on the two north turns forced the halt, and one car, driven by John Martin, pulled into the pits during the pace lap.

The million dollar race was stopped Monday when a 10-car crash at the foot of the homestretch on the first lap sent driver Salt Walther to the hospital, seriously injured.

Walther's car was out of today's race, but Martin had a second chance to go since the race was halted. His car also was involved in the Monday crash, and every other car involved raced the pace lap today.

It was cloudy although the sun had peaked out at times before the start was attempted.

With the field ready to attempt a second start rain began to fall again.

Eight of the injured spectators were sent to downtown Methodist Hospital for treatment including Sue Rankin, 15, of Wingate, Ind., who was in serious condition with multiple burns. Two others, Diana Dasey, 14, also of Wingate, and David Keller, 38, of Perrysville, Ind., had "definite eye burns which might be visually serious," physicians said.

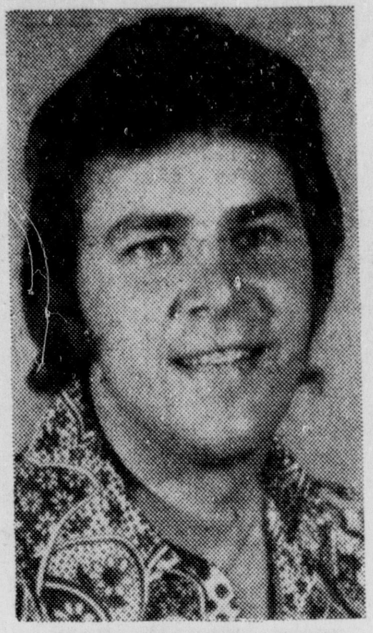
The crash occurred near the foot of the homestretch—about 300 yards past the starting line—seconds after the starting flag was waved Monday, causing the race to be stopped virtually before it began.

The drivers already had gunned their engines up to 130 miles per hour when the crash occurred, and several of the drivers were critical of the start.

Walther suffered multiple burns, a fractured left wrist and a possible back injury.

"I'll be back, dad!" From the intensive care unit in Methodist Hospital here, 25-year-old Walt Walther, still listed in "serious" condition as a result of burns and injuries suffered in Monday's 10-car crackup, made that promise Tuesday to his father, George Walther, Jr.

Four separate showers finally washed out the race, the last coming after the pileup. The earlier postponments delayed the start 4 hours 4 minutes.



DAVID (SALT) WALTHER
In Indy accident

The cars of all the favorites escaped damage since they had reached the turn before the collission occurred. Thus pole winner Johnny Rutherford, Al and Bobby Unser, Gary Bettenhausen, Mario Andretti, Gordon Johncock, Swede Savage and last year's winner, Mark Donohue, were rated the most likely contenders for victory and a possible speed record today.

Qustionable starters were the cars of Lee Kunzman, John Martin and David Hobbs, but it was believed Mike Mosley, Wally Dallenbach, Mike Hiss, Dick Simon, Jim McElreath and Jerry Grant would be ready. Their cars also were involved in the accident.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler, who said the usual flying start would be used, said cars would move up to fill any gaps in the lineup of 11 rows of three cars each.

"I don't know what triggered the accident," Fengler said.

"We had a good start. I'll have to see the film to find out what happened."

But Fengler's opinion was contradicted by several drivers. "It was the most ragged start I've seen here," Simon said. "Cars were straggered all over. It was closed up tremendously. People were everywhere."

"I saw five cars abreast at one time," Martin said. "It might have been a lot of guys were a little overanxious after waiting to start. There's no reason to roll over the guy in front of you. All should be prepared for it. Next year if I'm not on the pole, I'm going to start in back."

"It was a strange start," Kunzman said. "Everybody was spread out all over. Some were too wide, some too low. Some weren't accelerating. Others were accelerating to beat hell."

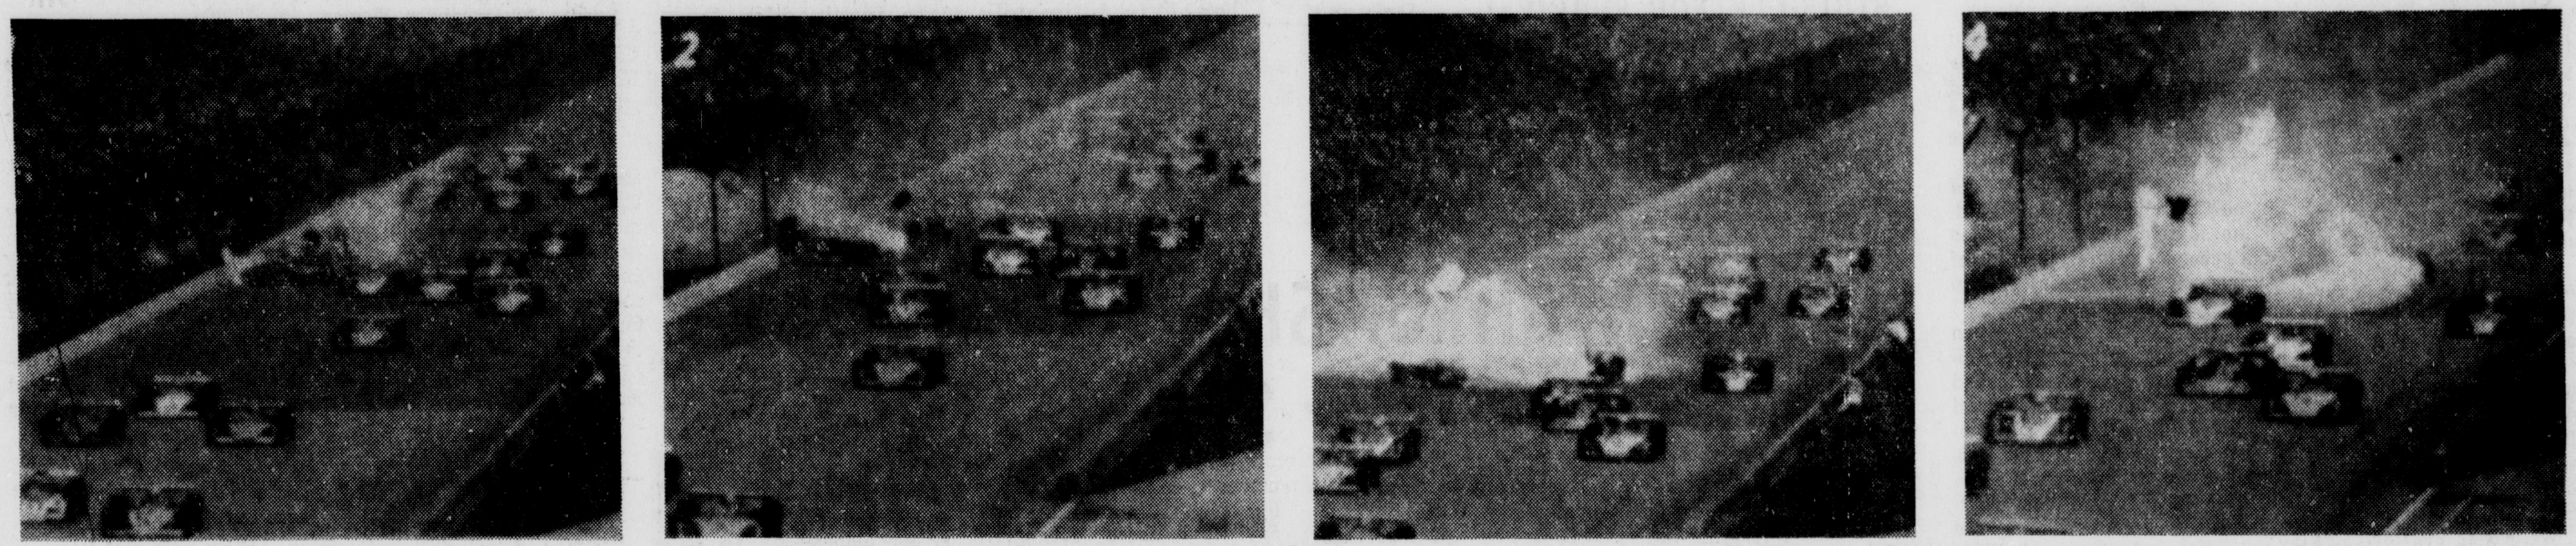
Starter Pat Vidan backed up Fengler with the comment, "It looked all right to me. It could very well have been a mechanical failure."

It happened that Walther's car, in the middle of the sixth row, veered to the right, struck the wall in a burst of flame, bounced back onto the track and was struck by at least one other car, creating bedlam.

Hiss was treated for a minor leg burn and Martin for a dislocated thumb and released while Walther suffered burns, a fractured left wrist and a possible back injury.

Periodic rain chased the more than 300,000 spectators to cover and soaked the track three times, forcing all-out efforts to dry the racing surface to permit the start. Each time the sun appeared briefly to help the effort and after allowing each car a 10- minute warmup, the race got under way.

But only 32 cars took the green flag as Bob Harkey's machine failed to start and was pushed into the pits. Today he'll start again from the back row.



Indianapolis 500 had barely begun yesterday when David (Salt) Walther's racer hit the outside wall and burst into flames on first lap to trigger 10-car crash. (UPI Telephotos)

No Discrimination In Barry's Camp

Max Shapiro, the man who runs the Rick Barry California Basketball Camp out of his San Rafael office, does not believe in discrimination because of sex. And because of that, there will be a Walnut Creek girl mixed in with the 270 boys at the Barry camp in San Jose this summer.

The girl, Mary Whatford, a 17-year-old junior at Carondelet High School in Concord, wrote a letter to Barry and Shapiro last month and inquired about the camp. She became interested after reading one of the camp brochures sent for by one of her younger brothers.

In the letter Mary explained that she is the only girl in a family of eight children and therefore has been playing sports since she was big enough to walk and "I can play as well as any boy my age."

I like the last paragraph of her letter — "Please let me hear from you as soon as possible so I can return my application in time or if I'm turned down because of sexual discrimination, I would feel this would violate the Equal Rights Amendment and would have to follow up this letter with a visit to our family lawyer . . . I would also contact my Assemblyman and Congressman to assure a change in the future for girls who are seriously interested in participating in all sports."

With those words, I would say that Mary Whatford was giving Shapiro some whatfor. But Max wrote back to Mary and told her that two years ago in San Diego the California Basketball Camp enrolled a female and things worked out quite well. Therefore, said he, the Barry Camp would be glad to have her.

So Mary will be attending the basketball camp, along with two of her seven brothers, and women's lib takes another big step forward.

WHAT'S THAT CHILDREN'S game, "Mother, May I?" I-J sports writer Lew Coddington, poring through the box scores on a typical day of major league baseball, came up with his own version of the "May I" game and tried to jot down a team of Mays.

The outfield was easy enough, with Carlos May of Chicago White Sox in left, Willie Mays of the Mets in center and Dave May of Milwaukee in right. He put Houston's Lee May on third, California's Rudy May on the pitcher's mound and Pittsburgh's Milt May behind the plate. He even had a designated hitter in Jerry May of Pittsburgh and a coach in former player Lee Maye, but is now combing the bushes for enough Mays to fill the infield.

THE RAIDERS GET A PLUS and the 49ers a minus because of the television type advertising in the highlight films of each team. True, the Raiders have a Hamm's Beer commercial in the film, the same as the 49ers, since the Hamm's people are paying most of the film expense. But the Raiders' commercial is at the front, before the action, while the 49er film has two, one at the beginning and another right in the middle. And also, there are two versions of the Raider film — one with beer commercials for adults and one without for youth groups. There is only one version of the 49er film, beer and all.

Once you get by the foam, the action in both films is superb.

McCovey's Glove As Useful As His Bat

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Willie McCovey became the San Francisco Giants' hitless wonder Monday.

"I kept Big Mac very busy down at first base," said a grateful Juan Marichal, winning pitcher in the Giants' 6-5 victory over the New York Mets.

McCovey, one of baseball's most feared hitters, was the only Giant starter without a hit in the game. But the first baseman speared four sharply hit drives and turned them into outs to help Marichal record his 26th career victory over the Mets.

"Some days you have good games at bat, some days you have good games in the field," said McCovey with a shrug. "I've never had so many hard balls hit my way. But they've got a lot of left-handed pull hitters, and Juan was making them hit the ball on the ground."

"I know a lot of people talk about my hitting but I take as much pride in my fielding," McCovey said.

"He was just great," said a grateful Marichal. "To me, he is the best first baseman in baseball."

"No one could have asked for a better performance," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "If he doesn't make those plays in the first and seventh, maybe we don't win."

McCovey attributed his fine play in the field to the fact he had a couple of days off recently.

"No question, I felt real loose," he said. "A rest like that can make a big difference sometimes."

McCovey stopped a smash by Wayne Garrett to end the Mets' seventh inning, leaving Duffy Dyer on second base, and relievers Sam McDowell and Elias Sosa finished the game for the Giants.

The Mets loaded the bases with none out in the eighth, and Manager Yogi Berra said later, "One hit and we would have been in business."

Gorman Wins In French Tennis

PARIS (UPI) — America's unseeded Tom Gorman became the first man to reach the last eight in the men's singles of the $150,000 French Open Tennis Championships today with a 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 win over Czech Milan Holecek.

Chris Evert, seeded second in the women's singles, swept safely through to the quarterfinals with a 6-2, 6-3 victory against another Czech, Renata Tomanova.

Miss Evert, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., America's last hope in the women's singles, will meet seventh seed Helga Masthoff of West Germany for a place in the semifinals.

Mrs. Masthoff defeated Pat Pretorius of South Africa 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Gorman of Seattle, Wash., had little trouble with Holecek, the man who put out Australian John Newcombe in the opening round. It was the best performance by Gorman in the French Championships.

On a cold day which threatened rain at any moment, Miss Evert, 18, dropped the opening two games, but then strung together seven consecutive games to take the set and go 1-0 up in the second.

Miss Evert has lost only seven games in the first three rounds and although Miss Tomanova, ranked fourth in Czechoslovakia, gave her the most difficult test to date, she appeared totally in control of her game and as relaxed as ever.

In a match which was interrupted by darkness Monday night, Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic finished off Australia's Phil Dent 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-3, to reach the last 16 in the men's singles.

Pilic, who is appealing a suspension for refusing to play for his country in the Davis Cup, had too great a repertoire for the Australian, who lost the tie-break 7-5 in the third set and could never recover.

Women's third seed Virginia Wade of Britain, playing at her most erratic, tumbled out of the third round, defeated by French girl Odile de Roubin, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

AT TIBURON PENINSULA CLUB

Strong Field In Bay Counties Net Tourney

The usual strong field will be on hand beginning Saturday for the 76th annual Bay Counties Tennis Tournament at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, according to tournament director Carol Spindler.

The event has added a new sponsor, Fidelity Savings, which is putting up $2,000 in prize money. Entrants will be competing in men's singles, men's doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles.

Play will begin Saturday at 9 a.m., continue Sunday, and conclude the following Saturday and Sunday.

The top-rated player in Northern California, Dan Bleckinger, is touring Europe and will miss the event, but second-rated Chuck Darley and third-ranked Barry MacKay of Ross will be on hand. So will Brazil's No. 8 player, Joao Soares.

Other top names among the men are Whitney Reed, Don Kierbow, Charles Hoeveler, Tom Brown, Steve Cornell, Greg Shephard and Bob Siska.

There will be no admission charge for spectators.

A's Manager Williams Puts Odom In Bullpen

Combined AP & UPI

DETROIT — Doghouse: spell that b-u-l-l-p-e-n for John "Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland Athletics.

Apparently A's manager Dick Williams is tired of letting the veteran right-hander try to pitch his way out of his slump from a regular spot in the rotation.

When a proven pitcher loses eight of nine starts and his earned run average jumps to 7.41, what can a manager do?

Odom was the victim of four Detroit runs in 4 and ⅔ innings Monday night as the A's lost 4-3 in a nationally televised game to the Tigers, who swept the three-game series.

The loss dropped fifth-place Oakland 5½ games behind American League West leader Chicago, which won two games from Cleveland.

"He's been getting behind a lot of hitters. He walks quite a few," Williams said, Trying to explain what Odom has been doing wrong this season. "Control. Control is the big thing."

"Concerned? I'm concerned enough that we're going to put him in the bullpen," he added.

Williams said he didn't know how long Odom would be used as a reliever and he wouldn't say who would be his replacement in the rotation.

Tiger hurler Joe Coleman didn't have an easy time of it either, but despite saying he hates to pitch in the rainy weather present Monday, the Tiger righthander won his ninth game against three losses.

The muddy field he complained about actually helped bring him the triumph, Detroit's fourth in a row.

What proved to be the game-winning hit was a routine grounder by designated hitter Gates Brown in the fifth inning. The ball, heading for first baseman Gene Tenace's mitt, suddenly bounced high over his head to drive in the fourth Detroit run.

But another item helped assure the Tigers of winning their 10th game in the last 13. That was a baserunning boo-boo by Bill North, who leads the league in stolen bases with 16.

With Detroit ahead 4-3 in the eighth, North singled and stole second. But when Sal Bando hit a grounder to shortstop Ed Brinkman, North tried for third and was tagged out. On a ball hit to the left side of the infield a runner on second is almost always supposed to hold.

On North's goof Williams said: "He made a mistake and he knows it. He was just too intent on getting over there. He's been playing good ball for us. I have no complaints on Bill North."

North, who represented the tying run, opened the eighth with a single off Coleman. Relievers Chuck Seelbach and John Hiller came on to retire the next three batters.

Detroit jumped on Odom — who beat the Tigers in the final game of last year's American League playoffs — for two quick runs as Norm Cash homered in the second inning following a leadoff walk to Sims.

The Tigers made it 4-0 with two runs in the fifth, Singles by Rich Reese and Mickey Stanley with two outs put runners on first and third. A wild pitch by Odom brought Reese home, then Brown bounced his single over Tenace's head to score Stanley.

Ted Kubiak's leadoff double in the sixth starts the A's three

Provocative Deer Study Statistics

An Arizona State University professor's study of deer production turned up some very interesting statistics.

Sidney W. Wilcox of the Tempe campus' College of Engineering Sciences has completed three years of a five-year study, "Deer Production in the United States."

Wilcox found that, in 1971, 1,866,918 deer harvested by sport hunters in the United States produced 98,754,558 pounds of boneless meat.

Based on the current Sacramento area retail price (98 cents a pound) of ground chuck beef, the value of the deer meat was $96,779,467. (This, incidentally, because of the increase in retail meat prices, was about $10 million more than the value calculated by Wilcox.)

Californians accounted for about 2.5 per cent of the deer taken, and the meat was worth something like $2.4 million, at current retail prices.

The Wilcox study also showed that hunter numbers increased from 8,212,000 nationally in 1969 to more than 8,336,000 in 1970 before slipping back to 8,164,000 the following year.

Up to 500,000 people hunt deer each year in California, but the figure has been closer to 400,000 annually in the last few years.

Regarding the national figures, Wilcox attributed the 1971 decrease to the moratorium on firearms hunting in Minnesota that year, and the lack of data on hunter numbers from the State of Virginia.

Wilcox's statistics also showed the fatality rate among deer hunters from accidents in the field. In 1971, there were 116 known accidental deaths from gunshot wounds among the 7,358,062 hunters going after deer.

This amounts to 0.0015 per cent of the total, or 1.6 fatalities per 100,000 deer hunters. In California, there were two fatal accidents among deer hunters in the field that year, or less than 0.5 fatalities per 100,000 hunters.

Wilcox compared the hunting fatality rate to that for falls in the home, which the National Safety Council says is 4.8 per 100,000 people.

THERE HAS BEEN a great deal of talk lately about finding funds to supplement those of the hard-pressed sportsman to finance the work of wildlife conservation.

Harry Woodward, director of the Colorado Division of Wildlife, is among those calling for a change in the method of financing wildlife conservation programs.

"The day has arrived when nonhunting segments of our citizenry are going to be called on to fully and adequately fund all wildlife activities not contributing to hunting and fishing," said Woodward.

Woodward made his cost-sharing remarks during the Governor's Conference on Wildlife and the Environment in Denver recently. He added:

"This means the adoption of a system of cost accounting which will be the basis for the determination of sharing, for most wildlife populations serve the dual purpose of benefiting both the hunter and the nonhunter, or the fisherman and the nonfisherman, as the case may be."

While hunters and fishermen have been footing the bill for all wildlife in the past, Woodward continued, "It is now time for the non-license buyer — the hiker, the photographer, the bird feeder, the nonhunter who frequently resorts to rhetoric but seldom demonstrates his dedication to principle — to dip his hand into his money pocket. It would give people the opportunity to supplement their rhetoric with their case earmarked for wildlife."

Woodward concluded that "costs must be borne by those who benefit."

Joe Rudi bunted North to third and Bando singled him in. After a ground out by Reggie Jackson, designated hitter Deron Johnson singled Bando home.

In the ninth, Tenace walked with two outs. Rich McKinney singled, sending pinch runner Bert Campaneris to third. But Hiller — who picked up his ninth save — got pinch-hitter Angel Mangual to end the game by forcing McKinney at second.

STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL — Driver David (Salt) Walther's thrashing legs stuck out of his sheared McLaren racer as it skidded down the track upside down yesterday after crashing into the wall on the first lap of the Indianapolis 500 automobile race. Ten cars ultimately were involved in the crackup, Walther, 25, from Dayton, Ohio, was hospitalized with burns and multiple injuries, and three spectators also were hospitalized.

MADE IT ON HIS OWN

Driver Walther Shunned His Dad's 'Silver Spoon'

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Salt Walther wasn't really trying to prove anything to his father, only to himself.

He wanted to prove that a kid like him, born with a silver spoon in his mouth, could go out in the world and still hack it without leaning on the old man's name or resources.

"That 'rich kid' stuff doesn't bother me anymore," he said before slipping into his father's car, a sleek British-made McLaren Offy, for the start of Monday's 500 miler, a race in which he wasn't destined to go even 500 yards.

"It used to bother me at first, but no more," went on 25-year-old Salt Walther. "I've begun to live with it. If they wanna think I'm rich, okay. I'm certainly not poor. But lemme tell you this about myself —I've done everything in my life. I've sold insurance, paved roads and even cleaned out the johns in my father's foundry back in Dayton, Ohio."

Salt Walther is in serious condition at Methodist Hospital today with multiple burns, a possible back injury and a fractured left wrist.

From the way some of them who were down on the track right after they pulled him from his flaming car Monday are talking about Salt Walther now, it sounds as if it may be touch and go whether he survives.

Salt, whose real name is David, knew all the risks involved and chose to take them voluntarily.

"Look," he told me, talking about them, "I've raced hydroplanes for my dad also and turned over in some of them. I know there are risks involved in racing cars or boats, but it isn't really as dangerous as a lotta people think. I enjoy the competition, the excitement."

He has been around race tracks with his father, George Walther, Jr., ever since he was a baby.

A word now about George Walther, Jr.

He's the president of the Dayton-Walther Corp. which has plants in 16 states and eight foreign countries. The corporation is the world's largest manufacturer of cast steel wheels for trucks and the last time anybody bothered counting, it was worth more than $35 million.

George Walther's father used to race bicycles here at Indianapolis, so it was only natural that Salt's father also took to racing.

In the past 19 years, George Walther, Jr., has hired himself some big names to drive his cars here at Indy —names like Troy Ruttman, Johnny Rutherford, Juan Manuel Fangio and Peter Revson.

Last year, Salt Walther was a backup driver for his father but had to bow out before he could complete even one lap due to engine trouble.

The late Art Pollard, killed here two and a half weeks ago, had been very friendly with young Salt before he died.

"C'mon down here, I want to show you something," he said to the youngster a year ago.

Then, patiently and painstakingly, he sat with him in the stands at each of the four turns here at Indianapolis and explained to him how to come in to them and get out of them.

One of Salt Walther's close friends perhaps said it best when they were taking the young driver off to the hospital.

"I know those doctors," said the friend. "The first thing they're going to look for with Salt is any broken bones, but they'll probably never bother to check his heart. That's what's really broken. You have no idea how much he wanted to finish this race."

Marin Catholic Honors 'Bocc'

Mongreal Expos' catcher John Boccabella, an alumnus of Marin Catholic High School, Saturday became the first inductee into the Marin Catholic Baseball Hall of Fame in ceremonies at the school.

Boccabella was featured speaker at a spaghetti supper which followed the varsity-alumni game, won by the varsity, 8-6, as Mike Nivens drove in three runs with three hits.

The game and supper raised approximately $150 for the school's baseball program, said coach Dave Gonsalves. The newly-created Hall of Fame will induct one alumnus annually, he added.

Indy 500 Starter's Rebuttal

INDIANNAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Pat Vidan, the official starter for Indianapolis 500, today defended himself against charges that he got the 33-car field off to a "ragged start" Monday that contributed to Monday's 10-car crackup.

Several drivers were critical of the disasterous start that seriously injured Salt Walther. The accident occurred only 300 yards from the starting line as cars were jockeying for position on the first turn..

"It was the most ragged start I've ever seen here," said driver Dick Simon of Salt Lake City. "Cars were staggered all over. People were everywhere."

Driver David Hobbs of Britian said, "these are suppposed to be 33 of the best drivers in the world you'd think they could at least drive down the bloody street."

Vidan responded to the charges:

"I think the start was all right. You'll hear all kinds of rumors and whatnot. All I know is Harlan (chief steward Harlan Fengler) said go, green." There was jostling for position right after the start."

Stafford Lake, Rodeo Lagoon and Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County were scheduled to be stocked with catchable size rainbow trout this week, it was announced by the Department of Fish and Game.

Bicycle Racing Slated Sunday

A full day of bicycle racing is slated Sunday starting at 9 a.m. in the San Rafael Criterium and Bicycle Show at the Marin County Civic Center.

Some 600 amateur bike riders are expected to compete in the event sponsored jointly by the North San Rafael Kiwanis and the Marin Cyclists. They will be racing for $1,500 in merchandise contributed by participating merchants, bicycle dealers and manufacturers who will display their products in 20 infield booths. Antique bicycles and autos will also be exhibited. Admission is 50 cents.

Last year's Senior A race winner, John Howard, and runnerup Mike Neal are listed as tentative starters in the 22-mile rematch starting at 1:40 p.m. over the eight-tenths of a mile criterium course. The Civic Center layout is characterized by hilly and level terrain plus nine tight corners.

Other racing classes include Juniors, Intermediates, Women and Veterans. The 16-mile Senior B race begins at 12:50 p.m., the 12-mile Senior C race at 11:15 a.m., the 16-mile Junior race at noon, and the 10-mile Veterans race at 10:30 a.m.

Other race starts are: Intermediates (10 miles) at 9:50 a.m., Women (eight miles) at 9:15 a.m. plus Midgets and Intermediate Girls (four miles) at 9 a.m.

The Amateur Bicycle League of America-sanctioned event will also feature a 25-mile pro race starting at 3 p.m. These professional bike riders will appear under the sponsorship of the Bank of Marin.

Riders from Great Britain, Australia, Canada, United States, Belgium, Holland and Italy will participate in the 12-man pro field racing in the finale at 3 p.m. The pros will be racing for an undetermined amount of prize money.

Amateurs will be competing for merchandise valued at $660 for the Senior A race, $133 for Senior B, $82 for Senior C, $269 for Juniors, $102 for Veterans and $80 for Intermediates, $65 for Women.

AL FEUERBACH

Shot Put King Has A Mission

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Al Feuerbach has finally become the world's shot put king and now he wants to prove it to the Russians.

The 6-foot-1, 245-pound Feuerbach, who surpassed Randy Matson's longtime world mark with a 71-7 heave three weeks ago, has a date in Moscow next week and is hoping he can show the Russians his best.

"I'm very patriotic when it comes to competing for my country," Feuerbach said after a relatively modest 70-4 ¾ effort in the Vons Classic here Sunday. "I'd like to get off my best throw to give some credibility to what I've done over here.

"The track season in Russia and Europe begins much later," he explained. "When we compete over there it's usually not the peak of our season so we never have our best marks.

"The marks coming out of the United States this year are fantastic but they always laugh at the Americans when we don't do well in our meets."

The 25-year-old Feuerbach gives part of the blame for this situation to the Amateur Athletic Union, which he said has made it difficult for his Pacific Coast Track Club to compete in overseas meets.

"An American club visiting Europe could do a lot for prestige," he said, "but the AAU wants to control the sport and make us look bad."

Prior to his record-breaking toss in San Jose, Feuerbach had predicted he would have a good shot at the world record. But he admits that it's impossible to tell when "conditions will be right" for another peak performance.

"I knew (before the San Jose meet) that if I rested and trained properly, the potential for the record would be there," he said. "But you can't predict what will actually happen because that depends upon the conditions."

Feuerbach admits "I'm far beyond the highest level I've ever been" but realizes that it's hard to get up for every meet.

"I am training right through these meets and it's hard to peak up sometimes," said Feuerbach. "I know what my body can do, but you have to reach a new plateau and accept it mentally before you can move up to the next one."

Al is hoping to reach the next plateau in Moscow, which could mean another record. And if it doesn't come in Russia, he isn't going to worry.

"You have to accept what you are doing now before you can go on to the next thing, but I believe it's all a matter of time," he said.

Padres' Transfer Conditions

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — National League president Charles S. (Chub) Feeney said Monday that league approval of the sale was one of several conditions which will have to be met before the San Diego franchise can be transferred to Washington.

Feeney said it was too early to speculate about a possible realignment of the league should approval be given to the switch to the nation's capital.

"If approval for a transfer is granted," said Feeney, "it is conceivable that the Washington franchise could remain in the NL West.

"When San Diego joined our league as an expansion club, it was paired with San Francisco and Houston in scheduling assignments. In Washington, the club could be paired with Cincinnati and Atlanta and still remain in the West."

GIANTS

Dyer grounded out to end the inning and the Mets trailed 6-4.

Another possible right-handed Mets pinch hitter, Willie Mays, was not available. The 42-year-old star was eligible to come off the disabled list Monday and took batting practice, but the Mets decided not to reactivate him for the game.

Rookie right-hander Tommy Moore made his first start of the season for New York and Bobby Bonds hit his first pitch for a home run. Bonds had a run-scoring single in the second when the Giants scored four times to take a 5-0 lead.

"I knew it was the kid's first start and I figured he'd be trying to make his first pitch a strike," said Bonds, a leadoff hitter with the philosophy that, "You don't get paid for walks."

The Giants scored another run in the third on Chris Speier's triple, taking a 6-0 lead.

"It was a laugher for five innings," said Fox.

The New York comeback started with John Milner's two-run homer in the sixth. But it fell short and the Mets, second in the National League East, fell under .500 for the season.

Marichal made his season record 6-4 and his lifetime mark 233-129 as the Giants increased their Western Division lead to one and one-half games.

Ronight, the Mets' Tom Seaver, 5-3, is scheduled to pitch against Jim Barr, 4-5.

Newport Beach Netter Wins Senior Crown

BURLINGAME (AP) — Hugh Stewart, of Newport Beach, outlasted both San Francisco's George Baskevitch and 90 degree heat to win the men's title in the 73rd annual California State Senior Tennis Championships.

Stewart took both sets by a 6-2 margin in the finals Monday at Peninsula Tennis Club.

But in the men's 45 doubles, Stewart and former Stanford basketball star George Yardley lost 6-1, 7-6 to Ed Kauder and Dick Metteer.

June Gay defeated Marge Kohler 7-6, 6-2 to win the women's 40 singles. The women's 40 doubles was taken by Donna Myers and Eve Robards 4-6, 6-3 after opponent Jean Datton reinjured a turned ankle and was forced to retire with her partner, Carol Schneider.

Wood Turns Back The Clock

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Throwing mostly "junk," Wilbur Wood turned baseball's clock back to the turn of the century last night and took two steps toward the record book by pitching 14 innings of six-hit ball and notching his 12th and 13th victories for the Chicago White Sox.

If the world champion Oakland A's rekindled memories of yesteryear last season with their assortment of handlebar mustaches and lambchop sideburns, then Wood's workhorse performances certainly must echo times long gone when pitchers like "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, Jack Chesbro and Ed Walsh started more than 50 games a season and worked more than 400 innings.

Monday was only Memorial Day and not even a quarter of the season has been completed. Yet, unbelievably for these modern times when starting pitchers get the hook more frequently than not, Wood, a knuckleball expert "without a major league fastball," has a 13-3 record with four shutouts and nine complete games in 131 2-3 innings.

His 12th victory may have been bargain but it was definitely no gift. Wood, who got to know the bullpen quite well before becoming a starter for Chicago in 1971, came to the mound for the completion of Saturday night's 16-inning marathon against the Cleveland Indians which was suspended with the score tied 2-2 because of a 1 A.M. curfew in Chicago.

Wood allowed two hits and an unearned run in five innings in that game and was carried to a 6-3 victory in the 21st inning by Dick Allen's three-run opposite field home run with two out.

Wood, a 6-foot, 200-pounder with a spongy belly and a rubber arm, then started the regularly scheduled game a half hour later and 27 outs, four hits and no runs afterwards, he had victory No. 13, 4-0--putting him 27 days ahead of Denny McLain's 31-game pace for Detroit in 1968.

"I certainly wasn't tired tonight," Wood said, "and I could have pitched many more innings. I think, though, I may have been lucky because they were hitting a lot of good shots but the air was very heavy and the balls were getting caught in the outfield. When I pitch I challenge every hitter, and although they all try to kill the knuckleball, more often than not they'll pop it up."

"Right now Wilbur Wood is the best left-hander in the American League," Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner said, "and I think he's going to prove he's the best pitcher in baseball.

"I told him before the suspended game I'd let him go five innings and then see how he felt. But everything worked out all right. In the seventh inning of the regular game I asked him how he felt. He told me he was okay and I had no reason not to believe him."

At his present rate, Wood is headed toward a 50-victory season and 500 innings pitched.

In other AL games, Kansas City edged Boston 5-4, Detroit nipped Oakland 4-3, California beat Milwaukee 7-4 and Minnesota walloped Baltimore 10-3. Texas at New York was rained out.

Pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua delivered a two-run single with one out in the ninth inning to tie the score and Cookie Rojas singled home Gene Garber with the winning run to give Kansas City its triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run triple sparked a six-run outburst in the third and Steve Braun added a pair of basesempty homers to lead Minnesota over the Orioles.

Pinch-hitters Tom McCraw and Winston Llenas drove in the tying and winning runs and Bill Singer pitched a six-hitter to give California its comefrombehind victory over the Brewers.

The Angels trailed 4-3 in the seventh when Rudy Meoli singled and scored on McCraw's pinch-hit double. Llenas then hit for Sandy Alomar and singled home McCraw with the winning run.

Dodgers' Messersmith Impresses

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Los Angeles Dodgers have been red-faced over a trade they made with the California Angels last winter, but perhaps Andy Messersmith is ready to change their complexion.

Last November the Dodgers gave up superstar Frank Robinson, infielders Billy Grabarkewitz and Bobby Valentine and pitchers Bill Singer and Mike Strahler to the Angels for Messersmith and third baseman Ken McMullen in what until now has become the "steal" of the year for California.

Robinson, Singer and Valentine, before he was hurt, all have done well with California while Messersmith has been struggling and McMullen has lost his job to rookie Ron Cey.

Messersmith, however, may be ready to start paying dividends. The 27-year-old right-hander, who won 20 games with the Angels two years ago, turned in his finest game of the season Monday night when he pitched the Dodgers to a 5-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Messersmith allowed only seven hits and struck out 12, including a major league record six in a row at the start of the game. He joined American Leaguers Bert Blyleven, Ray Culp and John Hiller as the only pitchers ever to have accomplished that feat.

The victory was Messersmith's fifth but it was the first time he had demonstrated the overpowering stuff he had while he was with the Angels.

"I've been trying a lot of things lately," said Messersmith, who has not been pleased with his recent performances. "The way I've been pitching I was lucky to win four. Tonight I came more over the top, something that my old catcher, Jeff Torborg, reminded me of the year I won 20. (Chris) Cannizzaro warmed me up tonight and when he saw the overhand he said, 'that's it.'"

Messersmith was aided by back-to-back home runs by Willie Crawford and Cey in the fourth and a spectacular catch by centerfielder Willie Davis, who took a three-run homer away from Willie Montanez in the seventh.

"That ball was gone until I put my hand on it," said Davis, who reached nearly two feet over the centerfield fence to snare the drive. "I said, 'come back here ball, you can't mess up my friend's game.'"

In other NL games, Montreal beat San Diego 7-6, St. Louis edged Atlanta 3-2, Cincinnati nipped Chicago 6-5, San Francisco topped New York 6-5 and Pittsburgh downed Houston 4-2.

Pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore hit a three-run homer with two out in the top of the ninth inning to give the Expos a come-from-behind victory over the Padres. It was Mashore's second pinch-hit three-run homer in as many days and helped reliever Mike Marshall to his fifth victory. Ron Fairly also homered for Montreal while pitcher Mike Corkins homered for the Padres.

Wayne Granger put out a ninth inning rally to preserve the Cardinals' victory over Atlanta. It was the sixth victory in a row and ninth in 10 games for St. Louis. Granger took over from reliever Rich Folkers with the bases loaded and none out and, after giving up a two-run single to Dusty Baker, retired three batters in a row to preserve starter Rick Wise's sixth triumph in eight decisions. Wise's run-scoring hit in the eighth proved to be the winning run.

Joe Morgan's one-out single in the last of the ninth scored Darrel Chaney with the run that enabled the Reds to beat Chicago. Morgan's hit, which bounced off first baseman Pat Borque's glove, was hotly contested by Cubs' Manager Whitey Lockman, who claimed that the ball was foul. Bourque and Billy Williams hit home runs for the Cubs.

Milt May homered and Dave Cash contributed a pair of run-scoring singles as the Pirates downed the Astros.

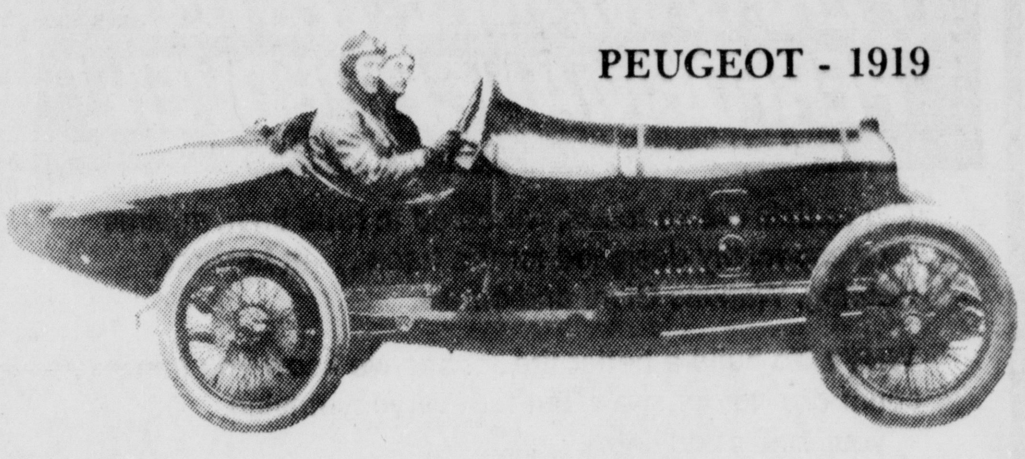
PEUGEOT WINS INDY 500 FOR 3rd TIME!*
*headline from 1919 newspaper
PEUGEOT INDIANAPOLIS WINNER - HOWARD WILCOX, 1919
PEUGEOT - 1919



For five consecutive races Peugeot dominated the Indy Classic, Three out-right wins - Jules Goux in 1913, Dario Resta in 1916, Howard Wilcox in 1919. Two second place finishers: Arthur Duray in 1914, Resta in 1915.
The high point of Peugeot's racing history occurred in 1916 when the French car took the triple crown of auto racing in the Indy Classic, the American Grand Pix (Santa Monica, Calif.) and the Vanderbilt Cup (Ashtubula, Ohio.)

Past Actions Spark Drive For County Planning Seat

(One of a series of stories on applicants for two vacancies on the San Rafael Planning Commission)

DONN E. NISSEN
Appalled by planning

Donn E. Nissen, president of the Terra Linda Homeowners Association, is seeking appointment to the San Rafael Planning Commission because he is appalled by community planning decisions made in the past.

Nissen is one of six applicants thus far for the seats of commissioners Albert J. Boro and Thomas R. O'Toole, whose terms expire June 30.

The 46-year-old Nissen, who graduated from the University of Washington with a bachelor's degree in forestry, is a sales representative for Olincraft Inc., a Concord-based paper firm.

Nissen served four years on the Dixie Finance Committee and on the Terra Linda High Booster Club and is a former president of both groups.

Nissen, citing poor planning by the city, said he opposed Arthur Nicolaisen's proposal to develop a graded hillside near the Civic Center with an office and restaurant complex, as well as a proposal by the McCarthy Co. of Northern California for 292 units on a parcel off San Pablo Avenue, also near the Civic Center. The planning commission approved impact statements for both proposals without considering the effect of additional traffic in the area, he said.

Nissen said he also opposes plans to develop Courthouse Square with dual office buildings and a parking garage and a proposal for a $40 million commercial and residential complex on Smith Ranch Brothers land in northeastern San Rafael.

Such major developments as the Smith Ranch, McCarthy and Nicolaisen proposals, he said, should be halted pending completion of the city's general plan. "I'd like to stop all major development until the general plan is completed."

Nissen said the planning commission has become autonomous from city planning staff, instead operating as a "private club" with a "public be damned" attitude.

Nissen called for more commission communication with the San Rafael Planning Department, creation of an architectural review board, a program whereby developers present plans to local homeowners before appearing before the commission and more comprehensive site and landscape planning.

Nissen also said he supported the proposed countywide plan.

A 13-year resident of the city, Nissen lives at 607 Tamarack Drive with his wife, Thelma May. The couple has a son and a daughter.

Mexico City's Airport Closed By Dust Storm

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A swirling dust storm closed Mexico City's international airport for 99 minutes yesterday, reduced visibility to one-half block and choked and blinded many of its inhabitants.

Air traffic resumed at 4:16 p.m.

The weather bureau said the dust storm was triggered by unusually strong winds gusting across the dried surface of Lake Texcoco on the northeast edge of the capital.

Officials said they closed the airport to all incoming and outgoing flights because of an almost total lack of visibility and possible dust danger to jet engines.

Marin Gets $22,456 In Support Pay

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County has received $22,456 in the 18 months through March as state supplements to child support collected by the Marin district attorney's office from absentee fathers whose children were on welfare rolls.

State Welfare Director David B. Swoap explained that the state payments to the county reflect one-fifth to one-third of the total collected locally from the absentee fathers. Statewide, the local district attorneys have collected some $35 million in the 18 months and the counties have been allocated $7.1 million.

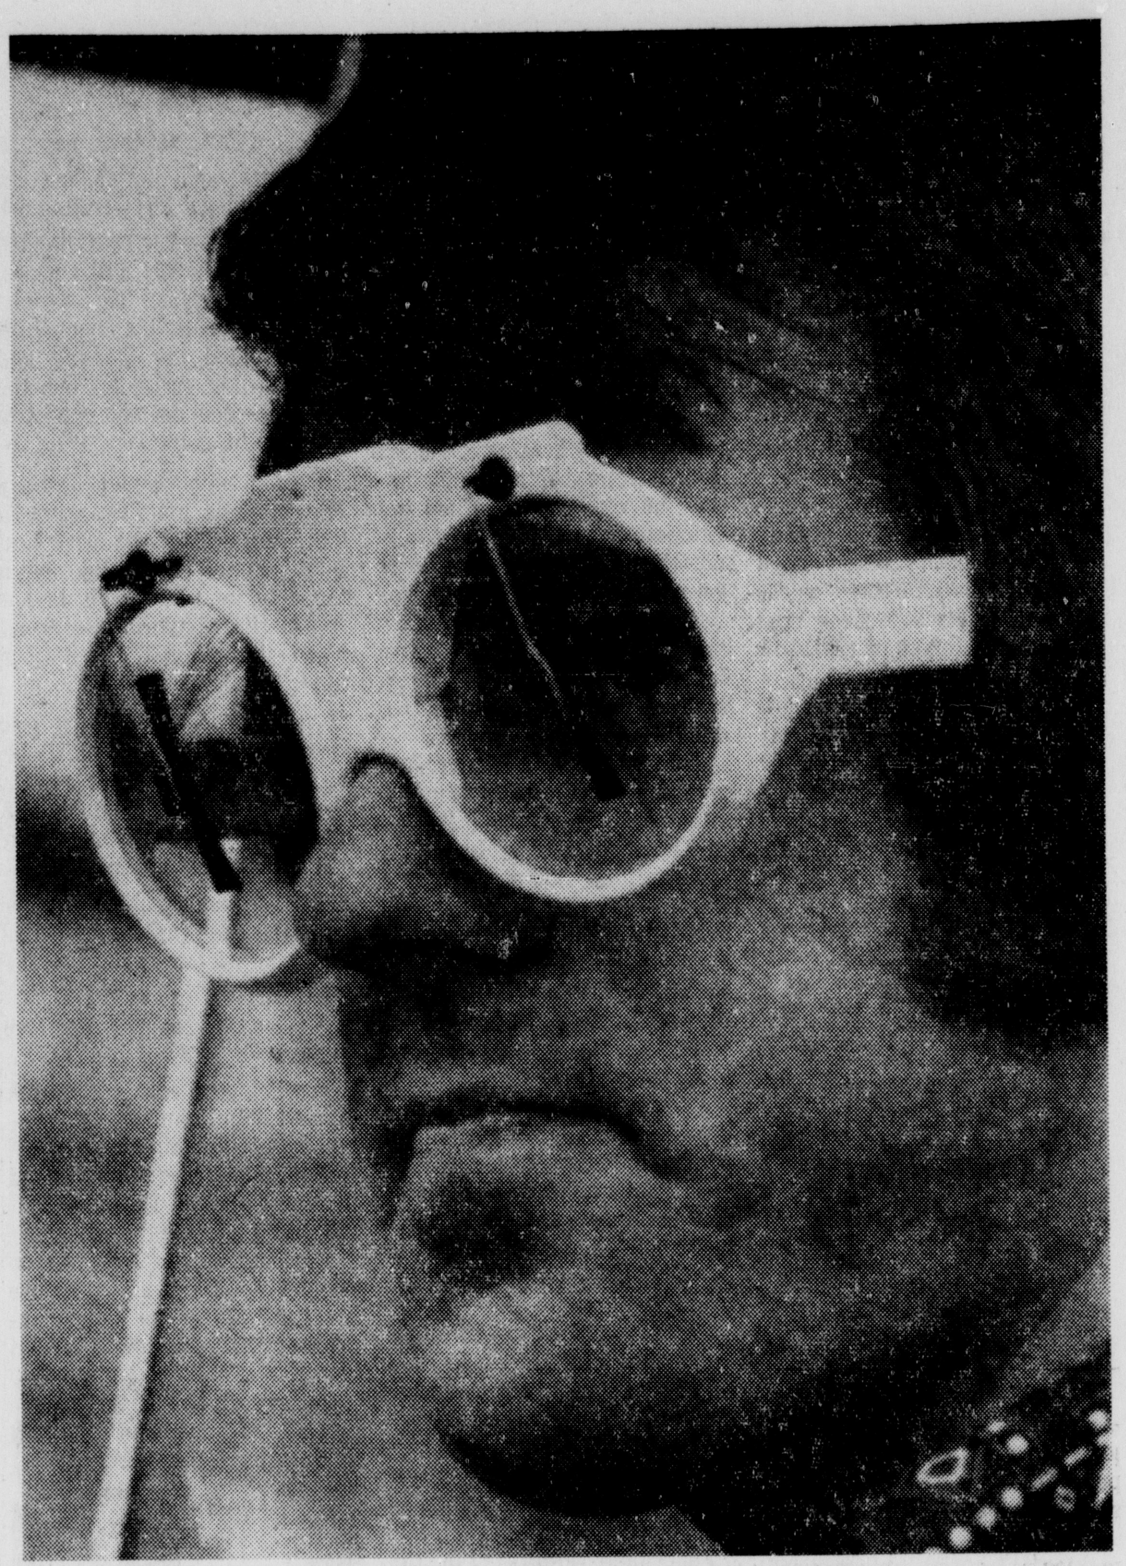
Many of the counties are using their shares to expand staffs tracking down fathers who failed to support their youngsters.

Sonoma County's share in the 18 months totalled $106,248, Swoap reported.

He explained that statewide, some 850,000 youngsters are on welfare because of absentee fathers' failure to provide.

Shah In Belgrade

BELGRADE (UPI) — The Shah of Iran and the Empress Farah arrived today for a five-day "friendly state visit" which government officials said would include discussion of a possible Iranian oil pipeline through Yugoslavia.



RAINDROPS ON HIS GLASSES

Mike Hiss of Tustin, Calif., needed windshield wipers at the Indy 500 yesterday but because of the rain delay which halted the race he needed the wipers on his eye glasses rather than on a vehicle. Hiss was among the 33 qualifiers for the race which is to be run today after the one-day postponement.

Non-Military Type May Become Navy's First Female Chaplain

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Dianna Pohlman never considered herself a military type and once was more interested in music than in theology. But she expects to become the Navy's first female chaplain.

Miss Pohlman, 32, a native of San Diego, Calif., graduated from the Princeton Theological Seminary in January and expects to be ordained in Washington, D.C., July 1. If her commission comes through, she would be inducted the following day at the Naval Annex in Washington.

She decided to go into the Navy after receiving her Master of Divinity degree when a Presbyterian Navy chaplain in San Diego "asked me to consider the possibility," she said in an interview..

"I didn't look at the other armed forces after the Navy contact," Miss Pohlman said. "Their whole lifestyle and the quality of persons I met in the Navy" were so attractive that "I had no interest in checking out with others," she said.

"I've never considered myself a military-type person, but my own personal feelings and my own theology don't preclude my going into the Navy," she said.

"The Navy and I are very much agreed that it would not be best for the first woman just to work with women, and I'm happy about that because I think a ministry ought to be to all areas of a community."

Miss Pohlman was a music major at Occidental College in Los Angeles. "After a year of specializing in the French horn at the University of Wisconsin," she said, "I had found that when I was very honest with myself, music had become my god."

"About the fall of 1969, I went in to talk to my pastor and realized I had a deep desire to study the Christian faith and the Bible," she said.

A member of the United Presbyterian Church, she chose to attend the Princeton seminary. There, she was one of 74 women out of a student body of 660.

If sworn into the Navy, Miss Pohlman will spend July and August at the Chaplain school in Newport, R.I., before receiving the rank of lieutenant, j.g.

Statue Honors Servicewoman

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — A life-size bronze statue of 1st Lt. Sharon Lane, first American servicewoman to die in Vietnam, was dedicated yesterday as part of Memorial Day services.

Miss Lane, 25, of nearby North Industry, was serving with the Army Nurse Corps at Chu Lai when killed by a Communist rocket in June 1969.

The statue stands on the grounds of Altman Hospital, where she attended the School of Nursing. On the base of the statue are inscribed the names of 110 Stark County servicemen who also died in Indochina.

Volkswagen is offering a limited production model of the 1973 Super Beetle, featuring racing style components such as wide radial tires, a small diameter, thick padded steering wheel and rally-type bucket seats. Distinguished by belt-line striping, black "chrome" bumpers and trim and sports wheels, the Sports Bug is available in metallic blue and bright yellow. VW dealer in Marin is Leon C. Felton of San Rafael.

Price Increases Are Seen By Auto Company Official

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said today that GM will have to install costly catalytic converters on most, if not all, of its 1975 model cars to meet government emission control standards.

This, Gerstenberg said, will es of about $150 just to recover result in average price increas- costs.

To attempt to meet the federal standards within the time available without catalytic converters, he said, "might mean, in many cases, further losses in fuel economy and engine performance, and less assurance that the required emission levels could be maintained in the field."

Gerstenberg, speaking at GM's 65th annual stockholders meeting, said "the majority" of GM's 1975 models will have new carburetion and ignition systems which will maintain or improve fuel economy and engine performance.

In addition, he said, "some will need air pumps, and in most cases—if not all—catalytic converters may also be necessary or desirable."

Gerstenberg said that should catalysts be required on GM's entire 1975 model line, "an average retail price increase in the area of $150 would be required for all the added equipment including the catalyst just to recover the cost to General Motors. If some of our cars should be equipped with catalysts, the average price increase would be something less."

Commenting on the upcoming auto industry contract negotiations, the GM board chairman said he agrees fully with United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock "that 1973, unlike 1970, does not hold the built-in factors that fostered the strike of that year." The union struck GM for 67 daysin 1970 when no contract agreement could be reached.

Gerstenberg also revised upward his projection for industry vehicle sales this year to 14,750,000 units—11,750,000 cars and three million trucks—and said, "all present indicators point to a continued strong market next year."

He said GM's capital worldwide expenditure this year will total $1.2 billion, compared with just under $1 billion in 1972. A large chunk of this, he said, will be devoted to overseas operations—$250 million this year as compared with $160 million in 1972. Domestic spending will total $890 million —$200 million for antipollution and safety improvements—and $60 million will go to GM's Canadian operations.

Doubleknit Industry Should Level Off

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — In June, 1971, I bought 50 shares of Edmos Corp. (ASE) for $26 a share. I realized this maker of doubleknit fabrics was somewhat speculative but the price started slipping almost immediately. Now that the shares are below $6 I wonder whether I should buy more or take the loss — R.H.

A — After an initial boom followed by an equally dynamic bust, the doubleknit textile industry now appears headed for a period of relative calm. Demand is expected to increase at a 15 per cent annual rate. Foreign imports, which were a major competitive problem are now leveling off as a result of negotiated trade agreements and two dollar devaluations.

In the explosive early boom days the industry was enjoying a 50 per cent return per machine. As a result of lower product price and higher machine costs the figure is now closer to 10 per cent. Because of this reduced profit level many of the marginal producers have been shaken out, helping to bring supply/demand into better balance.

Doubleknit prices had sagged about 40 per cent by early 1972. However, while feeder fibre prices have remained depressed, finished fabric prices have firmed somewhat, reflecting strong demand and the decrease in imports. Industry projections indicate that supply/demand and thus prices should continue stable through 1975.

Unfortunately, your purchase, coinciding as it did with the peak of the boom, was close to the high for this issue. Today's low-selling price is also overdone. Edmos, despite lower earnings, has made important progress in its effort to become fully integrated.

Capital expenditures of $3 million last year increased the company's texturizing capacity so that 55 per cent of this work is now completed in-house. Furthermore, a 30 per cent increase in texturizing machines is planned for this year.

Additional expenditures of $3 million last year went toward expansion of the company's knitting, dyeing and finishing capabilities. Shares appear undervalued at current low levels and should be held.

FIRE GUTS FAIRFAX HOME

Firemen estimated damage at $30,000 to this home at 75 Spruce Road, Fairfax, and blamed it on a furnace which apparently was operating despite the summery weather. The home was unoccupied when the blaze was discovered at 9:58 p.m. yesterday. The flames also did an estimated $1,500 damage to the George Ponder residence at 77 Spruce Road (visible in background). Firemen had to climb more than 200 steps to reach the houses on a steep hillside. The gutted house is listed as belonging to Kingston Trio Inc. and is believed leased to Peter Barrett, whom firemen have been unable to locate.

Holiday Weekend Temperatures Soar

Predicted Gas Shortage Turns Out Not Serious

Marin County residents took advantage of clear skies and sun washed weather yesterday to make the most of the Memorial Day holidays, despite the widely-feared gasoline shortage.

Although many residents marked the day with backyard barbecues, others jammed county thoroughfares for holiday outings on the three-day weekend and generally found they were able to buy enough fuel for the trip home.

Yesterday temperatures rose to 100 degrees in Fairfax and Marinwood, the hottest day of the year so far.

Some beach-seeking funmakers were disappointed, however, as Stinson Beach officials began turning people away by midafternoon because there was no more room.

A crwod estimated at 5,000 persons attended the final day of the Marin Israeli Fair at the Civic Center yesterday, raising total attendance at the two-day event to about 12,000, according to Marin Box Office spokesmen. About 350 attended Memorial Day services at the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, highlighted by a speech by Capt. William W. Butler of San Rafael, a former prisoner of war.

The California Highway Patrol reported heavy southbound traffic on Highway 101 yesterday afternoon, aggravated by an accident on the Golden Gate Bridge involving two motorcyclists and another auto, all driven by out-of-county residents. The accident sparked a delay of about an hour at 4:45 p.m. for motorists attempting to cross the span, and backed up traffic to Waldo Grade, officers said.

The California Highway Patrol also reported traffic congested on Highway 101 near Novato, where traffic lights were placed on manual operation to ease the flow.

Marin service station operators said today they had "plenty of gas" to handle holiday crowds, although some colleagues had cut back on business hours or shut down entirely for the day to conserve fuel.

"Our gas is holding out terrific," declared Reno Guerra, owner of a Shell station in Novato, who said holiday sales were up about 40 per cent. Guerra said, however, that a station across the street on Nave Drive posted a sign rationing gas to six gallons per customer.

Jesse Katz, owner of a Chevron station in Corte Madera who last week said he faced bankruptcy because of delayed deliveries by his supplier, said his fuel "is holding out fantastic" in the wake of two new deliveries over the holiday weekend. "I don't think there's a shortage," he said.

Robert Moore, secretary of the Marin Independent Service Station Association said it is "too early to say" what effect a gas shortage is having on Marin stations. He reported that about 15 Arco stations in Marin were closed yesterday in a bid to conserve fuel, and that other stations are hiking prices, reducing business hours and rationing gas to remain in business.

United Press International reported service stations in Oregon, Ohio, California, Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York and North Dakota

Water Shortage In Bolinas, Again

Bolinas water users were asked today to halt all nonessential consumption for at least two weeks in the wake of the loss of more than a third of the community's water supply.

It was the second water crisis in Bolinas in six months. Heavy storms in January caused about $300,000 in damage to the supply system and for a time residents were ordered to boil all drinking water.

The latest episode occurred at 4 p.m. Sunday when a car smashed into a fire hydrant at Elm and Evergreen roads on Bolinas Mesa. For an hour water spewed from the broken line, said Lyman Robinson, clerk to the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, which supplies water to the seaside town.

About 150,000 gallons of water were lost, leaving Arroyo Hondo Reservoir, the only source of water for Bolinas, "very, very low," said Robinson. The capacity of the reservoir is 420,000 gallons but Robinson said he didn't know just how much water was left.

It will take at least two weeks for Arroyo Hondo Creek to refill the reservoir and in the meantime residents are asked to conserve water as much as possible, said Robinson.

The water situation led to the closure of the Bolinas Laundromat at 3 p.m. yesterday, seven hours earlier than usual.

Owner George F. West said he closed at the request of the utility district but refused to do the same today until he receives a written request from the utility board.

"I'm getting damn sick of being picked on just because I'm a big user," West declared. The same thing happened late last summer and he shut down for five days, he said.

"They (the district) just don't have enough water and they're not trying to do anything about it," he said.

Robinson said a written request asking West to close down was on its way to the laundromat this morning.

If a water emergency develops the district can pump water from Pine Gulch, said Robinson. He said the utility district board will discuss the water situation when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Marin City Remodeling Approved

Marin County supervisors voted 3 to 2 today to accept a housing authority plan to remodel 150 low-rent units in Marin City and at the same time increase white residency in the predominately black community to one-third.

Supervisors Robert A. Roumiguiere and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. opposed the plan which calls for remodeling 12 units at a time and filling four of the 12 with white families.

Housing authority chairman Irving Perlman said the contractor for the project indicated remodeling would cost about $3,200 per unit if done in blocks of 12 and $3,640 per unit in blocks of four.

Since the housing authority has limited money, he said, 20 per cent more units could be refurbished under the authority's plan.

The county grand jury, asked by supervisors to investigate reports of units standing vacant in Marin City despite the need for public housing, recommended only four units be remodeled at a time.

Perlman said that once 12 units are complete, the housing authority would try to fill four of the refurbished units with white families and eight with black families already living in Marin City public housing.

The authority would then move on to 12 more units, using the eight vacated by Marin City families and four which normally are vacated each month as tenants move out of the community.

Thus, he said, the housing authority would be breaking the ethnic pattern, which he blamed for many of Marin City's problems.

He said the housing authority has found it difficult in the past to place white families in Marin City but hoped refurbished housing would help.

Perlman added that some families, at the head of the

Memorial Day Crowd Is Asked By Ex-POW To Support Nixon

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. William W. Butler, for more than five years a prisoner of war in North Vietnam, asked a Memorial Day audience yesterday to support President Richard M. Nixon and remember those missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Butler, trim in his Air Force uniform, was spending his first Memorial Day at home since he was captured in November, 1967.

Before an appreciative audience of more than 350 persons gathered for Memorial Day services, he praised President Nixon for courage and decisive leadership, the man who "brought us to the end of a very, long unpopular war."

Butler said he was among prisoners of war who met President Nixon Thursday, and "we are behind him."

"I for one would like to see our country give the President some of the support he so desperately needs if he is to carry this next most difficult period to success," Capt. Butler said.

The continuing talks with China and the arms limitation talks with Russia "all have as much at stake and all have greater implications to the future of the world than Watergate."

"I think this man has done a lot more for this country and has the capability to do even more in the future than many Americans give him credit for. He needs only the chance."

Butler asked the audience to think of the courage it took to order the bombing of Hanoi when public sentiment was against such an act. "North Vietnam believes him now when he says he's going to do something," he said.

President Nixon "has our best interests at heart for he is one of us," Butler said.

With Memorial Day, 1973, designated as a day of special remembrance to those missing in action, Butler urged the audience not to forget those missing.

"In the midst of our jubilation over the termination of the war, let us not do what the Communists are expecting us to do . . . forget the missing in action," he said.

He said he couldn't predict whether the North Vietnamese would "come through with an accounting" of those missing, "because one cannot predict them."

Butler received a standing ovation and after the program was surrounded by a crew of youngsters seeking his autograph.

In a change of pace, the Novato High School Music Theater Workshop, a singing group, accompanied by members of the Novato High School Band, presented a lively program, unlike Memorial Day music of the past.

The youths romped through

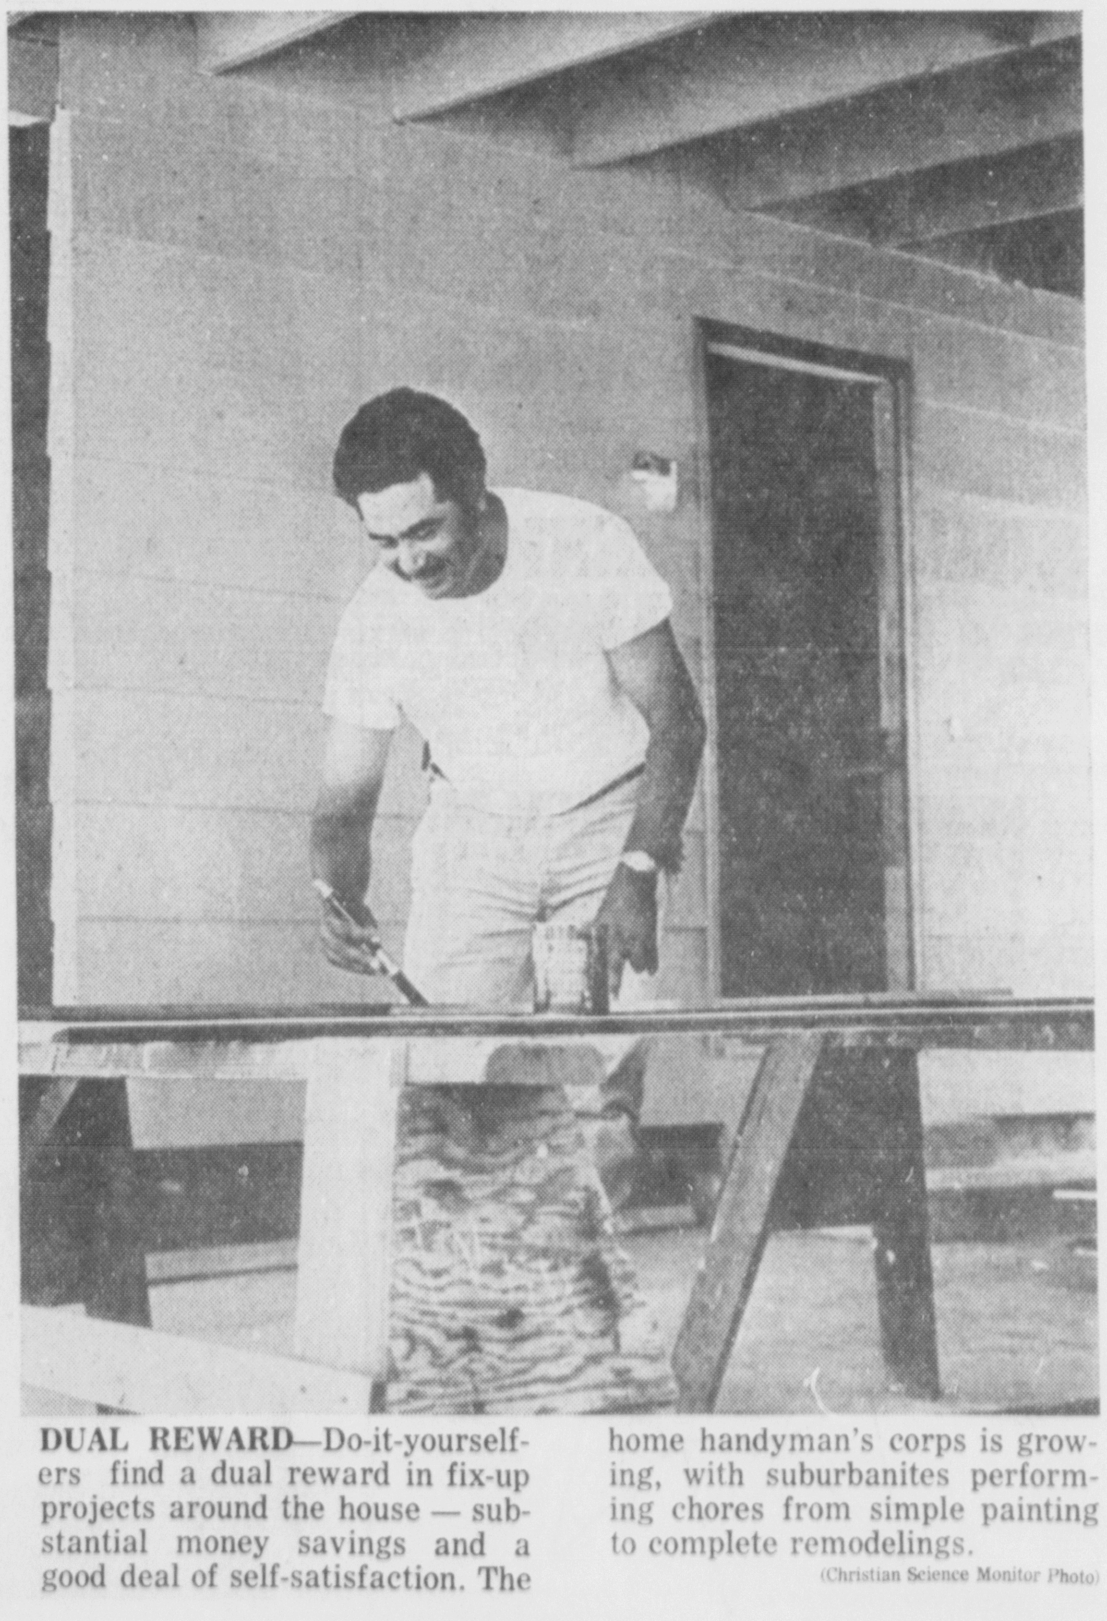
GLAMOUR

The alluring charm which surrounds a woman, especially when there are a few drinks in a man.



DUAL REWARD—Do-it-yourselfers find a dual reward in fix-up projects around the house — substantial money savings and a good deal of self-satisfaction. The home handyman's corps is growing, with suburbanites performing chores from simple painting to complete remodelings.

SUBURBIA

Reasons Are Varied For Home Handyman

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service
(Second of three articles)

He joined the home handyman corps in full colors more than a year ago, when a contractor's $2,000 estimate for modernizing a small bathroom seemed "exhorbitantly high."

With the help of a blowtorch and plumber's wrench, several instruction manuals, and many weekends of hard but satisfying work, the dextrous engineer completed the job — new tiling, tub, shower, and vanity — for less than $600.

He also enclosed a sun porch, another handyman's special. The Betzas reckon the two improvements boosted the resale value of their 50-year-old colonial home by some $3,500.

The desire to save money and enhance resale values are probably the two most popular reasons behind the do-it-yourself boom sweeping the nation.

Experts also cite steeply rising labor costs for plumbers, carpenters, and other skilled craftsmen, sometimes shoddy workmanship by builders, and growing leisure time as key factors sustaining the home "fix-it" trend.

There may be increasing social cachet involved, too.

"Suddenly, it's very fashionable to brag about refinishing the basement or replacing the sink yourself," comments a Long Island banker who has just installed a $150 intercom system with the aid of his 11-year-old son. The boy thought fishing the "snake" through the walls "was a blast," the father noted, and "it was wholesome activity we enjoyed doing together."

With so much hammering, plastering, drilling, and painting going on in suburban households, the home improvement industry is flourishing. The industry expects to sell more than $8 billion worth of wood paneling, ceiling tiles, pre-hung doors, and other home improvement products to do-it-yourselfers this year, according to Building Supply News, a trade magazine.

The magazine estimates that home handymen will redo some 1.9 million kitchens, 1.6 million baths, and 400,000 basements this year.

Americans probably will spend another $9 billion to renovate, repair, or remodel with the help of professional contractors or builders.

To meet the growing demand

Bay Of Pigs Plotter Hunt Suggested Slaying Castro

By DONALD LAMBRO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator and former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, who helped plot the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, says he recommended to CIA superiors that Fidel Castro be assassinated as part of the scheme. His proposal was never approved.

Hunt makes the disclosure in a forthcoming book in which he describes his role and that of the Kennedy administration in the ill-fated invasion by several hundred Cuban exiles who were organized and trained by the United States to overthrow Castro's regime.

A copy of the printer's galleys for the book, to be published in November by Arlington House, was obtained by UPI.

In it, Hunt charges that Kennedy tried to "whitewash the New Fronter" when the invasion failed by "heaping guilt on the CIA."

Kennedy accepted responsibility for the Bay of Pigs fiasco at the time but much of the blame for its initiative and implementation was placed on the CIA by others.

Hunt said he proposed assassinating the Cuban leader because he believed that "without Castro to inspire them the rebel army and militia would collapse in leaderless confusion."

Hunt said his proposal was to "assassinate Castro before or co-incident with the invasion." He added that the role of carrying out the killing was "a task for Cuban patriots."

He said he was told by Richard Bissell, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency's Clandestine Services, that his plan was being considered by a "special group" within the government.

But Hunt said: "So far as I have been able to determine no coherent plan was ever developed within CIA to assassinate Castro, though it was the heart's desire of many exile groups."

Hunt's part in the invasion plan included organizing Cuban exiles in Florida and coordinating their activities with the invasion forces being trained by U.S. Air Force and Army specialists which included the Army's Special Forces unit.

He said plans had called for a Cuban Exile Executive Committee with Hunt at their side to enter Cuba after the invasion, declare themselves a "government-in-arms" and call for military aide.

Under the plan, the United States was prepared to immediately recognize the exiles and provide "whatever might be necessary to overthrow Castro," Hunt said. "American ships would be standing near Cuban waters so help wouldn't be unnecessarily delayed."

Destroying Castro's planes was "basic to the success of the entire invasion," Hunt said. A final decision by Kennedy, according to Hunt, to send fighter planes from the U.S. carrier Boxer to provide cover for the last rebel forces coming ashore was made too late. Hunt said the Boxer was the flagship of a naval task force, which included Marine landing forces, that was stationed in the waters off Puerto Rico.

"By some incalculable mischance the timing had been fouled up," he said. "By then we had run out of time, aircraft and men. The invasion was over."

Entitled "Give Us This Day," Hunt's book described a meeting he attended in Schlesinger's White House office to discuss the administration's white paper on Cuba with Bissell's assistant, Tracy Barnes.

' "Barnes and Schlerea for the offensive, Hunt said.

Hunt said that despite Schlesinger's knowledge of the entire plan, the White House intellectual criticized it "as a staging of the CIA's "Gunsmoke stance" in the invasion's afterstance" in the invasion's aftermath.

Hunt also said that U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who was later to allege being kept in the dark about the invasion, had been briefed by Barnes "well prior to invasion date."

Moreover, the Joint Chiefs of Staff—who later maintained they had no opportunity to determine the military preparedness of the invasion forces — had sent "an assessment team" to the Guatemalan camps and had "cabled back an enthusiastic appraisal of the (Cuban) Brigade and Air Force as well-trained and battle-ready," Hunt said.

Hunt recalled a luncheon he had in mid-1960 with Brig. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, then a military adviser to Vice President Nixon.

"Cushman told me that the vice president was the (invasion) project's action officer within the White House and that Nixon wanted nothing to go wrong."

Cushman, now Marine Corps commandant and member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, allegedly authorized the CIA to help Hunt in preparation for burglarizing the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

One of Hunt's closest assistants among the Cuban exiles in Florida was Bernard L. Barker, a Cuban-American who was convicted with Hunt for the Watergate break-in.

"I welcomed his assistance and over the months found him eager, efficient and completely dedicated," Hunt said of Barker.

Another Watergate conspirator, Frank Sturgis, who then went by the name of Frank Fiorini, piloted planes over Havana to drop anti-Castro propaganda leaflets, Hunt said.

Hunt said he wrote the book in 1967 and intended it as "a private legacy to my children."

But due to the Watergate publicity and disclosure of his CIA background, Hunt said he decided publication would serve to correct "distorted accounts of my involvement in the Bay of Pigs invasion."

Motorists Pick On Wrong Man

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (UPI) — Two men fleeing a minor accident became angry yesterday when they sighted a motorist following them.

They stopped their car. One grabbed a tire iron and the other a wrench. They approached the motorist but took off when he pulled a .38-caliber revolver.

The two were captured a short time later after the motorist radioed an all-points bulletin for the man.

The motorist was South San Francisco Police Chief Salvatore Rosano, who had been in an unmarked car.

William McGowan, 20, and James McEvoy, 20, both San Francisco, were charged with assault with a deadly weapon, displaying a dangerous weapon, resisting arrest, hit and run and reckless driving.

Former Governor Hurt In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Louie B. Nunn, a former Kentucky governor who ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate last November, suffered a broken right ankle in a weekend boating accident.

Nunn was hurt while in a boat on Dale Hollow Lake, south of Burkesville. A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital here reported Nunn's condition yesterday as satisfactory.

Liza Calls Peter A 'Lovely Man'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Actress Liza Minnelli arrived from London yesterday and called her latest companion, middle-aged British actor Peter Sellers, a "lovely, lovely man."

However, the 27-year-old Oscar-winning actress refused to say if she would marry Sellers, who is 47. "That's bloody private," snapped Miss Minnelli, who has apparently ended her romance with singer Desi Arnaz Jr.

WAR DEAD HONORED

There were many empty seats at Arlington National Cemetery during Memorial Day services yesterday, apparently the result of a combination of inclement weather and a declining interest in Memorial Day. Sitting alone in the amphitheater where the ceremonies were held is World War I veteran William R. Mason, 77, of Mount Rainer, Md.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Offer Accepted

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Iceland and Britain today accepted an offer by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to mediate the dispute over the so-called "cod war" between the two countries.

NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns extended the offer after Iceland told the alliance that it must help get British warships out of Icelandic waters. Britain and Iceland are both NATO members.

Government officials in Reykjavik, the Icelandic capital, said earlier today Iceland may reconsider its role in NATO unless the organization can solve the fishing dispute.

Map Exchange

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese and the Communists agreed today to begin work next week on one of the most difficult tasks of the four-month-old cease-fire: determining which territory each side controls.

Saigon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said the two sides will exchange maps outlining the territory each claims to control.

Hien said the maps will be the only issue discussed next week by the two-party Joint Military Commission composed of representatives of the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Planes To Be Given

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources said today the United States will give about 12 transport planes to the Cambodian armed forces so the Phnom Penh government can take over emergency airlift operations from the U.S. Air Force.

In battlefield activity today, 26 civilians were reported killed and scores wounded in Communist mortar and rocket attacks on two northern Cambodian villages.

The reason for the gift of the C123 twin-engine transport planes, the sources said, was to relieve the U.S. Air Force of running Cambodia's emergency airlift program.

That operation has been carried out for months by U.S. C130 transport planes flying supplies from American bases in Thailand to Phnom Pehn and Cambodian troops in the field.

Nixon Will Fill SEC Position

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday said he will nominate John R. Evans to a full five-year term on the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Evans, 40, has been serving on the commission since last February, when he was named to succeed James J. Needham. His new appointment, at an annual salary of $38,000, will expire June 5, 1978.

Meeting Extended

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — African leaders decided early today to extend their annual conference into a third unscheduled day to enable them to finish unresolved business — the touchiest involving a border dispute between Somalia and Ethiopia.

Charges of troop mobilization and threats of possible war between the African neighbors tied up the conference of the 41-member Organization of African Unity and marred its 10th anniversary celebrations.

Rogers Is Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has wound up his 17-day, 8-nation Latin American trip pleased with the way it went.

Rogers returned last night and was reporting today to President Nixon.

He encountered some minor student demonstrations in Venezuela and Colombia "but generally it was a good trip," he told newsmen.

In each of his stops-Mexico, Nicaragua, Venezuela, Peru, Brazil, Jamaica, Colombia and Argentina — Rogers stressed the theme that U.S. paternalism in the Western Hemisphere is dead.

LA Mayor's Race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty, fighting to retain leadership of the nation's third largest city, is discounting public opinion polls that show black City Councilman Thomas Bradley is the favorite to win today's mayoral election.

Four years ago, when Yorty and Bradley met on the same battleground polls showed the councilman to be ahead, but Yorty, who has a history of outfoxing the pollsters, won by a near landslide.

City Clerk Rex E. Layton estimates from 65 to 70 per cent of the city's more than million voters will cast ballots today as temperatures soar into the 90s and vacationers settle down from the long Memorial Day weekend.

I lost 600 pounds

The same 10 pounds 60 times. Diets? I've tried them all.

I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.

I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged and quit.

I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot fudge sundae.

One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I'd lost.

Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.

I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little more.

Does this sound like you?

Well I have solved all of these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2-1/2 months.

No hunger! No depression! No cravings!

I've shared this method with hundreds; I'll share it with you.

I'd like to loan you a 50 minute tape cassette for seven days which tells the whole story... or you can come in and listen to it privately.

No cost or obligation.

SILENT TRIBUTE — Bouquets of flowers stood in tribute to the dead of all wars prior to the Memorial Day Services yesterday in front of the Doughboy Statute at the Marin Civic Center. Later when the color guards and others participating in the service, the floral tributes, 34 in all, were placed beneath the statue, filling the area between the two flagpoles.

Immunity Is Ordered For Bugging Witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge John J. Sirica issued an immunity order today to compel Senate testimony by Roy M. Sheppard, a deliveryman who allegedly was hired to take Watergate-related documents from the White House the day after the break-in.

The immunity order was requested by the Senate's Watergate committee, which has completed two weeks of public hearings. The hearings resume June 5.

Sheppard's attorney, Ben W. Cotten, raised no objection to Sirica's action. Cotten said Sheppard has been hospitalized since Friday for high blood pressure and nerves.

Earlier, Sheppard was granted immunity and ordered to testify before a federal grand jury investigating criminal actions in Watergate. Sheppard had earlier refused to answer questions even about his marital status or whether he drove a car.

In other developments:

— The special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, began his first full week on the job in charge of the Justice Department's handling of the case, and presumably will make all future decisions on which witnesses will be granted immunity and when indictments will be prepared. Hundreds of lawyers have filed applications to work with him.

—Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said at a commencement address at Temple University in Philadelphia that Watergate "was not a mark of desperation, but of the ultimate arrogance of power."

—Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss was scheduled to give a deposition today in the party's $6.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee to Re-Elect the President. The scheduled appearance today by former Attorney General John N. Mitchell for a similar deposition was canceled because Mitchell had to be in court in New York where he is under indictment in another case.

Sheppard allegedly was hired to haul away eight cartons of documents from the White House the morning after the June 17, 1972, burglary arrests at the Democratic national offices in the Watergate complex.

It has not been disclosed who hired him or to whom he delivered the documents.

The papers were said to have been taken from the office of a former White House consultant, E. Howard Hunt Jr., who pleaded guilty last January to being a leader of the Watergate operation. The documents were said to have been hidden for about four months.

While the Senate hearings resume a week from today, they probably will not include crucial testimony from former White House officials until mid-June, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said.

Friends Say Berrigan Is Married

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (UPI) — Vietnam war resisters The Rev. Phillip F. Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister were married Monday, friends of the couple reported today.

A spokesman for the Rev. Paul Mayer, said Mayer, a close friend of the couple performed the wedding ceremony at Sister McAlister's Montclair home.

According to the spokesman, a "few friends and relatives," were at the hour-long ceremony, with the bride in a white dress and Berrigan in a suit and tie.

The couple was not available for comment.

A clerk in the Hall of Records at Montclair said Berrigan, 49, and Sister Elizabeth, 33, applied for a marriage license in person May 22.

There were other reports that the couple had been wed at the New York apartment of Berrigan's brother and fellow war resister The Rev. Daniel J. Berrigan.

The Baltimore Sun reported Monday that Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth were married by "mutual consent" in 1969.

such tunes as "Going Out of My Head," and "Joy To The World," before closing with "We Shall Overcome," and the traditional "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

During one of the new songs, one man was overheard complaining that it didn't sound like Memorial Day services to him, but a companion replied . . . "we have to keep up with the times." The audience gave the singers a warm reception.

The indoor ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial Building closed with introduction of color guards from various organizations, ranging from Cub Scout Pack 39 of Santa Venetia to World War I Veterans, Barracks 550.

Units then paraded to the Doughboy Statue outside the Veterans Memorial Building, where floral tributes from 34 veterans and fraternal organizations were laid at the foot of the statue. The collection of flowers, red, white, blue and gold, spread from flagpole to flagpole under the statue.

The wreaths were placed one by one and there was a moment of silent tribute for those who have died in all wars. The strains of the Star Spangled Banner came from a car radio in the parking lot, signalling the start of a baseball game.

Chaplain Bernard F. Schumacher of Hamilton Air Force Base gave the benediction under a hot sun and the crowd, which had dwindled to less than 100 dispersed.

The Marine Corps Color Guard and the Reserve Officers Training Corps Drill Team participated in the ceremonies.

The Memorial Day program was arranged by the Marin County Veterans and Auxiliaries Memorial Committee.

Among organizations represented on the committee were the Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of World War One, Marin County Retired Officers Association, Marin County Fleet Reserve Association, Reserve Officers Association and Gold Star Mothers.

Economic Indicators Showed Drop In April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators, considered one of the best barometers of future economic trends, turned down in April for the first time in two and one half years, the Commerce Department said today.

The index dropped 0.6 per cent last month, ending a sustained climb that began in October, 1970.

Each month, action is monitored in 12 diverse areas of the economy and combined into a composite figure. Over the years, turnabouts in the direction of the index have signaled major future shifts in the economy.

A sustained decline in the index has always meant that an expansion is about to end while an upturn during a recession has signaled that hard times are about over.

April's was the first decline in the index since October, 1970.

Eight of the indicators used in the index are always reported first, with four others coming later when more statistics are available. This means that the over-all April decline could be less than the 0.6 percent for the first eight.

Only two of the eight indicators available today increased in April over March levels —the length of the average work week and industrial materials prices.

Of the six that declined, the largest dip was in building permits, reflecting a lag in home construction in recent months.

The other indicators declining in April were new orders for durable goods, contracts and orders for plant and equipment; stock prices; and the ratio of prices to unit labor costs in manufacturing. Initial claims for unemployment insurance were up in April, considered another unfavorable sign.

The Commerce Department revised the March increase in the index from 1.4 to 1.6 per cent.

The index now stands at 161.5 compared to 162.4 in the previous month and 113.6 in October, 1970, at the beginning of the expansion.

Robber Gets Cash At Restaurant

An armed robber yesterday forced the manager of the International House of Pancakes at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to open the safe at gunpoint and escaped with between $7,000 and $10,000 in cash and checks.

Mgr. Paz B. Mendoza told police that the man took him and three employees upstairs at 2:30 p.m. where he forced Mendoza to open the safe. The robber took the money from the safe and cash register.

"If I look down there and see more, that's it. If anyone makes a move I'll shoot," he said. After he got the money, he left, whether in a car or on foot, was not known, police reported.

The man was described as a Caucasian, about 21 to 25 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. He had brown hair. He was wearing a brown imitation leather shirt, fancy brown boots, dark pants and green Benjamin Franklin type glasses.

No Trace Found Of Intruder In Mill Valley

Mill Valley police said today they haven't found a trace of an intruder who reportedly exchanged gunfire with a resident early yesterday.

Police said Cameron told them he exchanged rifle, shotgun and pistol fire with the man at 12:30 a.m. yesterday when he went to investigate noises coming from the downstairs of his home.

Police Chief William A. Walsh said one bullet hole was found in a back door at Cameron's house but no other hole or slug was found. Slugs from several of the shots Cameron fired were found in the back yard, Walsh said.

Oakland Man Faces Charges

An Oakland man was to appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court today after being arrested early Sunday morning when found inside the typing room at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma.

Michael David Upton, 28, was seen entering the building about 5 a.m. by a security guard who called police. Police said he was inside the typing classroom when they arrived.

Upton was arrested on suspicion of attempted burglary and booked into Sonoma County Jail.

$100,000 Fire Cause Unknown

Belvedere firemen said today they still don't know the cause of a fire which caused $100,000 damage to the home of Dr. Roy E. Eldred at 1 Belvedere Avenue, Saturday.

Firemen said an investigation is continuing and said it is possible but highly unlikely that a cat, whose charred remains were found wrapped in electrical wiring, started the blaze.

have either curtailed hours or limited customers to purchases of about 10 gallons or less.

Temperatures in Marin which lured many residents onto the roads ranged from 100 degrees in Fairfax and Marinwood to 91 in Ross. Other temperatures reported were: Novato, 98; Petaluma, 93; Sausalito, 92; Mill Valley, 96; San Anselmo, 97 and Woodacre, 94.

Temperatures rose to 83 in San Francisco and Oakland, 96 in San Jose and Ukiah and 97 in Sacramento, while a heat wave in Southern California sent the mercury to 103 in Burbank.

National weather forecasters said the warm weather will continue today, with a cooling-off expected tomorrow.

Residents throughout the state enjoyed the holiday weather, with a spokesman at Yosemite National Park reporting up to 20,000 people on the valley floor.

The holiday also brought tragedy, as at least 52 persons died in accidents on California highways, and 12 persons drowned in the state. The death toll includes Gloria Ann Hawley of Fairfax, who plummeted from a cliff 20 miles north of Fort Bragg while on a holiday sightseeing stop.

authority's waiting list for housing, have chosen to be dropped to the bottom of the list rather than move into Marin City.

His comments brought a bitter response from Supervisor Arrigoni who said a policy of placing people at the bottom of the waiting list when they refused Marin City housing was "a policy of implementing integration by coercion."

"People should not be forced to live where they don't want to," he said, suggesting that those at the top of the waiting list simply be passed over if opposed to accepting a vacant unit in Marin City.

He drew support from colleague Michael Wornum who asked that the housing authority board reconsider its policy and let families keep their positions on the waiting list if opposed to accepting housing in Marin City or elsewhere in the county.

On his motion, the supervisors voted 3 to 2 to approve of the housing authority's plan to remodel 12 units at a time.

SUBURBIA

for "easy to install" products, manufacturers are striving to provide more prefabricated products and better instructional material for the novice handyman. Fiberglass tub kits, carpet tiles that are easier to put down than long rolls of broadloom, and "peel and stick" floor tiles are among the newer products that aim to simplify what used to be a complex job for a trained installer.

Retailers are putting pressure on manufacturers to provide more explanatory information, accompanied by lucid graphics to help sell items like automatic garage doors and underground sprinkler systems to the home handyman. The guy who thinks he's "all thumbs," says a J.C. Penney spokesman, will appreciate the 10-page instructional booklet that comes with the latest model of its private-label electric garage door. The big merchandiser hopes to market an economical vinyl siding "package" for do-it-yourselfers within the next year. Estimated savings over commercial siding are in the 40 to 50 per cent range.

To encourage do-it-yourself neophytes, a growing number of suburban "home centers" — a greatly enlarged version of the corner hardware store — employ trained salesmen, who advise customers on how to patch a driveway or put up paneling.

Going even further, some retailers show brief teaching films, free of charge, to convince skeptics that a particular job isn't so complicated as it might first appear. Rickel Brothers, which operates 13 home centers in the Northeast, up from only six in 1969, recently introduced professionally taught "how to" courses on plumbing, electric wiring, and carpentry.

At $48 a shot, more than 300 people have signed up for the seven-week evening courses. The most popular, a Rickel instructor says, are paneling walls, hanging a drop ceiling, and running water line.

Increasingly, schools and adult evening courses are offering instruction aimed at turning "Mr. Bungle-it-yourself" into a self-confident handyman. Courses range from appliance servicing and carpentry to plumbing and electrical work. Puncturing the special mystique that surrounds the latter two subjects is often a challenge, one professional instructor says.

Petaluma Man Held For Murder

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Petaluma man was being held in county jail today on suspicion of murdering a Santa Rosa resident during an early morning scuffle Sunday at a Santa Rosa restaurant.

Being held without bail was Mitchell Dixon, 24, of 1535 Weaverly Drive, who told sheriff's officers he was a student.

The dead man was James A. Baker, 27, who died in a Santa Rosa hospital about two-and-a-half hours after the shooting at the Busy Bee Restaurant.

Officers were told that the 3 a.m. shooting followed an earlier disturbance in which Baker reportedly brandished the shotgun and made threats to restaurant patrons. Officers said they had not yet determined whether Baker shot himself during a struggle with Dixon or whether Dixon shot him.

Dixon was arrested Sunday afternoon at a Petaluma hospital where he had gone for treatment of minor injuries.

Officers said the case was still under investigation.

Dixon is to appear in municipal court tomorrow.

Library Branch To Be Discussed

The Santa Margarita Homeowners Association will consider a proposal for a Terra Linda branch of the San Rafael Library when it holds its annual meeting at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at Santa Margarita School.

The association also will consider acquisition of open space in the western portion of the Terra Linda valley, listen to a financial report and discuss activities of its emergency relief committee.

Entertainment will be provided by an impressionist.

OBITUARIES

Rite Set For Robert Levesque

Robert Levesque, partner in the Corte Madera furniture firm of French Brothers Marin, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 44.

A native of Maine, he moved to Marin County from San Francisco some three years ago, shortly before the furniture firm opened. The company has another branch in San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife Betty, and sons Robert Jr., and Michael, and a daugher, Nicole, all of the family home.

Other survivors include his brothers, Paul R. Levesque and Raymond J. Levesque, both of Daly City, Arthur J. Levesque of Oakland and a sister, Juliet Hall of Pittsfield, Mass.

Rosary services will be recited tonight at 8 p.m. at Daphne Funerals, Corte Madera. A requiem mass will be offered tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Sebastian's Church, 373 Bon Air Road, Kentfield. Burial will be private.

The family prevers memorial contributions to the Heart Association.

ANTONE SILVA

Antone F. Silva, lifelong Petaluma resident, died today in a local hospital after a long illness. He was 91.

Born and reared in Petaluma, he worked as a blacksmith-carpenter in the area before retiring many years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Juanita; two sons, Stanley Silva of Petaluma and Anthony B. Silva of Redwood City; two daughters, June Silva of Petaluma and Mrs. Carmelita Henke of Palo Alto; a sister, Marian Metcalfe of San Francisco; a brother, Alexander Silva-Brown of Vallejo; one grandchild and one great-grandchild.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent De Paul Church in Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Sorensen Funeral Home.

CARRIE SCHULER

Funeral for Carrie F. Schuler, 76, of Rohnert Park, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma.

Mrs. Schuler died Sunday at her home at 56 Adele Avenue after a short illness.

She was born and reared in Hampton, Va. and worked as a secretary for a real estate firm there before marrying her husband, William P. Schuler, in 1929.

Schuler, who worked 32 years for the old national advisory committee on aeronautics was an instrument research engineer, retired in 1957. The couple moved to Rohnert Park at that time.

Burial will be in Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

JOHN WILDE

Wilde, of 142 Stewart Drive, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 78.

Born in Berlin, Wilde lived much of his life in Spain, where he gained an appreciation of that country's wines. During World War I he was a lieutenant in the German army, and then returned to Spain.

He moved to San Francisco 23 years ago and founded an import-export firm, Atlantic and Pacific Trading Co., which imported Spanish wines and exported heavy machinery, pharmaceuticals and precision instruments.

Wilde retired in 1966 and he and his wife, Lilo, moved to Tiburon. There he wrote and published two books, "Truth About Wine" and "Memories of a Real old Winemaker." He was working on a third volume, a comprehensive book on wine, when he died.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Lawrence of Boston; a daughter, Carmen Oryall of San Francisco; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society.

LILLIAN E. BUSCHMANN

Funeral for Lillian E. Buschmann, 54, of Novato, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Mrs. Buschmann, wife of Warren W. Buschmann of 30 San Aleso Court, died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness.

She had been employed as a receptionist by Roberts and Aquirre Mobile Homes Sales for five years. She was a native of California and had been a resident of Marin for 25 years.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two daughters, Barbara Poole of Lucas Valley and Jayne O'Calaghan of Santa Venetia; a son, David Buschmann of Novato, and six grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

MARIAN D. TRAVERSE

A Mass of the Resurrection for Marian D. Traverse, 65, a housewife, of San Rafael, will be celebrated at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Sylvester's Church, San Rafael.

Mrs. Traverse was the wife of Cletus J. Traverse, commodore of the Marin Yacht Club in 1964 and formerly in the food market business in the East Bay.

She died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Traverse of 62 Dunfries Terrace was a native of San Francisco and had lived in Marin for four years but the family had kept its boat at the Marin Yacht Club for many years.

She was a member of Chi Omega, Mortar Board and Prytenean at the University of California at Berkeley and was senior women's editor of the Daily Cal.

Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Hayward. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Chapel, San Rafael. The family prefers that memorial contributions be to the American Cancer Society or Hanna's Boys Center, Sonoma.

ROBERT LEE

Mass of the Resurrection for Robert Edward Lee of Ross will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo.

Lee, a retired plant foreman for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., collapsed in the backyard of his home at 42 Woodside Way Sunday evening. He was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital. He was 71.

The Marin County coroner's office said an autopsy is pending and that Lee had a history of heart problems.

Lee, born in New Hampshire, lived 38 years in Marin County. He retired 10 years ago, after 45 years with the telephone company. He was a member of the Telephone Pioneers in America and of the Marin Chapter, Sons In Retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Marion A. Lee of the home; two daughters, Janet Lockett of San Rafael and Joan Hubb of Cotati; five sisters, Cora Gorman, Ruth Pepin, Lucille Mitchell and Doris McKinney, all of Seattle, and Margaret Pease of Edmonds, Wash., and four grandchildren.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in Keaton's Chapel, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

FRANK FONTES

Frank M. Fontes, a 43-year resident of Marin, died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 88.

Fontes was born in the Azore islands and came to the U.S. in 1902. He moved to Marin in 1930, making his home at 533 Easterby Street, Sausalito, with his wife, Maria T. Fontes. She died in 1971.

He was a member of the IDESST of Sausalito.

Fontes is survived by two daughters, Helen Hengen of Corte Madera and Marie Stretton of Burlingame; a son, George M. Fontes of Sausalito; a sister, Mary De Souza of Novato, a brother, George M. Fontes of the Azores, nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday at Star of the Sea Catholic Church, Sausalito, with interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8:30 p.m. Thursday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Three Face Charges In Deer Killing

Two Novato men and a 17-year-old youth were arrested on suspicion of violating fish and game laws after a deer was killed on the Marin Country Club grounds early Sunday, according to Novato police.

Officers said the three, arrested in the 300 block of Fairway Drive at 12:16 a.m., had the freshly butchered hind quarter of a deer, a .22 caliber rifle, a bow with arrows and two hunting knives in their car.

Arrested were Alexander Zuel Osborn, 20, of 114 Palm Drive, and Ralph James Purtill, 20, of 98 Pico Vista, who were booked at Marin County Jail. The identity of the 17-year-old, who was taken to juvenile Hall, was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

After the arrest the remains of a male deer with hind quarters missing was discovered in the country club area, police said.

The three were arrested on suspicion of unlawful possession of a deer, carrying a loaded rifle in a car and using artificial light in tracking deer.

TORNADO PATH — There was little left of Brent, Ala., today after a tornado ripped through the town yesterday clearing everything in a path a mile wide and four miles long. The twister destroyed 95 per cent of the business district and 300 homes in the town of 2,000, leaving four dead. Total death toll in Alabama was eight. (UPI Telephoto)

New Series Of Twisters Wallops South, Midwest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Another series of tornadoes swooped on the South and Midsest yesterday from a storm system that has spawned the worst onslaught of tornadoes in the nation's history.

Violent weather and floods have killed at least 40 persons since Friday.

The National Weather Service in Washington said 160 tornadoes hit the nation between noon Friday and noon yesterday in the worst 72-hour period on record. More than 600 twisters have occurred since January, also a record.

Alabama, with eight deaths, was the hardest hit by the Memorial Day holiday tornadoes that also killed five persons in Keefeton, Okla., three in Jonesboro, Ark., and one each in Panama City, Fla., Laurel, Miss., and Athens, Ga.

The latest tornado victim was Mrs. Barbara Lively, 52, who was killed late yesterday when three tornadoes hit Athens, site of the University of Georgia about 60 miles northeast of Atlanta. Athens Mayor Julius Bishop said the damage appeared to be worse than a March storm that caused some $22 million damage. Large parts of the city were without power and National Guardsmen rushed three generators to help meet the power crisis.

The North Carolina twisters were reported in Charlotte and Albemarle, but damage was minor and no injuries were reported. Several houses were damaged by a tornado near Greenville, S.C.

Flash flooding killed seven persons in the North Carolina mountains around Asheville and National Guardsmen were rushed to the area to help find stranded campers and prevent looting. Preliminary estimates of damage to roads and bridges in the Asheville area alone ranged up to a half million dollars. Some communities were isolated by mud slides that blocked roads.

A tobacco farmer at Louisburg, N.C., Sherill Lester, was struck by lightning and killed yesterday afternoon when a thunderstorm caught him plowing his field.

Gov. George C. Wallace toured Alabama's hardest hit area yesterday and said the tornadoes "just destroyed the town of Brent."

The storm wiped out about 95 per cent of the business district and at least 300 homes in the town of 2,000. Most of the residents have left town, at least temporarily.

Of the eight persons killed by tornadoes across north and central Alabama, four lived in Brent. Among the more than 100 persons injured statewide, about half are from Brent.

Wallace said an unofficial preliminary estimate put damage at $20 million in Alabama.

Weather officials said the twisters created the worst natural disaster in Alabama in 41 years. On March 21, 1932, tornadoes struck several Alabama communities, killing 268 persons and injuring 2,000 others.

Severe thunderstorms and torrential rains pounded the east last night, particularly the metropolitan New York area. About 12 homes were damaged by high winds at Mount Olive and Flanders, N.J. Wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour were reported at New York's Kennedy Airport.

Symphony Wins Berlin Applause

BERLIN (AP) — The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and its Japanese conductor won sustained applause yesterday night from a knowledgeable public in the West Berlin Philharmonic Concert Hall.

It was a well received performance by the orchestra, little known here, and a popular return for 37-year-old Seiji Ozawa, who studied here under Herbert von Karajan.

This was a reference to both a smooth performance and the financial backing from a California oil company and a bank that sent the San Franciscans on their first European tour.

The orchestra opened with "The Roman Carnival Overture" by Berlioz, followed by Bernstein's "Serenade for Violin and Orchestra" before the intermission. The final piece was Tschaikovsky's Symphony No. 4.

Four Are Killed In Gilroy Crash

GILROY (AP) — Four persons were killed when a trailer truck carrying a carnival ride veered into oncoming traffic on a crowded mountain highway, struck two cars, and plunged over a 300-foot cliff, the California Highway Patrol said.

Officers said the accident occurred yesterday about 20 miles east of here on State Route 152 as the carnival truck, driven by Edwin (Sonny) Catwell, in his late 20's, of San Francisco, was westbound downhill. The truck veered off the road into a bank, then crossed over into the eastbound lane where it hit one car and demolished a house trailer attached to it.

Then the truck collided head-on with a second auto, breaking it into four fragments, before ripping through a guardrail and plummeting 300 feet down a cliff, the CHP said.

Catwell and his passenger, Charles Grimsley Jr., 23, of Utah, were killed as were two occupants of the second auto — Ernest H. Sorensen, 64, of Altadena, the driver, and Agnes Schefcik, 73, of Pasadena.

Hand Found On Beach At Bolinas

A Modesto man leading a Boy Scout hike along the beach at Bolinas made a grisly find Saturday afternoon — a left hand resting palm down at the water's edge.

Deputy County Coroner Bill J. Thomas reported yesterday that his office was trying to get fingerprints from the hand, found at 5:30 p.m. He said it was the hand of a caucasian adult, presumably a male.

Nothing else was found in the area of the discovery, about 100 yards north of Brighton Avenue, he reported. He said it was undetermined if the hand had been cut off or fell off through decomposition. He estimated it had been in the sea for less than one month.

The Modesto man, Mike McCarthy, 34, put it in a plastic bag and turned it over to sheriff's deputies in Bolinas.

Tests At Nuclear Site Not Atomic

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (UPI) — The booms coming from this nuclear testing ground this week are made by conventional explosives.

The Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday it will set off a number of explosions, using charges up to 265 pounds, to study "cratering effects." The blasts will be heard off the test site, and might kick up a big dust cloud, the AEC said, but will cause no damage elsewhere.

The AEC normally uses the testing ground for underground detonation of nuclear explosives and weapons.

Bhutto Visit

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto will visit the United States in July at the invitation of President Nixon, the Morning News reported today.

Murder Trial Is Set For Sonoma Student

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma State College student Eloy Farias is due to go to trial June 26 in Sonoma County Superior Court on charges of murdering a former girl friend and her mother.

Judge John Moskowitz set the trial date Friday after refusing to reduce the first degree murder charges against Farias to voluntary manslaughter.

Farias's attorney, Robert Y. Bell, had argued that evidence at a preliminary hearing showed that the slayings of Debra Lee Henthorn, 19, and Nancy Lee Henthorn, 42, were not planned in advance. He said Farias, a 21-year-old baseball player from Geyserville, was carrying a gun for self-protection.

Moskowitz ruled, however, without further comment, that there was enough evidence to hold Farias for trial on the murder counts. The judge also denied a motion to grant bail.

The student has been held in jail since his arrest March 30 on suspicion of killing the two-women at their Geyserville home. Police said Farias was upset when the daughter rejected his proposal of marriage.

Whitlam Plans Washington Visit

CANBERRA (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam says the relationship between Australia and the United States is so close that he doesn't have to wait for an official invitation to visit Washington.

Whitlam said today he would visit Washington on his way from Mexico to Canada to attend a conference in early August.

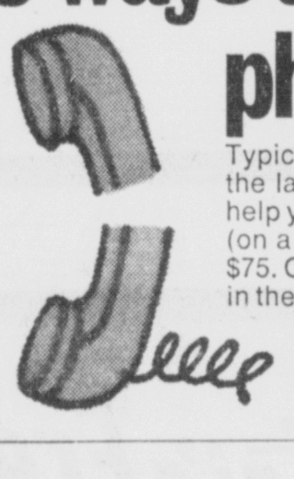
The Australian prime minister was asked in parliament whether he had been invited by President Nixon to the White House. There has been a marked coolness in relations between the two countries caused by Whitlam's criticism of Nixon's Vietnam bombing policy early this year.

Four Cows Killed By Falling Tree

Four cows, valued at $1,000 were killed at noon yesterday when a large oak tree on the Silveira ranch, north of Jacinto Drive, toppled onto them, according to Novato police.

At first it was believed that children might have been trapped by the fallen tree, but it turned out to be livestock, Fire Chief Jack Kidder said.

9 ways to cut your phone bill.



Typical phone bills are up 50% in the last 10 years. These 9 tips can help you beat the crunch and save (on a $300 annual phone bill) up to $75. One of 44 articles and features in the JUNE Reader's Digest

Solving the energy problem will be expensive. For you as well as for us.

More costly fuel supplies, construction schedule delays, high interest rates, inflation and the increasing costs of protecting the environment all add up to higher utility rates.

At PG&E we're doing everything we can to provide you with reliable gas and electric service and to keep rates as low as possible. But rates are higher today and they'll continue to increase.

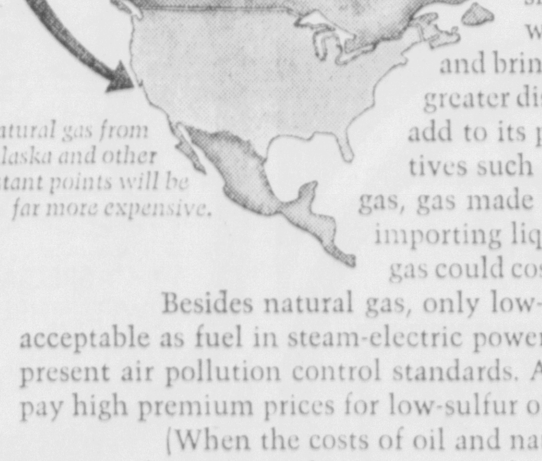
Higher fuel costs.



Natural gas from Alaska and other distant points will be far more expensive.

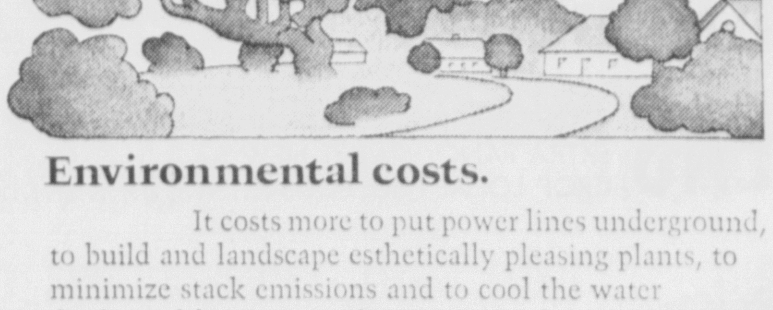
The search for new gas supplies, including exploration in Canada and the Alaskan north slope, is expensive. Such gas will cost more and bringing it from greater distances will add to its price. Alternatives such as synthetic gas, gas made from coal, and importing liquefied natural gas could cost even more.

Besides natural gas, only low-sulfur oil is acceptable as fuel in steam-electric power plants under present air pollution control standards. And we have to pay high premium prices for low-sulfur oil.

(When the costs of oil and natural gas go up, so must electric rates, because most of our steam-electric power plants are fueled by gas or oil.)

Construction schedule delays.

Regulatory procedures, involving 30 or more public agencies, are taking longer and longer. And new laws have established more complicated procedures for plant siting and construction. All these slow down construction schedules, and inflation alone is adding substantially to costs during these periods of delay.



Last year we spent $48 million to help improve the environment, including undergrounding power lines.

Environmental costs.

It costs more to put power lines underground, to build and landscape esthetically pleasing plants, to minimize stack emissions and to cool the water discharged from power plants. During the period 1973-76, PG&E's environmental costs will exceed $300 million.

Higher interest rates.

Utilities are "capital intensive" industries. That means money to build new facilities must be raised—in vast sums. Our construction program this year will exceed $600 million. And interest rates have risen from about 4½% in 1965 to about 7½% today, which adds more millions to the cost of gas and electric service.

All these things, plus the inflationary pressures which affect every business, add up to higher costs for us and higher rates for our customers.

The era of plentiful energy at bargain rates is ending. Our job is to hold down costs wherever possible, without sacrificing the environment or the quality and reliability of your service. We're working hard to meet that challenge.

You can help—by not wasting gas and electricity and by understanding the reasons why your utility bill is going up. Like almost everything else.

Stocks Are Mixed With Light Trade

Some analysts said news that the government's composite index of economic indicators fell for the first time in 30 months last April had dampened the buying enthusiasm that carried stocks sharply higher last week.

Among other negative outside developments, the dollar dipped sharply on European foreign markets, with a corresponding jump in the price of gold bullion exchanged.

W.T. Grant was most actively traded and fell ⅜ to 17 ¾ on 65,900 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange posted gains in quiet trading. Syntex led the actives, up ¼ at 68 ⅛ on 19,200 shares.

Gold mining stocks strengthened as the price of gold increased on foreign markets. Dome Mines rose 1 ⅞, Campbell Red Lake 1 ¾, and Homestake Mining 1 ⅝.

Glamors moved irregularly. Polaroid gained 1 ⅜, and ARA Services 1, While Corning Glass lost 1 ¼, and Xerox 1.

Chemicals declined, featured by Dow, off 1 ⅝, Monsanto 1 ¼, and Dupont 1 ⅛.

Superior Oil rose 1 ½, and Getty ½, but Atlantic Richfield fell 1, among irregular oils.

Steels were a little stronger, but motors, airlines and aircrafts and rails mostly lost in fractions.

Record Deficit

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has posted a record deficit in its overall balance of payments for the second consecutive month. The net outflow for April totaled $1.16 billion, compared with a $1.09 billion deficit in March and a $157 million surplus a year earlier, the finance ministry reported Friday.

INVESTING

Sale Of Securities Is Advised

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We hold the enclosed list of securities and would appreciate your advice as to holding or selling. We also have $5,000 to invest for capital protection and income. All securities are held at lower than current prices. — W.W.

A. The 14 issues in your portfolio have a current value of $60,000 and yield an average of 4.7 per cent. While this rate could be lifted appreciably by selling your two lowest return oil issues, their appreciation potential in my opinion is sufficient to override such a decision.

I would suggest sale of the small holding in low yield Inter. Tel. & Tel. (NYSE). U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty is heading into a slower period of earnings which has been reflected in recent price action. Sale is advised.

From these two sales and the additional capital now available, I would suggest buying 11M St. Joseph Light & Power 9 1/8s of 1976. This first mortgage bond is A-rated and non-callable.

At current trading levels the issue's yield of 8.9 per cent more than compensates for the small capital loss you would sustain at maturity. These revisions in your portfolio will provide annual income of $3,515 for an average yield of 5.4 per cent.

Q. In moving from one home to another I have apparently lost two Series-E Savings Bonds. How do I go about replacing them? — A.M.

A. You should report this loss to the Chicago office of the Treasury's Bureau of Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605. When serial numbers of lost bonds are known, form PD1048 should be completed and forwarded to the above address.

Duplicate bonds will usually be issued within 6 months. However, if these numbers are not known all other pertinent information — series, face value, time of purchase, name and address of owner plus numbers on bonds still in owner's possession — should be included when reporting the loss.

Youth Wins Award Given By Realtors

Ondina A. Hardy, a 17-year-old senior at Terra Linda High School, is the 1973 winner of the $500 Archie Culpepper Award, given annually by the Marin County Board of Realtors.

Miss Hardy received the award at this morning's breakfast meeting of the board of realtors at the Corte Madera Lions Club. She is the fourth young lady in succession to be so honored. The award perpetuates the memory of Archie Culpepper, the long-time Marin Board of Realtor member and past president.

Miss Hardy plans to use the $500 gift for part of her education at the University of California at Berkeley. She is president of her senior class and the speech team at Terra Linda High School and is captain of the debate squad.

She has worked for many fund-raising projects, won honors for public speaking on local and state levels, participated in a summer forensics institute at University of San Francisco and graduated with honors from a Chinese Language School.

Miss Hardy is the daughter of Mrs. Ornella M. Hardy of San Rafael, an employee of Wells Fargo Bank.

Runners-up in the Culpepper competition were Teresa Yang and Thomas Elkjer, both Terra Linda High School; Jeffrey Escabar, Sir Francis Drake High School, and Daryl Weinroth and Joseph Robinson, both Novato High School.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Interior Design, Woodwork Are San Rafael Firm's Specialty

All-Heart Construction, which specializes in interior design and ornate woodwork, has opened for business at 517 Jacoby Street No. 7 in San Rafael. It is located in a building near the Golden Gate Transit District bus base.

All-Heart Construction is owned by David Mitchell of Glen Ellen, who has been in the woodworking business for seven years, operating out of his home. He moved his operations from his home into San Rafael to meet expanding business in Marin.

Mitchell is the designer-builder who did the interior of the Trident Restaurant in Sausalito several years ago. He also installed the entrance and interior at Emperor's Gate art gallery in Sausalito, the Aus Relais restaurant in Sonoma City and the Record Plant at 2200 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

Mitchell custom-builds everything from boxes and stereo cabinets to wall murals and interiors of large structures. He is also building a 17-foot sailboat entirely out of wood.

STEINAU & KURTZMAN Architects and Associates will open as a new partnership on June 1 at 81 Beach Road in Tiburon.

Steinau

Mitchell

Principals are Allan Steinau, mayor of Belvedere, and Kenneth Kurtzman of San Francisco, who was associated with Hardison & Komatsu architects in San Francisco for the past five years.

Steinau has been an architect since 1957, the last 10 years in Marin. Kurtzman, his new partner, formerly lived in Mill Valley and worked for him from 1963 to 1968.

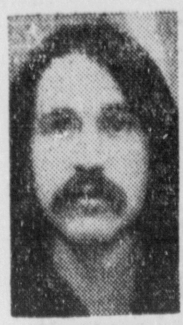
GOOD VI'S, the panthouse at Northgate Mall which features Levi's, will open a new branch in Vallejo on Aug. 1, exactly two years since the opening of the Northgate store in Terra Linda.

ROBERT J. CORDARO and R. DAVID MUIR of Larkspur, partners in Good Vi's, announced that the Vallejo store will be at 339 Georgia Street. It will have the same motif as the Northgate shop, with a full range of Levi's for men, women, boys and girls, plus shirts, sweaters and belts.

Muir

Cordaro

Cordaro and Muir announced that SCOTT BANKS of San Francisco and RANDIE BLAIR of Greenbrae will be manager and assistant manager, respectively, at the Northgate store. Both Banks and Miss Blair have been with Good Vi's since its opening.



Banks

Blair

In addition to the new store in Vallejo, Good Vi's plans to open a chain of six to eight stores in the next few years.

RON RIXMAN CARVING, a new firm that specializes in custom wood carving, has opened at 59 Deluca Place in San Rafael, near Bret Harte Super market.

Rixman, who lives in Fairfax, custom carves waterbed frames and remodels the interiors of motorhomes and some conventional homes. He does some retailing but mostly wholesale work.

Rixman owned clothing stores in Columbus and Athens, Ohio, for about two years before coming to Marin four months ago. He has been woodcarving for about eight years.

MAGNOLIA FABRIC Shoppe, formerly located at 1115 Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, has opened at its new location at 5587 Paradise Drive in Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera.

The new store, next to Aquatics From Paradise tropical fish store, will have the same business hours as in the past — 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

THOMAS V. PARKS of San Rafael, who operated Parks Auto Electric in San Rafael for 16 years, has been named to a key post with the Bureau of Automotive Repair in Sacramento.

He is the bureau's program manager for the official stations branch, which supervises stations that install and inspect smog devices, lights and brakes throughout the state.

Parks served with the United States Marines for eight years and came out a captain in 1954. That year, he took over Parks Auto Electric, which his father had started in 1937 and operated it until 1970. He then worked for several auto agencies in Marin and as assistant service manager for Menzies Foreign Cars in San Francisco until his appointment to the state post.

Parks said he plans to continue living in San Rafael.

GERALD B. WEISS of San Rafael was elected to membership in the San Francisco chapter of the Administrative Management Society. He is president of Data Research Inc. in San Francisco.

Administrative Management Society seeks to develop the science of better management through the office and professional growth of office executives.

LAWRENCE R. JACKSON of San Rafael has been promoted to assistant manager of Bank of America's Montecito Center office in San Rafael, Manager Harvey L. Hukkanen announced.

Jackson, 27, is a graduate of San Jose State College with a bachelor's degree in business and industrial management. After two years in the United States Army, Jackson joined the bank's office in Mill Valley in 1971. In 1972, he was assigned to the Montecito Center office as a loan officer.

A DAY IN THE SUN

Santa Monica beach swelled with a record crowd yesterday as the combination of a holiday offering the chance to get away and the terrific heat of Los Angeles forcing residents out combined to make for a huge migration in an attempt to find some soothing sea breeze.

Drug Case Charges Dismissed For Five

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Indictments against four Marin County men and a Peninsula resident charging possession of cocaine with intent to distribute it, have been dismissed in U.S. District Court by Judge Lloyd Burke.

The dismissal came on motion of the attorney general as the five appeared in court Friday to begin trial on the charges, according to the federal court clerk's office. The prosecutor, Paul J. Fitzpatrick, was unavailable today for the reason for his motion.

Freed by the dismissal were Thomas F. Steinberg, 23, and Frank J. Keicher, 21, both of Sausalito; Louis J. Katzberg, 25, of Mill Valley; Gregory J. McGuire, 26, of San Anselmo, and Stephen D. Moran, 21, of Palo Alto.

They were among eight persons arrested last December by federal agents, who said they negotiated with three men to buy five pounds of cocaine, then arrested five persons at the rendezvous point in a Burlingame motel and three more in Sausalito.

Charges against three of the eight were dismissed in December for lack of evidence.

Short Lifetimes

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — California's Department of Public Health, urging that no nostalgia be wasted on the "good old days," medically speaking, has found a graveyard in the town of Mendocino to illustrate its point. Gravestones showed that in one family there were 11 children, none of whom lived longer than 12 years.

Airwest Seeks Tahoe Service

RENO (AP) — Hughes Air West has applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to serve the Lake Tahoe area through Reno International Airport, officials here said.

Reno Airports Manager Gene Juilfs says he has received notice the airline wants Reno designated as the airport serving Lake Tahoe.

40-Foot Sloop Pulled From Rocks

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A 40-foot sloop which ran aground about 10 miles north of here was pulled off the rocks yesterday and towed to San Francisco Bay.

Six persons aboard the fiberglass sloop "Tenacity" were rescued after the vessel went aground in two feet of water on the rocky Pacific coast Sunday night.

The owner-captain, Rolfe C. Croker, 47, of 1 Laurel Avenue, Belvedere, had told the Coast Guard he would have a private firm attempt to salvage the vessel, even though she was lying on her side on the rocks.

Some of the six persons aboard rowed through the surf to shore, while others were picked up by Coast Guard helicopter.

Besides Croker, president of Pacific Coast Title Co. in San Rafael, others aboard the sloop were Doug Best, 22, Les W. Brilliant, 43, Mike Brilliant, 15, and Murray Connick, 16, all of Belvedere, and Lisa Jane Shuey, 22, of Kentfield.

Record Established For Drunk Driving

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Don Pedro, 71, a pensioner with no fixed address, has received his 551st conviction for drunkenness in Perth Police Court.

"It's incredible," the magistrate said, and added he couldn't think of anything else to do with Pedro, so he jailed him for 14 days.

Bill Gives Right To Television Newsmen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Television newsmen, who want to cover California's legislature on an equal basis with the printed media, apparently will soon have that right in the Assembly, at least.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, chairman of the powerful Assembly Rules Committee, said yesterday he will carry a measure to guarantee that "TV reporters will be treated on an equal basis with the pencil press." However, it would apply only to the Assembly.

Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, vice chairman of the Rules Committee, said he favored such a provision but warned television reporters not to abuse the privilege by making the lawmakers unfairly look like "clowns."

"When the newspapers say it's a circus here, that is one thing," he said. "But when you show the circus on television, that's something else."

Current Assembly rules state that television crews have the privilege of filming without prior consent of lawmakers. But the actual practice is that committee chairman have given any individual assemblyman the right to revoke the privilege.

Burton said his resolution would clarify that TV crews have the right to film any segment of a public meeting regardless of an individual lawmaker's wishes. It also will spell out new regulations on lighting and other aspects of filming committee sessions.

Starting today,
has made all other forms of buying or selling a home totally obsolete.

Because starting today, he's introducing a whole new way to buy and sell a home. It's called Video Homes Selectra TV. And he's the only exclusive member of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network
MARIN COUNTY

Here's how it works:

If you have a home for sale, you call your Video Homes Selectra TV Network member and he'll put a tour of your home on video tape. So instead of dragging a lot of lookers around to your home, he'll give them the tour in front of the TV monitor in his office. The people he does bring finally will probably make you an offer and close the deal.

Or if you want to buy a home, instead of spending two or three days looking at homes that don't quite make it, you take a couple of hours to find the home that's just right.

And if you're moving out of town, he'll arrange to show you what your new community is like and a tour of the homes that best suit your needs. So you can decide before you ever spend a dime on travel.

In every community there's only one real estate broker who's way ahead of everyone else. Starting today, you know who that is in your community. And he knows who it is in every community in the country. Because they're all members of the Video Homes Selectra TV Network, the original coast-to-coast network that makes buying and selling homes as easy as an afternoon in front of the TV.

Public Shut Out From Too Many Meetings

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
10 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

On May 15, the Sausalito City Council went into closed session to discuss hiring a building inspector and a clerk.

On May 16, the Larkspur City Council went into closed session to discuss salary negotiations with city employees.

On May 17, the Cotati City Council went into closed session to discuss a charge that the police chief had been disrespectful in answering compalints about dogs.

On May 21, the Ross School District board went into closed session to hear reasons why three pupils had been suspended.

On May 22, the Novato City Council went into closed session to discuss complaints that have arisen from the resignation of Police Chief Allen V. Klemme.

That same day, the Marin County Board of Supervisors went into closed session to discuss salary negotiations.

ALL THESE sessions were legal — assuming that the only matters discussed were those given as the reasons for shutting out the public.

The Novato City Council has inaugurated a policy of having breakfast "briefing" sessions. These are announced. They are not closed to the public. Therefore they are legal; but they somewhat pervert the purpose of open meetings by forcing any member of the public who wants to hear what's going on to buy breakfast and then strain his ears to catch what's being said at another table.

SOMETIME prior to May 16, two members of the county board of supervisors, three judges, and several county aides met in closed, unannounced session for a different sort of purpose.

The supervisors, at their regular meeting the preceding week, had created a new county conglomerate department which placed the probation department under Betty L. Presley of public social services (welfare). Judges protested that the board could not do that. They insisted that the probation department must be answerable directly to the court.

And so, the supervisors (or two of them), the judges (or three of them), and staff members who hold no elective positions met privately to restructure the previous restructuring of county government.

The legality of that one may be open to question.

HOWEVER, the test of legality should not be the sole test regarding closed meetings of public bodies.

The law is there only because public bodies forgot the nature of their responsibilities so often that it was necessary to enact legislation to remind them.

There should be no need for a Ralph M. Brown Act. There is no need for the legal devices used to avoid its intent.

FAITH IN government is at an ebb right now. It is at an ebb because the public is learning of things done secretly by those entrusted with its national government.

The excuse for most of the secrecy has been "national security."

This is probably a better excuse than our local officials can offer for the increasing number of closed-door sessions. But it is not good enough.

Faith in government grows as the government operates openly, plainly answerable to the people. It declines whenever the government seeks secrecy, whatever its reason.

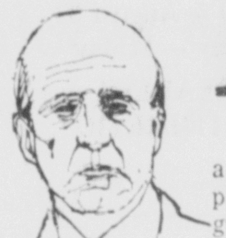
JOSEPH C. HARSCH: Watergate, Politics



The great new game among the political professionals is a guessing game. Who has been helped or hurt by Watergate?

Obviously, not even a Jim Farley could be entirely certain about how the dust (mist?) will settle from it all. But it is obvious that the fortunes of all men in both parties who hope to succeed Richard Nixon in January of 1977 have been touched and changed. Some have been helped and some have been hurt. Herewith, one Washington-watcher's preliminary thoughts about the gains and losses:

THE DEMOCRATS in general are the big gainers. Watergate has lifted them out of their Nixon-landslide doldrums of 1972. The assumption of a long-term "new majority" for Mr. Nixon and his chosen successor has been replaced by a scramble among most Republicans to get themselves clear of both Watergate and Mr. Nixon himself. The practical question is how and whether Republicans who are up for re-election in 1974 can get themselves untainted.

The "new majority" has been severely damaged, not only by Watergate, but also by the disenchantment of George Meany of the AFL-CIO with Nixon economic policies. In other words the Democrats no longer have to assume that the great craft unions now belong to the Republicans. Labor again is worth wooing. And the Democrats no longer have to assume that they are almost certain losers in 1976. The nomination certainly is worth seeking.

Among the Democrats who presumably are seeking that nomination the biggest gainer would seem to be Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who has solid union labor support, a conservative record on military and foreign policy matters, and is untainted by the slightest breath of scandal or impropriety. If the voters of 1976 are looking for someone untouchable in the ethical department, Senator Jackson would make an ideal candidate. Senator Kennedy would not. His chances at a 1976 nomination are probably at an all-time low. Probably he should be scratched now from any list of serious prospects.

AMONG REPUBLICANS the most plausible gainer is Nelson Rockefeller, who has been happily out of Washington and totally untouched by Watergate and never has been a political ally of Richard Nixon. If Nixon ideology and Nixon tactics continue to be a Republican liability (as they are right now), he could well be the beneficiary.

Obviously, John Connally of Texas is assuming the contrary: that the Nixon blessing will have regained value by 1976. He alone has sought closer identification with Mr. Nixon at the height of Mr. Nixon's ordeal. If there is gratitude in politics, he stands to be the beneficiary — provided, of course, that the Nixon blessing will be worth having in 1976.

Spiro Agnew would be the gainer only if Watergate should lead to a Nixon resignation. In that event — possible though unlikely — Mr. Agnew would be President and would, of course, inherit the usual advantage of being the incumbent when 1976 arrived.

But barring a Nixon resignation or conviction on impeachment, Mr. Agnew probably has lost ground for the same reason Hubert Humphrey did when he was vice president. Lke Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Agnew has "overfulfilled quota" in loyalty to his President. Mr. Humphrey never got himself out from under the LBJ shadow during the 1968 campaign. It's extremely difficult to see how Mr. Agnew could at this late date get out of the Nixon shadow.

If required to take a wild guess and identify the most likely next president of the United States, we would incline right now to pick Senator Jackson.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Marin Symphony Finds Cost Of Theater Burden

You have given our organization such fine coverage during our 1972-73 season that we were surprised to find the Marin Symphony omitted in your editorial regarding the use of the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building . . .

The Marin Symphony Association is one of the most consistent users of the auditorium, having booked the facilities a total of 14 times during the 1972-73 season, for performances by the Marin Symphony Orchestra, the Marin Youth Orchestra and the Orchestra Piccola. This does not include the performances we gave under the auspices of Youth in Arts, which perhaps makes more use of the facilities than any other organization.

In fairness to the rate schedule, we must correct the $600 per night week-end fee which you quoted. The charge is $400 for the use of the theater, $600 for the use of the exhibition hall. These prices are prohibitive to most of the local organizations, which is the reason our activities are on week nights, when the non-profit organizations are given one-half rates. The Marin Youth Orchestra, which for 18 years had performed on Sunday afternoons, had to be re-scheduled to a week night because of the cost. The Marin Music Chest, also with concerts on Sunday afternoons, was not given a special rate of $400, as mentioned in the editorial. Rather, they were given an extra grant by the board of supervisors from the transient-tax fund to offset the cost.

As one of the organizations involved for many years in working to obtain a county auditorium, we had no idea it would prove so expensive to use. As beautiful as it is, we find it a financial burden.

Denies Opposition To Moderate-Cost Housing

Pat Angle describes me and the Greenbrae-Kentfield residents opposed to the 272 condominium Bon Air development as being opposed to a "moderate-income development" in our neighborhood.

Unfortunately Miss Angle in search of a simplistic point failed to research the subject. The development is a high income condominium subdivision. Two hundred forty-two of the 272 units will be priced over $50,000. Many of us paid less than that for our homes . . .

As we have stated in front of the planning commission, we oppose the development for many good reasons . . .

There are those who say that the only way to provide adequate housing is to build and build everywhere. Usually these are developers who look upon Marin as a potential San Jose. They build and then they leave.

I am truly sorry that Pat Angle would sympathize with a developer from outside the community and put down a sincere effort on the part of many people to turn this area into an asset for the entire county. We do care about people.

BARBARA BOXER

(Unfortunately Mrs. Boxer, in trying to read a reporter's sympathies into a report of what was said at a hearing, appears to have mis-identified the reporter. It was Pat Perry, not Pat Angle, who reported in a story and column on the Pro-Total Environment Conference that Mrs. Boxer opposed moderate income housing in her neighborhood.—Editor.)

Historical Errors In Birthday Quiz

I have been a subscriber for many years to your very fine newspaper, and read it with pleasure, particularly the editorials which I consider one of the finer features of the paper. One of the very interesting and fact-reporting columns is the "Birthday Quiz". In the "Quiz" of May 16 I noted errors in historical facts which I desire to bring to your attention in the interest of young students of history of today. I refer to the quiz headed "Henry Fonda". Part of the error may have been typographical, but the other errors noted are definitely those of facts.

Henry Fonda was born in Grand Island, Neb., in 1905, not 1902 as stated in the quiz. More important: the Russo-Japanese war was fought in 1904-05, not 1902 as reported, beginning with the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1904 and ending with the annihilation of the Russian fleet by the Japanese navy under Admiral Togo in the Battle of Tsushima in 1905 . . .

Kitty Oppenheimer's Death Leaves Void

What a terrible loss the county has sustained in the death of Kitty Oppenheimer! Over the 21 years that she, miraculously, put on the "Sounding Board" program every week, including holiday weeks, without interruption, I kept telling myself that this day would come, but somehow her indefatigability almost had me persuaded that she was immortal.

Now the time has come when we will no longer have this remarkable person who, every week, hit upon the very issue of greatest concern to the citizens of Marin and put together an unbiassed presentation of both sides of that issue.

I realize that Kitty did a lot of other fine things, but the "Sounding Board" alone will entitle her to a permanent spot in the annals of Marin County history and in the hearts, and the minds, of all who knew her and listened to her outstanding public service program.

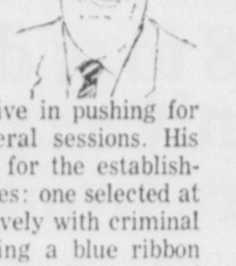
New Efforts To Improve Grand Jury System



By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts for reformation of the state's grand jury system are again under way in both houses of the Legislature. The struggle to update the grand jury has been going on for several years.

The functions of the grand jury are two- fold: the weighing of evidence in criminal matters, returning indictments when appropriate, and the reviewing of local government operations.

In this latter role the grand jury is intended to serve as the people's watchdog over its public affairs. For this reason the jurors traditionally have been a select group, chosen by the judges. But, increasingly it has been burdened with criminal matters, in some counties almost to the complete distraction of what should be its most important job.

Because of this heavy involvement in criminal cases there has been growing pressure to change the method of selection and make the membership more representative of a cross-section of the community.

THE IMPORTANCE of the grand jury as a body capable of auditing local government has bolstered resistance to such proposals. It is argued that random selection of grand jurors would weaken the system by placing persons on it who neither have the time nor the background for high level investigative work.

Assemblyman Ed Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, has been most active in pushing for reforms the past several sessions. His major effort has been for the establishment of two grand juries: one selected at random to deal exclusively with criminal cases and another being a blue ribbon panel for the more demanding task of overseeing local government. A similar proposal was made by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, while Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, had suggested making it optional with the counties.

Z'Berg's bill this session incorporates both ideas and has the backing of Att. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

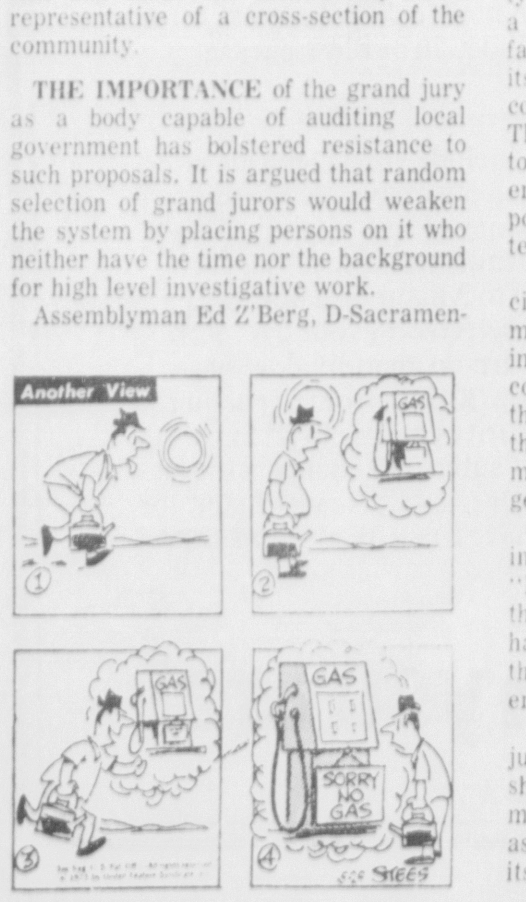
ANOTHER IDEA for change has been advanced by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, at the urging of the Siskiyou County Grand Jury. This would extend grand jury terms to two years, staggering the membership.

"One of the weaknesses of the grand jury system has been the lack of continuity of effort," Collier points out. "It takes a new jury several weeks to become familiar wth its job. When it finally gets its teeth into meaningful studies and completes its report, the year is over. The jurors are unable to follow through to see that situations they have uncovered are remedied. Most often the reports are simply filed away and forgotten."

The retiring foreman of the San Francisco Grand Jury, W.E. Goetze, put it more succinctly. Explaining the time involved in organizing a new jury, becoming oriented to the duties and making the studies and finalizing reports, he said the effective work time is only three months. "You grow old so quickly and get smart so late," he commented.

Collier said the grand jury is the most important agency of local government. "It is the link bet[illegible] their [illegible] has the [illegible] citizens the errors and ommissions of local government.

"The awesome powers which a grand jury posesses are often negated by the shortness of their time in office. My measure would establish the grand jury as a continuing body which would assure its ability to finish the jobs it starts."



MARQUIS CHILDS

Survivor Of Chinese Revolution Questions Need For Watergate

PEKING — In the silence of the sleeping city, in the solemn quiet of a large, brightly lighted conference room in the Great Hall of the People, this amazing man talks of the past, present and future. Premier Chou En-lai speaks with the unassuming confidence, the sureness of self and the selfless goals beyond personal destiny that have seen him through adventures enough to fill a dozen lives.

In a discussion of nearly three and a half hours, beginning shortly before 11 o'clock at night, he talks about the ships of the Russian fleet that passed through the Taiwan Strait, about the developing relationship with the United States, about the perfidy of the Soviet Union, the Watergate affair, China's cultural revolution, his friendship with Henry Kissinger, America's role in Europe, the bombing of Cambodia. Although his voice is seldom raised, the gestures of his sensitive hands give eloquent emphasis to his major points.

THE PRELIMINARY to such a meeting is familiar. We are alerted in the early evening to expect a call to go to the Great Hall of the People, about 10 minutes from the Peking Hotel. As we enter the conference room he comes in from another door, and again this is familiar, to greet us.

Yet, anticipated as the formality is, the presence of this slight man in the gray Mao suit, looking younger than his 75 years, is a stunning surprise. For Chou En-lai is the living embodiment of the turbulent, agonizing, slashing rebirth of the most populous nation in the world.

The son of a high mandarin family, he joined the revolution early after a brilliant career in the Whampoa Military Academy in Canton. A former associate of Chiang Kai-shek when Chiang had formed an alliance with the Communist party, Chou fought in the early battles under Chiang against the forces bent on destroying the "Red bandits."

Later joining the revolutionary forces under Mao Tse-tung, he was one of the survivors of the 6,000-mile-long march to the retreat in northwest China where the first Chinese soviets were established. This epic band endured the snows of high mountain passes, hunger, fierce heat, constant assault from Chiang's troops and those of regional war lords. They crossed the boiling Yangtze River on a high cable suspension bridge from which the planks had been removed by the attacking force in the belief this would stop them.

In the quiet of the Great Hall his past is like a film out of another age. Administering an extraordinary range of detail in every area of government, the premier drives himself as hard as ever he did.

ABOUT MIDWAY in our discussion he brought up Watergate. Why, he asked, laughing, must there be a Watergate? Some people, he felt, were making use of it for ulterior purposes. He was not interested in the question of Watergate. Serious political talks should not depend on that sort of thing. These things are quite common at times like these in the rivalry between political parties. And, he wanted to know, could we be sure that the same sort of thing might not happen again in future elections?

An optimist on the developing relationship between Peking and Washington, he sees the establishment of missions of the two nations in their respective capitals as an encouraging forward step.

Several times Chou cited the communique signed in Shanghai at the end of President Nixon's visit in February 1972, and particularly the sentence stating that the Chinese living on both sides of the Taiwan Strait were Chinese, and both sides agree there is only one China. He attributed this sentence to Kissinger.

Reverting to the policy of John Foster Dulles, he said it was an error to assume that Dulles hoped to restore Chiang Kai-shek to the mainland. His goal, according to Chou, was to establish a claim to separate nationhood for Taiwan. To this the People's Republic was implacably opposed.

For that reason his government had made no effort to drive the Chiang troops off the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu that had been one of Dulles's constant preoccupations. Those islands are still occupied and they are shelled every other day, although the shelling is often symbolic. Quemoy and Matsu are Chiang's link to the mainland, a refutation of the claim to separate nationhood.

Following columns will give more of this far-ranging discussion. But so extensive was it that one must confess it can at best be suggestive of what way a sweeping review of the world as seen by the man who, with the sanction of Mao Tse-tung, directs the affairs of this vast land.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

By the time they get around to making it legal for a private citizen to own gold it'll be priced so high he can't afford it.

All the gold a fellow has these days he can put in his tooth.

How come there's so much agitation for a return to the gold standard? What's wrong with our present credit-card standard?

The trouble with legalizing gold is that they'd then expect us to use it for paying our taxes.

Maybe it's time to again start digging gold out of the ground so we can bury it at Fort Knox.

ART BUCHWALD

'It's Hard To Keep Cast Straight In Washington's Soap Opera

WASHINGTON — It was May, 1975, and the Watergate hearings were still being televised every day. It was the longest show in the history of television and, like "The Forsyte Saga," it was hard to keep all the characters straight.

The Bilkin family sat in front of their set bleary-eyed, but determined to see it through.

On the stand was John Dean III who had been testifying every day for eight months.

MAUDE BILKIN said, "What a nice-looking boy. Tricia made a smart choice marrying him."

"Tricia isn't married to John Dean," Alan Bilkin said. "She's married to Jeb Magruder."

The Bilkins' 16-year-old daughter Ellie spoke up. "I thought Julie was married to Jeb Magruder and Tricia was married to Sen. Sam Ervin."

"No," said Joel, the 18-year-old son. "Sam Ervin is married to Martha Mitchell. Their son is Henry Kissinger."

Maude replied, "I thought Henry Kissinger was the nephew of John Ehrlichman."

ALAN BILKIN shook his head. "No, don't you remember last year it was revealed that Henry Kissinger was H. R. Haldeman's long-lost son?"

"That's right," Joel said. "And Henry Kissinger and Martha Mitchell were in love but they broke up when G. Gordon Liddy tapped their telephone."

"Didn't Martha Mitchell marry Maurice Stans?" Ellie asked.

"No, she married Robert Vesco and moved to Costa Rica," Maude said.

"I don't remember that," Alan said.

"You were working that day," Maude explained.

"WHAT HAPPENED to Dick Helms?" Alan asked.

"Dick Helms became the head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and lost a finger at Wounded Knee," Joel said.

"I thought Bebe Rebozo was at Wounded Knee," Ellie said.

"No, Bebe Rebozo became the governor of Florida when Daniel Ellsberg was appointed the head of the CIA," Alan said.

"Wasn't Daniel Ellsberg Patrick Gray's lawyer?" Maude asked.

"No, Ron Ziegler was Patrick Gray's lawyer. But then he resigned to become the commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps," Joel said.

"I thought Richard Kleindienst was made the commandant," Ellie said.

"No, Kleindienst became the head of ITT after Dita Beard moved to Denver," Alan said.

"IT DOES SEEM hard to follow," Maude said. "Let's listen."

Ellie said, "Dean seems to be talking about President Nixon."

"What happened to President Nixon?" Joel asked.

"He married Brezhnev's daughter," Alan said.

Maude replied, "It seems to me Spiro Agnew's son married Brezhnev's daughter. I think Nixon is still married to Pat."

"But if Nixon is still married to Pat, what happened to Donald Segretti?" Ellie asked.

"He was adopted by Senator and Mrs. Muskie and now lives in Maine with Jane Fonda," Alan said.

"I thought Jane Fonda had fallen in love with Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist," Joel said.

"I don't remember that," Maude said.

"You were shopping that day," Joel replied.

"Do you think John Dean will go to jail?" Ellie asked.

"I hope not," said Maude. "It would be awfully tough on Tricia."

Volkswagen Unveils Audi Fox In Detroit

By CHARLES E. DOLE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

DETROIT, Mich. — If Volkswagen had moved into the GM Technical Center for the day, the message could not have been sharper.

Here was one of the world's largest automakers, and an import at that, unveiling a new car in the very heartland of America's automaking genius. VW, in effect, was saying: "Here we are: and there's a lot more on the way."

And the new car? It's known as the Audi 80 in Europe: it's called the Fox in the U.S. A spunky little car, it is small in dimension but unusually roomy inside.

Its introduction does much more than funnel another import into the U.S. traffic stream. It points the way for the Volkswagen of tomorrow. VW plans to introduce a brand new car in the late fall, maybe not till December, and in size and concept it is expected to be very much like the new Audi Fox, especially from the windshield forward.

The new Audi entrant is a front-engine, front-wheel-drive car weighing a low 1,984 pounds, about the same as the VW Super Beetle. Its price, however, is almost $1,000 more — $3,399 for the two-door sedan compared to VW's $2,449.

The new car has a diagonally controlled, dual braking system with the left-rear and right-front-wheel brakes and the right-rear and left-front brakes interconnected, similar to the SAAB 99 and the Japanese Honda. Most cars link the front brakes and the rear brakes.

Volkswagen has several other models in the works that could spell the demise of the rear-engine bug. J. Stuart Perkins, president of Volkswagen of America, Inc., says his firm "will have some interesting additions the next year or two."

Besides VW, several other importers are planning new car models for the U.S., among them Fiat, SAAB, Renault, and Toyo Kogyo, maker of the revolutionary Mazda with its twin-rotor engine known as the Wankel.

The Italian carmaker, Fiat, will bring in its new sports coupe, the X19, as a 1974 model. SAAB will import the last of its 96 models: while Renault has a couple of new cars on the way. Mazda will add the new RX-4 series and phase out all piston-engine cars.

The big news has to be Volkswagen and where it is going. Last February, for the first time in import history, the VW Beetle was second in total U.S. car registrations after the Chevrolet Impala —36,074 Impalas to 24,543 VW bugs. In third place was the Oldsmobile Cutlass. For the first two months of the year, the totals were: Impala 73,531: Beetle 50,181.

Among the small domestic sedans, the Chevrolet Vega checks in at 21,351: and the Ford Pinto, 19,038. In March the West German car importer sold 34,033 Beetles in the United States.

Yet even VW will admit that the familiar slope-nosed Beetle cannot go on forever. The famed Ford Model T had the garage door slammed after 15 million copies. The Beetle already has seized the longevity title from Ford and no other carmaker probably will ever see it.

So now, enter the Fox, a high-luxury compact at the upper low end of the market.

As for identity, many car buyers will ask: "Audi who?" or "Audi what?" Introduced in late 1969, the company sold a mere 7,691 in 1970. The next year sales jumped to 20,604: and were up to 28,764 in 1972. It was Audi that brightened the lights for VW after the U.S. tightened the import screws in the summer and fall of 1971, a time when VW sales themselves plunged precipitously.

Now the company's sales momentum has built up and sales are still expected to hit the half million mark this year, including the Porsche-Audi division. Audi sales for 1973 are projected at 52,500: and for next year, 72,000.

Porsche, named for the man who designed the prewar "people's car" known as Volkswagen, chalked up 13,600 sales in 1970 and 16,800 in 1971. By 1972 sales topped out at 20,600. By 1974, the importer looks for 100,000 sales for the division.

The Porsche, and even the Audi, are not bargain-basement cars. The lowest-priced Porsche, the two-passenger, midengine 914, sells for $4,499, while the base price for a 911 is $7,960. The Audi 100 LS, big brother of the Fox, sells, in its two-door version, for $4,150, but extras can jack up the price to close to $5,000.

East Coast prices for the Fox start at $3,399 for the two-door sedan. Automatic transmission is $245, while factory-installed air-conditioning goes for $395.

Not only did VW introduce the new car in Detroit's front yard, but it could be an embarrassment to the U.S. auto industry over emissions.

"The Fox was designed with the U.S. emissions standards in mind," declares John A. Cook, head of the Porsche-Audi division of VW of America. He adds: "There is a very good likelihood that we can meet the 1974 air-pollution interim standards, including California, without a catalyst." As for 1976, he says, "we're not talking about 1976 till the dispute over oxides of nitrogen is settled."

Several other foreign manufacturers, to the chagrin of the U.S. industry, have stated they can meet the 1975 standards, including two Japanese companies, Toyo Kogyo and Honda. Also, the Mercedes-Benz diesel is said to qualify.

Detroit is still sweating out the catalyst and has voiced doubts on the ability of the foreign antipollution systems to qualify on the larger-type engines generally offered by Detroit.

The only thing that could seriously dog the Audi is price. But VW doesn't seem too concerned as it peers over its back at the record.

Rocket Blast Peppers Belfast Catholic School

BELFAST (UPI) — Fragments from an exploding rocket aimed at a British Army post in Belfast peppered a nearby Roman Catholic nursery school today but caused no casualties, the army said.

An army spokesman said the Soviet-made RPG7 rocket exploded when it hit a fence surrounding the post, showering fragments on the Vere Foster school where 220 children were playing inside.

"It was a miracle none of the kids were hurt," the spokesman said.

Army sources said the attack could be the start of Irish Republican Army (IRA) offensive aimed at disrupting local government elections in Northern Ireland Wednesday.

More than 1,000 mourners attended the funeral yesterday of the 806th victim of almost four years of strife among minority Roman Catholics, majority Protestants and British forces.

He was 4-year-old Paul Crummey, a Catholic boy who was playing in his family's garden Saturday when he was hit by a stray bullet during an IRA attack on a British patrol in Belfast.

A wave of bombing and shooting attacks ceased Sunday and, except for a blast in which five Catholic children suffered shock. The lull continued Monday.

But British officers said they still expected the outlawed IRA —which seeks to unite Northern Ireland with the heavily Catholic Irish Republic —to launch an offensive aimed at disrupting local government elections Wednesday.

Preparing for the possibility, British commanders today mobilized the 9,000 man Ulster Defense Regiment militia to back up 17,500 troops and 4,500 police in guarding polling places and voters.

The militant Provisional wing of the IRA has urged Catholics to boycott the elections. Catholic politicians said the Provisionals have warned some candidates not to campaign and have assaulted some campaign workers.

In Dublin, the Irish government announced Monday it was dispatching two more battalions comprising 1,040 troops to strengthen anti-IRA security on its side of the border.

Though the Irish Republic believes in Irish unification as a long term goal, it opposes the IRA's campaign of violence.

Concerts Will Aid Autistic Children Class

Benefit concerts at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building Saturday and Sunday will donate net proceeds to the autistic children's class at Henry C. Hall School in Larkspur, according to the sponsors, Sausalito Is Spring.

Performing at 8 p.m. Saturday will be the Jerry Garcia/Merl Saunders group, Herbie Hancock and the Pointer Sisters.

The Sunday concert, also at 8 p.m., will feature Jesse Colin Young, Ramblin' Jack Elliott and Chris Williamson.

The Sausalito Is Spring also will hold an inaugural ball beginning at 8 p.m. Friday in Pepperland, San Rafael, featuring the Joy of Cooking, Nick Gravenites with Blue Gravy, Clover and Topaz groups.

Films On Modern Painters Slated

A series of six new color films on "Pioneers of Modern Painting" will be shown beginning June 21 and each Thursday through July 26 in the planning commission chambers of the Marin Civic Center.

The free series is sponsored by the county library. The first film, on Edouard Manet, will be shown at 12:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Congressional Probes

From 1792 to the present, Congress has exercised its right to investigate. Although there is no constitutional provision that expressly authorizes either house of Congress to make investigations, there is historical precedent. Such investigating power had been frequently used by the British Parliament and by the Assemblies of the American colonies. For many years, Congress's probes were limited to governmental departments. But the courts have since upheld the right to conduct investigations in many areas. The House conducted its first investigation in 1792 to study a severe defeat suffered by General St. Clair and his army against the Indians.

Abusive Parents Have Low Self-Image

By PAT BALMES

"The abusive parent thinks so poorly of himself that at first you could not believe his self-image is so low. The child he abuses is a wanted child," said psychiatric social worker Elizabeth Davoren of Tiburon, a pioneer researcher in the battered child problem.

"Abusive parents are going to have their own bad childhoods made up to them. They are going to have this baby and all will be well. They do not see the child as somebody with needs.

"One parent said, 'Nobody has ever loved me; I thought this baby was going to love me,' " she recalled adding that the child could never fulfill the parent's expectation of love.

Doing basic research with 100 child abusers in Denver between 1960-66, Mrs. Davoren thought many times before she considered placement, she said.

"We tried to keep the child in his home. Otherwise children are shunted to foster homes and nothing happens to alter his home situation," she said.

A VETERAN social worker, Mrs. Davoren was recruited by University of Colorado medical school physicians in 1960 to work on the first research project to find out why child abuse happens.

She had just had her first baby and her plan was to stay home. But the doctors asked her to "just see a few mothers of battered children," she said.

She became a researcher on their project, which was funded and stretched over the next six years, and was available 24-hours-a-day to people she was working with. It was an explosive situation — the child was back in the home where he had been battered, she said.

The team of researchers discovered techniques to work with these difficult parents. "We were hearing from all over the country, 'How do you do it?' " she said.

Their research was published in a hardback book, "The Battered Child" by Helfer and Kempe, by University of Chicago Press in 1968. Bess Dacoren wrote the chapter on the role of the social worker.

A native of New York City, Bess Davoren was graduated from Rutgers University in mathematics and worked on aircraft designs in World War II.

By the war's end she had realized she wanted to work directly with people. She came to San Francisco in 1945 when she was 20 and the Red Cross awarded her a scholarship to Simmons Graduate School of Social Work, an affiliate of Harvard University.

Her first Simmons placement in Boston was at the Children's Mission to Children agency, where children were received from the hospital to be placed in foster homes or group placement.

THERE Mrs. Davoren first saw "failure to thrive," a severe form of child neglect which is totally unintentional but can lead to death of an infant because the infant cannot live without psychological nurturing. The baby is fed by its parents but not nourished emotionally so food does no good, she explained.

At the same time she was employed at the New England home for Little Wanderers, a private agency for intake and study of disturbed children.

Completing her masters studies at University of Chicago, she worked for four years for United Charities in Chicago which was very strict about who could work with children, she said.

A boy whom she worked with for three years at first put his hands over his ears and screamed. She saw him two or three times a week and took him out on Saturdays, trying to make him trust an adult. His IQ improved from 71 to 120 during this time, she said.

In 1953 she married William Davoren, now an environmental officer for the Department of the Interior in San Francisco, and they moved to Denver where she worked at University of Colorado's Psychopathic Hospital as head of intake and in the child guidance clinic.

Next she headed psychiatric-social services at Denver General Hospital, retiring when she expected her first child in 1960, only to be summoned for the battered child research project.

"Real preventative work is helping the young mother. The child is probably formed during his first 18 months but the quality of his life is important.

"People need to be at peace with themselves; this preventative work has priority if we are going to survive as a civilization. Lay therapists are now used in Colorado, but you need very good professional people to supervise this program," she said.

"WHEN I moved to California in 1966 I thought I would forget about child abuse because it takes its toll; it used up a whole portion of me. First I want to raise my children," Mrs. Davoren said.

She has been asked to organize programs such as Child in Peril crash courses scheduled over weekends for teachers, social workers and other professionals.

She has appeared on panels, given college lectures and participated in a KQED Child Abuse Symposium. Everything she has done has been on a one-time basis, she said.

Mrs. Davoren just published her survey of probation officers, child welfare directors, protective services workers and heads of pediatric services in hospitals in California's 58 counties, conducted for the Rosenberg Foundation of San Francisco. Ninety-nine per cent reported need for expanded services of welfare and probation agencies, courts, hospitals, schools and private physicians to protect abused children and to provide treatment for abusing parents.

"We cannot leave children unprotected. They do not come free to society; they are expensive if they have to be institutionalized," she said.

To report a potentially dangerous situation where a child would be hurt, she advised that you call the police and say, "I am concerned . . . " You can remain anonymous; police will not reveal your name or you need not give it, she said.

(Independent-Journal pnoto)

According to Mrs. Davoren there is a new Marin County Interagency Committee on Child Abuse. Four members are representatives of public agencies which give protective services — Nancy Boggs of Marin County Probation Department; Jean Kimmick of Marin County Department of Public Social Services; Dr. Fredrick Phillips of Community Mental Health Center and Brenda Roberts of Department of Health Services. Calls should be funneled through chairman Boggs.

"I hope more professionals will learn what to do. Reports go up when there is a service available," said Mrs. Davoren.

The committee is an advisory and planning body for member agencies which provide services and programs for amelioration of child abuse cases which are reported to the committee, according to child psychiatrist Dr. Fredrick Phillips.

"WE ARE interested in treatment since prosecution seems not to be effective in preventing or ameliorating child abuse," he said.

The committee will be contacting each police jurisdiction so when they are notified of a case the police will call upon the appropriate committee member, according to Dr. Phillips.

Nancy Boggs said the committee is drafting a letter to be sent to agencies and people such as doctors, public health nurses and those who work in schools and day care centers who by law are required to report child abuse, so they know of the committee's existence and what to do.

Failure for them to report is a misdemeanor and they may also be civilly liable, she said adding that the penal code grants them immunity for reporting in good faith.

ON THE AGENDA

Parent-Teacher Association Will Plant A 'Freedom Tree'

John MacPhail Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association will plant a "Freedom Tree' tomorrow dedicated to Senior Master Sergeant Robert Hill, missing in action in Vietnam since 1966, and to all other California servicemen missing in action.

Live music will be provided by the Aristocrats.

Contest Is Slated For December 8

The "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest has been announced for Dec. 8 by the North Bay Wool Growers Association Women's Auxiliary.

The contest is open to girls and boys age 10 to 21 who enter garments which they have knitted, crocheted or sewn.

The garments are judged for workmanship and are modeled by their creators at a luncheon and fashion show to be held in Santa Rosa Dec. 8.

Contest categories are preteens- skirts, jumpers, pants or shirts: juniors— (ages 14 to 16) dresses, coats or suits, and seniors— (age 17 to 21) dresses, coats or suits.

Edible Spoons Are On The Way

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Edible spoons and aerating straws are in the wind. The Dairy Research Digest says the spoons were developed in an unnamed Scandinavian country. Only the bowls are edible— the handles are plastic. The bowls made of a milk sugar are colored light blue and the milk-only variety are yellow. They dissolve while they sweeten and lighten coffee or tea. The Digest described the aerating straws as devices that convert flavored milk to milk shakes and flat beverages to carbonated ones as the straws are used.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Ferroni will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday. They have lived in Mill Valley since 1925.

Couple To Celebrate Golden Anniversary

The 50th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferroni of Mill Valley will be honored at a reception at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Michael Smugorzewski, Saturday afternoon.

The Ferronis were married June 2, 1923, at St. Rose Parish Church in Santa Rosa. In 1925 they moved to Mill Valley and have lived there ever since.

Their son, Lewis Ferroni, is also a resident of Mill Valley and there are nine grandchildren.

Ferroni was employed in the Mill Valley Post Office for 23 years, and after his retirement, put his talents to work as a gardener, specializing in landscape projects, and supplying rhododendrons, azaleas and camellias to customers.

The couple enjoy traveling. They have been to Europe twice, where they visited family members on both the French and Italian Rivieras. They returned from a trip to Western Canada last month. Their next trip will probably be to Hawaii.

Ferroni is a native Californian, born in Monterey in 1896. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Ferroni came here from Italy in the 1890s. His father's first job was as a dishwasher for the old Del Monte Hotel at Pebble Beach. The family moved to San Francisco, where the elder Ferroni was employed as the chef for the Olympic Club.

Ferroni was in San Francisco when the earthquake of 1906 hit. He remembers seeing the fires from Nob Hill and living in a tent in Golden Gate Park.

He was in the army during World War I and is a 40 year member of Mill Valley Post 284 of the American Legion.

The Ferroni family moved to Healdsburg after 1906. Angela Ferroni, who was born in Italy in 1904, traveled to Healdsburg when she was 18 to stay with a married sister. The couple met in Healdsburg in 1922 and were married a year later.

Ten women friends entertained Mrs. Ferroni at luncheon at Sabella's restaurant Thursday as an added anniversary celebration.

Foreign Stamps Feature Foods

NEW YORK (UPI) — Food stamps in many foreign countries are postage, not discount coupons for low income families. Hundreds of nations issue thousands such stamps picturing almost every vegetable and fruit, grain, spice, meat and farming process, says Raymond Schuessler in "Gusto International," a new quarterly magazine sold in food stores. Russia leads the world in the number of food stamps, he said.

Shakespeare Festival Is Seeking Many Items

The Marin Shakespeare Festival is seeking the use of folding chairs, couches, assorted chairs and cinder blocks to make shelves for use in the offices. Also needed for the offices are book shelves, a small filing cabinet, typewriter tables and sewing tables.

For the technical end of the theater, ironing boards, irons, dress forms, paint brushes, paint thinner, any color paint, assorted tools, paper, paperboard, cards, pencils, binders and shoe boxes are needed.

Also being sought are a coffee urn, chaise lounges, plugs, extension cords, electrical cord, wire, nails, screws, string and yard sticks.

Arrangements to have the items picked up can be made by calling the Marin Shakespeare Festival Office in San Francisco.

Bill Assures Hospital Rights

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pennsylvania has a citizen's bill of hospital rights, believed to be the first of its type formulated by a government agency. The 12-point bill duplicates and in some cases elaborates on other previously issued patients' rights statements, including one approved by the American Hospital Association.

Herbert S. Denenberg, the state's insurance commissioner, said the bill of rights is directed at the public, not just patients, because "every member of the public pays for hospitals through his health insurance, his Blue Cross and Blue Shield and his tax dollars."

Advice For 'A Buddy' Is That He Face His Problem For Self

HELEN AND SUE:

I need a little help for my friend.

You get into a habit of going with a girl and Cynthia is quite a habit! She manages things. But she's a good looking chick and you're knocked over because she is two years older. Pretty soon people are assuming you'll be married because you've been together three years.

But you (my friend, that is) need space and time to think, so he has transferred to a university 200 miles away and he'll start summer school there soon. Not wanting to hurt Cyn, he tells her the separation will about kill him. Or maybe she tells him that and he doesn't contradict her.

Well, she comes up with this great surprise: she's wangled a transfer from her company and can work in his university town, beginning in July. So . . . goodbye freedom!

How can he get it across that he doesn't want a baby-sitter any more? She's beginning to smother him, but she's always done the bossing and he doesn't know how to change things. Besides, he's soft-hearted. — A BUDDY

BUDDY:

Let's cut the camouflage and assume you're writing for your soft-hearted self, not your "buddy." So you're actually asking, "How do I get the courage to cool it with a hard-headed girlfriend?" There's only one way: level with her — and right now, while she can still cancel the transfer. Remember, he who makes like a mouse, ends up in a trap. — SUE

DEAR BUDDY:

And remember today's bossy "chick" is tomorrow's "mother hen." (Spelled "wife.")

You can't stop Cyn from getting a job transfer if she is determined, but you can go to the university a free man — if you are determined. Don't weaken! — HELEN

RAP:

I'm 17, white, and in love with a black guy who is 19. I'm afraid to talk to my parents about this. My Dad doesn't seem prejudiced but my mother is a little. They'd probably ground me.

The problem is we want to get married the minute I turn 18 and I want a big formal wedding but I don't want my parents to be there because it might hurt them.

How can I have what I want and still keep what I have? — A.T.P.

A.:

How about giving yourself a year or so to grow up? If you're afraid to face nearly-unprejudiced parents, are you mature enough to face the prejudice you'll surely find in both the white and black communities?

Your idea of marriage apparently centers on romantic dreams of a big, formal wedding. Until you can realistically assess what comes before and afterwards, you're too young to make it as a wife. — HELEN

A.T.P.:

Forget about race for a moment, and ask yourself, "What's my rush to get married?" I go along with my mother: it sounds as if you're more interested in a terrific wedding than the long haul ahead. Check your motives. Are they based mostly on romantic dreams?

You aren't even being realistic about the wedding: since an 18-year-old girl's parents usually pay the bills, how could you exclude them "because they might be hurt?"

Now about color: Though interracial marriages are becoming more acceptable than in the past, there will be times when you must put up with cuts and remarks and stares and stand together as two. Are you man and woman enough yet to do it? — SUE

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

FRESHEN UP that old heap: Here's a room the family used as the trap for every kind of junk. But now it has got a new life with Suntan-Orange Kodel carpeting by Congoleum, Nancy Tulip bed linens by Burlington House and a neat pair of bunks for guesting or napping.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Extra Room Can Be Saved With Minimum Of Effort

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Everybody has their claim on it. That little spot you call the extra room. It never quite jells as a space, just acquires things you can't use elsewhere in the house.

Whether it's in the basement, the attic or garage, it can have its face saved with just a minimum of effort and some small cash outlay.

The main investment should probably be floor covering. There's nothing as satisfying as a new carpet to convince everyone in the clan that the extra room may soon become the favorite.

For the revamp job shown today, the clients first built in two bunks and a working-height counter. Then they painted the walls and new carpentry a sunny yellow.

Their teen-age son found two artist light fixtures and hung them low to produce the right kind of light for close-up projects such as sewing and drawing. These were painted white.

Next purchase was a Suntan-Orange carpeting made of Kodel fibers with what is called a tip-sheared surface. It provides a gentle, plushy cusion and has all the easy-care advantages of its polyester contents. Made by Congoleum, it's called Front Row II.

With the bright color scheme established, they shopped for some bright fabrics or bedspreads. The nice surprise was finding Burlington's tulip-patterned bed sheets and cases with a permanent-press blend of Kodel polyester and cotton.

These added all the decoration the room needed and the owners made window shades of the same fabric by buying one additional sheet.

A few baskets were added as fabric and art supply storage and one good posture chair was found to round out the variety of sit-sleep-work activities anticipated for the room.

The finished project has become the first choice with guests since it now also has a tiny refrigerator, a plug-in coffeepot and saucepan. All anyone needs to be the perfect houseguest.

Check Vision At Early Age

NEW YORK (UPI) — When a child reaches age three, it is time to check the way he or she sees because poor vision can retard the normal development of skills needed for the tasks ahead in school.

The American Optometric Association points out that a youngster who is not visually equipped for school may fall behind his classmates, may be taunted by them, eventually grow to hate school and may become a behavior problem or a school dropout.

Famed Ballerina To Dance With Company In Marin

Dame Margot Fonteyn, considered by many to be the world's leading ballerina, will be a guest star in the New London Ballet Company's performance at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building on June 20.

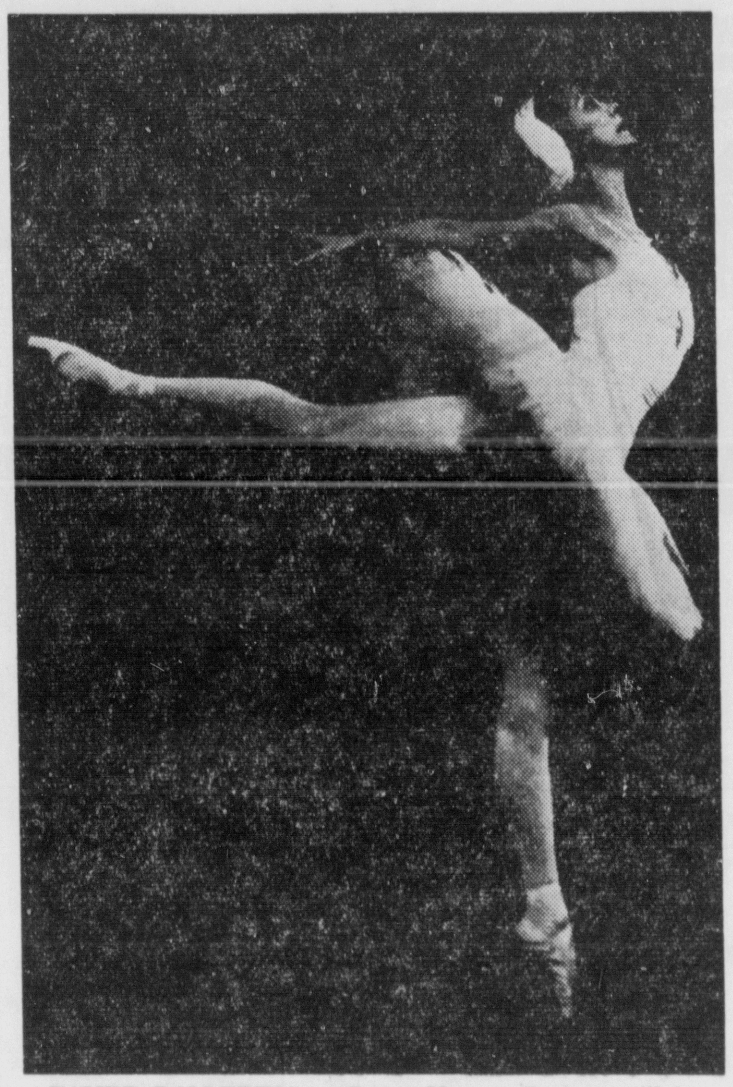
The company will perform "Bagatelle," a 20-minute ballet choreographed by Andre Prokovsky to Beethoven music; the complete "Othello," choreographed by Peter Darrell to Liszt music, and "Laurencia," choreographed by Galina Sansova.

Prokovsky and Miss Sansova will be featured dancers in several of the ballets.

The New London Ballet will be making its first tour of the United States. It also will perform in Cupertino and Berkeley the same week.



FAMED BALLERINA — Dame Margot Fonteyn will be guest star at a performance of the New London Ballet June 20 in Marin County. She will dance excerpts from "Swan Lake" and "The Sleeping Beauty."

Third Man Denies Sex Scandal Role

LONDON (UPI) — Government officials said Monday night that a third government minister denied any involvement in a sex scandal that rocked the government of Prime Minister Edward Heath. The prime minister, they said, accepts the denial.

The scandal drove two other ministers from public life last week and stirred fears that national security had been endangered.

A statement from Heath's office said a Scotland Yard inquiry failed to find any evidence to support a reputed call girl's allegations that the third man was involved in the affair.

The statement said the minister named by Mrs. Norma Levy as a client—he was not identified —"categorically denied" the allegation. Officials said Heath, who is currently making a private visit to West Germany, accepted this.

Mrs. Levy became involved in the case when two aristocratic ministers resigned in the spiciest scandal in Britain in a decade.

The two ministers were Lord Lambton, undersecretary for the Royal Air Force (RAF), and Earl Jellicoe, the leader of the House of Lords and a personal friend of Heath. They both confessed to "casual" relations with a call girl but denied this jeopardized national security.

The Heath statement said Scotland Yard was seeking Mrs. Levy and her husband for questioning on "certain criminal offenses."

Newspapers said Mrs. Levy and her husband apparently had been in Morocco but now have left. A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to elaborate on the "criminal offenses" that could concern the couple.

Mrs. Levy, in a telephone call from a hiding place, told the newspaper Sunday People her clients included a third British minister—and possibly a fourth.

The Heath statement said Scotland Yard investigated and found no evidence to support this. It said the investigation did not change Heath's statement last Thursday in the House of Commons on the affair.

In that statement, Heath said there were no grounds to believe the scandal had involved anyone beyond the two ministers who resigned.

But he said he was setting up a commission to see if, in fact, the affair had risked national security.

Greek Mutiny Really Was Overthrow Try

ATHENS (UPI) — The military-backed government of Premier George Papadopoulos conceded yesterday that a naval mutiny last week was really a full fledged attempt to overthrow Papadopoulos.

Military sources said as many as 50 ships, more than one-half the entire navy, were tied up in the Salamis naval base near Piraeus today as the government launched an indepth investigation into the affair.

Navy sources said the Salamis island navy base, opposite the port of Pireaus, was closed with as many as 50 ships, including four destroyers, anchored inside the base.

Military sources also said strict security measures were still in force in and around various air bases in the east central area of Greece.

The government maintained for days that the navy plot involved no more than a handful of active officers. Then it said yesterday that 35 officers, most of them holding senior rank, were involved in an attempted coup against the government.

Unofficial reports put the number of detained officers at much higher than 35.

A government statememt said the only plotter still at large was Cmdr. Nickolas Pappas, who withdrew his ship, the destroyer Velos, from North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) exercises off Sardinia Friday and asked Italy to grant him and 30 members of his crew political asylum.

A ministry of defense announcement said three retired officers, Capt. George Konofaos and Adms. Constantine Engolfopoulos and Ioannis Minaios, led the coup attempt. They were arrested last week.

A third retired admiral, Antonios Rozakis, was accused of leading a resistance organization, Greek Anti-dictatorial Youth (EAN), which was accused of placing bombs under automobiles owned by American military and diplomatic personnel and planning to assassinate Greek leaders.

The defense ministry said Rozakis left for Italy by ship May 19, but gave no further details.

It said navy mutiners planned to sail last Tuesday night with "as many ships as possible" to the island of Syros in the Aegean.

"From there," the ministry said, "they would have asked for the support of the army and the air force and demanded the resignation of the government."

Papadopoulos came to power in a military coup in 1967.

The ministry also said it would make no further announcements on the affair for the time being—in order to avoid hindering the investigation.

In Rome, government sources said a special commission would examine separately the asylum requests and not give blanket political asylum to Pappas and the 30 other defectors.

The government already has given permission for the men to remain in Italy but this does not mean they have political refugee status—an important point if Greece decides to seek their extradition on political charges.

Under its constitution, Italy cannot extradite persons for trial on political charges.

Italian Actress Gets Letter Bomb

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — The fifth letter bomb mailed to an actress in Italy this year burst into flames yesterday in a mail truck.

Police said the letter was addressed to actress Laura Betti in Rome. Like the other four mailed in January and February, it was sent from the Tuscany region.

Police said about 50 other letters and cards in the truck were scorched by the letter bomb, which contained gunpowder and a small vial of acid, but no one was hurt.

The earlier explosive letters were addressed to Italian actresses Mariangela Melato, Laura Antonelli and Elsa Martinelli and Solvi Stubing, a West German actress. The only person injured earlier was Miss Melato's sister, Anna, who suffered a burned eye when she opened the letter sent her sister.

Police said they did not know why the letters were sent to any of the actresses.

Nixon Backed By His Daughter

ABILENE, Kan. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower said yesterday the American people will never let the Watergate Scandal overshadow the achievements of her father's presidency.

"I think that when you are in political life you learn to live with crises," she said during a tour of the Dwight D. Eisenhower museum.

"I think that everything will be put in perspective in time. I don't think that the achievements of ending the war in Vietnam and the other things that my father has accomplished are going to be forgotten by the American people or that this will overshadow those achievements."

Legends Understood Each Other

By Corinne Greeting
The Christian Science Monitor

Gertrude Stein and Pablo Picasso had much in common and they understood each other.

No wonder Stein, too, could honestly claim, in their early days in Paris, before either had fame, "I was alone at this time in understanding him, perhaps because I was expressing the same thing in literature . . ."

In the 1930's the Manchester Guardian recognized this kinship. "Miss Stein writes exactly as she thinks and she thinks by instinct and after all that is how Picasso paints, so why shouldn't that be a good way of explaining Picasso . . ." This review appeared soon after she had published a short book called, simply, "Picasso."

Gertrude Stein met Picasso in 1905. She and her brother, Leo, had taken up residence in Paris where he was building an art collection. She was 31. Picasso was only 24, and very, very poor.

They met in a gallery where Leo had taken Gertrude to view "The Girl with a Basket of Flowers" (Jeune Fille aux Fleurs). Picasso, hopefully waiting in the wings for an acceptance, asked "Who is the lady?" And when the gallery owner identified her, Picasso said, "Ask her if she will pose for me."

The Steins bought the little painting for $30 and it is conceivable it could now be the most valuable figure painting of the 20th century. But, it is reported, Gertrude did not at first like it.

However, she posed for Picasso. "I posed for him all that winter, eighty times," she said, "and in the end he painted out the head." He told her he couldn't "see" her any more when he looked at her and he went off to spend the summer in the Pyrenees.

The abaondoned, headless figure rested against the studio wall until Picasso returned to Paris. Gertrude was gone but he immediately painted in the final version of the head without her. The Negroid, masklike face dominated the heavily proportioned figure. Gertrude was delighted with it and Picasso gave her the painting.

In reporting the story, Stein told of the day a rich collector came to her home, looked at the portrait and wanted to know what price she had paid for it. "Nothing I said to him, nothing he cried out, nothing I answered, naturally he gave it to me."

She wrote of telling this to Picasso who smiled and said, ". . . he doesn't understand . . . that at the time the difference between a sale and a gift was negligible."

By his late 20's, according to Stein, Picasso "had almost never exhibited his pictures, his followers showed theirs but he did not." Evidently, his reluctance to show came from his conviction that he was not yet really ready. Or maybe he was convinced people would not understand him. ". . . there are so few people who understand" he had confided to Stein, "and later when everyone admires you there are still the same few who understand, just as few as before."

Still, he had been through his "blue period," his "rose period" and the "negro period." By 1908 he was back in Paris from Spain, says Stein, "with the beginning of his cubism in his hand." And she adds, "The time had come and the man."

"The head, the face, the human body these are all that exist for Picasso" said Stein more than once. She told of walking with Picasso and passing a learned man sitting on a bench, and Picasso said, ". . . look at that face, it is as old as the world, all faces are as old as the world." By contrast, Stein insisted, "the souls of people do not interest him, that is to say for him the reality of life is in the head, the face and the body."

Picasso's being Spanish made all the difference. Stein refers to this again and again. "Don Quixote was a Spaniard," she reminds us, "he did not imagine things, he saw things and it was not a dream, it was not lunacy, he really saw them . . . Well Picasso is a Spaniard."

Spaniards are like Americans she continues, not like Europeans, not like Orientals. For Spaniards and Americans reality is not real. She explains "that is why there are skyscrapers and American literature and Spanish painting and literature."

Picasso continued to express heads and bodies as he saw them, not as others saw them. He was not satisfied with appearance. In looking at a friend one sees one feature of the face, or another. Picasso "analyzed his vision" in this way, said Stein.

"Picasso was the only one (of the painters) who saw the twentieth century with his eyes and saw its reality," causing a terrifying struggle in the artist who chose to break away from the past.

In an Epilogue to her short book, Stein describes the earth seen from a plane. When she looked at it she "saw all the lines of cubism made at a time when not any painter had ever gone up in an airplane." She realized Picasso's instinctive understanding of the earth lines, "coming and going, developing and destroying themselves" as they did on his canvas, and she realized again that "a creator is contemporary, he understands what is contemporary when the contemporaries do not yet know it."

"Picasso was always possessed by the necessity of emptying himself, of emptying himself completely," Stein comments. He emptied himself of all types of influences, African sculpture, Italian and French things, even Oriental calligraphy but he never empties himself of being Spanish. That one influence, though threatened at times during his life, stayed with him.

His friends in Paris were primarily writers, not painters, since, as Stein noted, he was born knowing how to paint but needed ideas and writers had ideas — though he tried during his life to turn his hand to poetry, he did so with scant success.

"The only way Picasso has of speaking, the only way Picasso has of writing is with drawings and paintings," said Gertrude Stein. Once when he had read some of his poetry to friends in a cafe, during a period of two years when he painted nothing, Stein said, "of course he who could write, write so well with drawings and with colors, knew very well that to write with words was, for him, not to write at all."

Writing poetry was, for him, a period of rest. As Stein explained it, poetry was "his way of falling asleep."

Gertrude Stein's book "Picasso" ended with 1937, when he had just started painting bright colored pictures. They were to live through the war. Stein was to be forced by Hitler's threatening shadow to abandon her home and vast collection of paintings in Paris, and flee with her companion, Alice B. Toklas, to the country.

They decided to take only two paintings, a valuable Cezanne and Picasso's portrait of Gertrude. The Cezanne had to be sold when they ran out of money but it brought them a substantial sum on which to survive the duration of the war.

In the middle of December, 1944, hearing all was again well in Paris, Gertrude and Alice hired a woodburning taxi and started at midnight on a frightfully uncomfortable two-day journey home.

The second night out, they were stopped by four officers and their papers were examined. One of the men asked about packages in the taxi. Gertrude said they contained meat, butter, and eggs sufficient to keep them a week in Paris. But still he insisted on knowing what was in one particularly large and carefully packaged bundle.

"That," said Alice, "is a Picasso painting, don't touch it."

"I congratulate you," said the officer, and allowed them to go on their way.

The beloved portrait stayed with Gertrude until her death not too long afterward.

The same could be said of her friend, Picasso.

Two legends remain with us, one of a painter who explained a writer in paint, the other of a writer who explained a painter in words.

Man Convicted Of Burglary Try

A jury in the court of Judge Henry J. Broderick found Michael Galarza, 23, guilty after deliberating three hours Thursday. The judge set sentencing for June 14.

The trial lasted three days.

Galarza was arrested March 14 when police found him hiding in a shed near the Seawood Photo Shop at 115 Tunstead Avenue. A window of the shop was smashed, police said.

Fairfax Woman Falls To Death From Coast Cliff

I-J Special Report

FORT BRAGG — A Fairfax woman fell 200 feet to her death from a rugged coastal cliff yesterday after she stepped from the family car on a sightseeing stop during a holiday trip, the Mendocino County sheriff's department said today.

Gloria Ann Hawley, 34, of 61.5 Bolinas Road, plummeted to the beach after slipping off a bluff at 2:08 p.m. yesterday near a rugged stretch of coastline on Route 1 near Warren Creek, 20 miles north of Fort Bragg.

Mrs. Hawley, her 8-year-old daughter, Kimberly Fernandez, and a companion, Valerian Kozloff, all of the Fairfax address, had stopped at the cliff on a sightseeing break during a trip to Seattle, sheriff's deputies reported.

Mrs. Hawley stepped from the car, walked several feet and tumbled over the cliff, according to the sheriff's department. No one saw her fall, deputies said.

The trio had moved to the Fairfax apartment above the Guild House on Bolinas Road last month, deputies said.

Chinese Representative Arrives In Washington

HUANG CHEN
Chinese liaison

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador Huang Chen arrives today with his wife and a 12-man delegation to open the "Liaison Office" of the People's Republic of China in Washington.

Huang, who previously served as Peking's ambassador to France, was scheduled to arrive at National Airport aboard an American Airlines plane from New York.

A 19-year-old girl complained that the eight-car motorcade going to Kennedy Airport in New York yesterday to meet the Chinese diplomat forced her Cadillac off the road, causing minor damage to the vehicle. Miss Leslie Sybrnik, of Lawrence, N.Y., and Carol Luckman, 19, also of Lawrence, who was riding with her, pursued the motorcade to the airport where they lodged complaints with the mission delegation, police and Secret Servicemen.

With the arrival of Huang, the process of re-establishing permanent ties between the United States and China will be completed after two decades of mutual hostility.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce returned from retirement at the request of President Nixon to open the U.S. "Liaison Office" in Peking on May 14.

The liaison offices were created under an accord negotiated by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger earlier this year.

The offices will permit the two countries to maintain regular contacts in each other's capital without the establishment of formal diplomatic relations between Peking and Washington.

Huang, who serves also as a member of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party, will be met by members of the Chinese advance team which arrived earlier this Spring and by Arthur W. Hummell Jr., ranking foreign service officer in the State Department's East Asian Bureau, and Marion H. Smoak, the acting chief of protocol.

Hummell, acting assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs, will be a particularly appropriate greeter. Born of American parents in China, Hummell studied and taught there before he was interned in 1941 by the invading Japanese.

Holiday Use Of BART A Headache

OAKLAND (UPI) — More than 40,000 riders took a holiday excursion on the Bay Area Rapid Transit system yesterday and the railway's officials had to request passengers to curtail their trips.

Huge waiting lines along with several breakdowns gave BART officials headaches all day.

"It wasn't our best day," a BART spokesman said.

Two trains were sent to the yards on the Fremont-Richmond run after their automatic speed control systems broke down, halting service for 40 minutes.

Interruptions of 25 minutes took place on the newly opened Oakland-Concord line after trains picked up erroneous signals that the tracks ahead were occupied. The snafu forced BART operators to switch to manual operations, which meant the trains had to keep the speed under 25 miles per hour.

"We just didn't have any more cars available," said the spokesman of BART's inability to replace the broken down equipment for the trains, which normally speed along at 80 mph.

Order To Delete Race References

CHICHAGO (AP) — The Loyal Order of Moose has voted to end its requirement that members be white.

One delegate said the show-of-hands vote yesterday was overwhelmingly in favor of a proposal to delete references to race from the Moose consitiution and bylaws.

Moose officials would not comment on the vote.

Ash Takes Over One Of Haldeman's Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy L. Ash, President Nixon's management and budget director, has quietly taken over one of the jobs of H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, by providing final staff clearance for top level government jobs, it was learned today.

Ash, controversial former president of Litton Industries, has assumed the additional duties temporarily in his capacity as an assistant to the President. Administration officials said the function was not part of his duties as director of OMB.

As a result of Ash's efforts, Nixon has been able in the past week to announce a flurry of second echelon appointments, although many top jobs remain unfilled.

A backlog of vacancies in executive posts below the Cabinet level had built up because Haldeman, who resigned April 30, was preoccupied with planning his response to suggestions he was linked to the cover-up of the Watergate scandal.

The White House said last week there were 48 vacancies out of 520 positions at the executive levels of the government.

Leave Request Discussion Due

Kentfield School District teacher Anita Fonte is expected to meet in closed session with district trustees tonight over their refusal to grant her a leave for the next school year.

The trustees, at their regular meeting beginning at 8 p.m. in Greenbrae School, also will consider pay request from the Marin County Substitute teachers Association and set a schedule for the board's summer meetings.

Miss Fonte's leave was denied May 14, because it had already granted leaves to two other teachers for the year, and was facing problems of laying off other recently hired teachers when those on leave return. Miss Fonte appealed the ruling and requested the closed session tonight.

School Slots

St. Anselm's Parochial School is accepting a limited number of registrations for first through eighth grades for the year beginning in September. The San Anselmo school is open to students of all faiths, according to Cathie Ostrem, publicity chairman.

ECOLOGY STUDY — Teacher Dan K. Campbell lectures to a spellbound class from Ross School before the children take off on a hike around Phoenix Lake, part of the school's regular curriculum which uses the Earth Workshop on the lake's dam.

OUTDOOR LESSON — Students from Ross School clamber on the banks of Phoenix Lake as ecology teacher Dan K. Campbell listen to a question about the lake he calls "my Walden."

Phoenix Lake Likened To Walden

By PATRICIA PERRY

"As much as Thoreau's Walden Pond was a study of wilderness, Phoenix Lake provides a study of nature's reluctance to bend under man's trespass . . ."

So wrote ecologist Dan K. Campbell, in his "Earth Workshop Guide," a book that resulted from his experience teaching ecology in the Phoenix Lake area to Ross and Kentfield school children for two years.

Campbell, who first saw Marin three years ago, leaves the county this summer to return to Colorado where he'll direct a state wide environmental education program for the University of Colorado.

But Campbell, sho lives in Forest Knolls, intends to return to Marin county next year. He loves Phoenix Lake and, indeed, the entire county, which he calls "an absolute dreamland."

And he will want to see how his Earth Workshop is progressing.

The Earth Workshop is a former pump station on the earth dam of Phoenix Lake. The Marin Municipal Water District has revamped the 70 year old wooden building with plywood panelling and fitted out the inside, transforming it into "an environmental education laboratory" for the Ross and Kentfield school districts.

"The thing I like the best is that when I come up here to work on my own, incredible members of kids are already up here at Phoenix Lake, just to walk, looking at birds and studying nature."

And he says one of the highest experiences of his stay in Marin was meeting two small children from his class trudging through Ross, binoculars around their necks, en route to the Corte Madera marshlands to study birds.

"By the end of that year they'd made a long list of birds they knew . . . this year they're in the seventh grade and I couldn't hope to know as much about birds as they do."

Campbell teaches exactly the same ecology curriculm to Ross and Kentfield sixth graders as he teaches at College of Marin. "You don't get the same attention but they are absorbing an incredible amount."

Although the green-painted Earth Workshop is ideally located in the hillsides above Ross, Campbell guesses students "don't like the earth workshop - they like the field trips."

During this rainy winter the weather didn't keep students hiking the terrain around the lake (Campbell scoffs at Marin's predominantly fair weather hikers, and says they're missing marvelous fungi and lichen with "over 1,500 species of lichens in this county alone" and splendid slugs and snails.)

As taught by Campbell, environmental education is more than nature study. He considers a child must learn that he is an integral part of a system composed of people, culture and the natural environment.

And while the workshop is equipped with microscopes sinks, desks and chairs of the traditional laboratory, the instruction isn't tradition.

"I've got a full skeleton of a deer — sometimes I throw down all the bones on the floor, we can spend hours putting that thing together and by the time they've completed it they know more about anatomy and bones and evolution than you can shake a stick at," said Campbell.

After his year in Colorado — where he'll also work as a consultant to the Outward Bound School — Campbell hopes to return to the Earth Workshop and also teach at Indian Valley Colleges. He envisages a new environmental education program with much more strenuous field trips involving mountain climbing, backpacking and survival techniques. "The trip as totality of the course," he describes his theory.

His place at the Ross Earth Workshop will be taken by Sally Stapp of San Rafael, who will teach sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and Ben Benjamin who will teach kindergarten through fifth grades. Virginia Habel will coordinate a docent course teaching parents and teachers who will work in the program.

They will use as a text Campbell's Earth Workshop Guide, an extensive and highly readable exposition on his teaching methods, the ecology, history and future of Marin county.

He explains that the Phoenix Lake area can serve as a case-study of man's impact on natural systems. Close at hand are examples of smog, forest fire, erosion, water pollution, noise pollution, litter and over-population of deer.

But privately, Campbell admits he loves Phoenix Lake — "my Walden."

Describing the blue heron that fly down from Alpine Lake, the swallows that smother the old spillway, the crawfish and salamander, the wild flowers and fantastic fungi, he adds:

"Phoenix Lake demonstrates to me how incredibly able nature is to bound back after being abused."

County Audit Shows System To Be 'Healthy'

"It's pretty healthy," County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said, adding that interest for the year was also at an all-time high at $1 million.

The total assets are $19,988,000, up from $16,834,000 in 1971, he said. The increase was from a $1.5 million county contribution and a $1.6 million employee contribution.

The retirement system has 1,514 active members, 191 retired members, 43 deferred members and six survivors of deceased members.

During 1972, Mitchell said, $651 in benefits were paid out. His report concluded that "from a fiscal standpoint the retirement system is administered very well and is in an excellent fiscal status."

Astronomer Sets Lecture In Tiburon

Greg Semrau, an amateur astronomer from Tiburon, will lecture on popular astronomy at Del Mar School in Tiburon tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Telescopes will be available for audience viewing, he said.

Trumpet Stolen

Edwin Bert Duckett of 4505 Ranch Road, Tiburon, told Larkspur police his $300 trumpet was stolen from the music room at Redwood High School between 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday morning.

College Of Marin Poll Shows Students Favor Impeachment

With 6.4 per cent voter turnout, students at the College of Marin have voted to support impeachment of President Nixon.

Students voted all last week for student government representatives, and on two referendums — one on impeachment, the other on the advisability of continuing development of Indian Valley Colleges.

Paul Delucia, a member of the board of directors of Associated Students, said 319 students cast ballots, out of 5,000 students eligible.

Delucia said the board of directors will send the results of the impeachment election to representatives, senators, and California legislators. Reports of the referendum also will be mailed to other California junior colleges, said Delucia.

In its campaign support of impeachment, the Associated Students board stated: "Mr. Nixon's policies have destroyed many Americans' ability to have confidence in the integrity of their government."

Students voted overwhelmingly for continued development of Indian Valley Colleges, reported Delucia. The referendum: "Should the Marin Community College District proceed with construction and development of Indian Valley Colleges. . . ?" got 227 yes votes, 60 no votes and 32 undecided.

Delucia said the results of this referendum will be sent to the college district board.

$1,100 Is Pay Of Supervisors

The county grand jury has recommended the salaries be increased to $1,400 per month if administrative aides are not hired and $1,155 if they are.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Michael Wornum have said they favor hiring administrative aides.

School District's Yard Is Burglarized

Burglars broke into the Tamalpais High School District's corporation yard on Doherty Drive between Thursday and Friday, reported Larkspur police.

Toolboxes and lockers were rifled but the district hasn't tabulated the loss yet.

Joint Session Slated On Bonds

The Novato City Council and the North Marin County Water District board will have a joint meeting at 8 p.m. today to discuss the district's upcoming $4.1 million bond election.

The council also will review the city's proposed capital improvements budget for 1973-74.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Look Who's Talking! It's as easy as A, B, C to credit the right birthday celebrity for what he said. Guess who?

1. BOB HOPE is happiest in a crowd. Birthday fun for this comedian would be counting numbers in the audience, not his age today, which is 70. Born near London, this youngster moved to Cleveland at age four. Later he would star in the Ziegfeld Follies, then rise to stardom in radio, film, and TV. Did he once say, (A) "People generally quarrel because they cannot argue."

2. PATRICK HENRY, American patriot, stirred the Virginia legislature with his oratory more than 200 years ago. He favored a war of independence but opposed the Continental Convention of 1787. Did he once say, (B) "There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us."?

3. JOHN F. KENNEDY, 35th U.S. President. After serving as a naval officer in World War II, he entered politics, winning election to Congress, then the Senate, finally the White House. Did he once say, (C) "I have it on good authority that Senator Joe McCarthy is going to disclose the names of 2-million communists. He just got his hands on a Moscow telephone book."?

4. G. K. CHESTERTON (1874-1936) was a distinguished English author, poet, and critic. He became a regular contributor to English and American magazines. Did he once say, (D) "If the time ever should come. . .when my office would require me to either violate my conscience or violate the national interest, then I would resign from office."?

ANSWERS: 1 - No (See C); 2 - Yes; 3 - No (See D); 4 - No (See A).

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

Only one-third of Canada's total area has been brought under development to date.

Keeping A Sure Loser Has Some Value At End Of Game

What is the use of keeping a sure loser? Strangely enough, there is one. The sure loser enables you to saddle the proper opponent with the lead at a time when he cannot make a safe exit.

OPENING LEAD

West opened the king of diamonds and then switched to the queen of clubs. Declarer won the second trick with dummy's king of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and jack and then led the jack of diamonds.

West took the ace of diamonds and led a third diamond to dummy's queen. This gave South the problem of discarding on the queen of diamonds.

South naturally thought first of discarding the queen of hearts. West surely had the king of hearts, so the queen was a sure loser.

SECOND THOUGHT

A second thought then came to South's rescue, and he discarded a small club. His next step was to cash dummy's ace of clubs.

If both opponents followed, South would give up a club and reach dummy with a trump in order to discard the queen of hearts on dummy's last club.

BAD CLUB BREAK

As it happened, however, the clubs broke badly. South thereupon abandoned the clubs, leading the ace of hearts and then the queen of hearts from his hand.

West had to win with the king of hearts. What could West do then, poor thing? Whether West returned a heart or a diamond, dummy would ruff while South discarded his last club. Either way the contract was safe.

There would be a different story to tell if South discarded the queen of hearts on the queen of diamonds. He would have no way of sticking West with the lead, and South would lose two clubs as well as two diamonds.

Buying Your New Car In Marin COSTS YOU LESS

Here's Why

1. You KNOW your local dealer. He's been in business in Marin for a long time - and will continue to be.
2. Cost of doing business is lower in Marin than in San Francisco.
3. Sales tax is less in Marin than "ACROSS THE BRIDGE."
4. Service is local - from the dealer you KNOW

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

City of Larkspur, State of California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Larkspur will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Larkspur, California, on or before 2:00 P.M. on the 4th day June, 1973, for the furnishing of all labor, materials and services required for the following designated project:

1973 STREET RESURFACING—PROJECT "A"

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of City Clerk, where they may be examined, and copies thereof be obtained upon deposit of $10.00 per set, which deposit shall be refunded upon return of such copies in good condition, on or before thirty (30) days after opening of bids. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the City Engineer, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is set forth in Exhibit A attached hereto and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provisions, be recognized.

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS TAMALPAIS VALLEY COMMUNITY SERVICES DISTRICT SEWER LINE REPAIR AND SLOPE STABILIZATION BARONE LANE SEWER EXTENSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Tamalpais Community Services District of Marin County California, will receive up to but not later than 7:30 p.m. on the 12th day of June, 1973, sealed bids on a lump sum basis for the award of a contract for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and all the other services required to construct, install and place broken sewer line, concrete encasement, rubble rock revetment, and slope reconstruction as required by and in accordance with the plan entitled "Underpinning and Protective Encasement of Sewer Line, Lots 28 and 29, Tamalpais Woods, Tamalpais Valley, California" dated May 20, 1973 and prepared by the District Engineer, Job 73-24, and on file in the office of the Secretary of the District.

A bid bond will not be required for this project. Within fifteen (15) days after written notice that the contract has been awarded, the successful bidder shall execute a contract with the District and shall furnish a labor and material bond in a sum equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the amount of said bid; said bond shall comply with all the provisions of Chapter 3 comprising Sections 4200 - 4208 inclusive of the Government Code of the State of California except that the amount is 100% as stipulated rather than the 50% provided by statute.

Notice is hereby given that on January 9, 1973, the Community Services Board adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which the public work herein provided is to be done, for each craft or type of workmen required to execute the contract, a copy of which wage scale is attached hereto and incorporated herein and made a part of the specifications for said work.

The Board reserves the privilege of rejecting any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

Unless otherwise required by law, no bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days (30) after the date set for the opening thereof.

No. 860 May 29, 1973

Contract No. 587

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, June 12, 1973 at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 2700 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances and service connections. The work to be done lies in San Pedro Road and adjacent streets and rights-of-way in the City of San Rafael and in the county areas of Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Pipe Relocation at San Pedro Road, Phase II" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

NORMA L. SMITH
Secretary

Brant Leads Knicks To Twin Bill Split

VACAVILLE — Pitcher Kevin Brant went the distance in the second game Sunday and drove in three runs with three hits to lead the C.L. Moore Knickerbockers of Novato to a 5-3 victory and a doubleheader split with the Vacaville Merchants.

Vacaville won the opener, 11-10. The Knicks are now 1-2 in the semi-pro Sacramento Rural League and will play a home-opening doubleheader next Sunday at noon at Novato High School against defending champion Lodi.

Argentina To Resume Cuban Ties

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's new civilian government resumed diplomatic relations yesterday with Cuba and said it would shortly establish relations with both North Korea and East Germany.

The decisions were among the first taken by President Hector J. Campora, who assumed office Friday as the first civilian president in seven years.

The move to renew ties with the Communist government of Cuba came after a meeting between Campora and visiting President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba. It makes Argentina the fourth Latin American country to recognize Premier Fidel Castro's government.

Campora also met an envoy from the North Korean government before announcing that measures to recognize that country are underway. Foreign Minister Juan Carlos Puig met East German Chancellor Gerhard Wis before releasing a statement that said the two countries would complete negotiations on establishing formal ties as soon as possible.

Cuba and Chile are the only Latin American countries that now recognize North Korea.

Mrs. Juan D. Peron, whose exiled husband was overthrown as Argentine president 17 years ago, recently visited North Korea as an official guest. Peron picked Campora personally as his candidate in the March elections that carried him to power and gave Peronists authority for the first time since Peron's ouster.

Acting on what he called Campora's orders, Puig said yesterday that Peron will shortly receive an Argentine passport.

Peron has been using a Paraguayan passport since taking refuge in Paraguay in 1955. The military government of President Alejandro Lanusse offered Peron an Argentine passport last November, but Peron rejected it.

Peron has lived in Spain during most of his 17 years in exile, but next month he is expected to return to Argentina to take up residence again and guide, as Campora pledged, the country's policies.

In another move, the Campora government announced yesterday it is reducing the price of beef. The ceiling price for one pound of beef was set at about 23 cents on the wholesale market. The ceiling last week was a record 33 cents.

Two Officers Killed In Crash

WINCHESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Two off-duty policemen who had marched in a Memorial Day parade were killed later yesterday in a traffic accident. A third patrolman in the same car survived the crash but was hospitalized with injuries.

The officers killed were Frederick J. Marasca, 24, and Andrew J. Saraco, 25. The third officer, Williamm Gannon, 27, was in serious condition in Winchester Hospital.

Authorities said the car the three men were in swerved off a city street and struck a tree.

Congress Preparing New Farm Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in memory, Congress is preparing to act on a new farm program the average man can understand.

It would work this way:

—The Agriculture Department would announce, for each of the five years beginning in 1974, a target price for major crops including feed grains, wheat and cotton.

—After harvest, the department would compare the target with the actual open-market price in the first five months of the marketing season.

—If the market was at or above the target, the government would pay farmers nothing. But if the market fell short of the target, the government would make up the difference with payments to all farmers who had complied with any federal planting controls announced for the season.

Without accepting the specific price targets set in a version of the bill approved recently by the Senate Agriculture Committee, President Nixon has told congressional leaders he's willing to use the Senate plan as the basic framework for negotiating new legislation.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and other administration farm experts contend the target prices set in the Senate bill are too high and should be reduced.

Congressional farm sources said the administration, which has at least temporarily shelved its own plan to phase out income-supplement crop subsidies, probably would put up only a token fight on most portions of the farm bill in the Senate, and would concentrate on seeking modification of the bill's price provisions in the House.

The Senate measure would set 1974 target prices for wheat at $2.28 a bushel, corn at $1.53 a bushel and cotton at 43 cents a pound. In future years, the targets would be tied to an index of farm costs. A Senate Agriculture Committee report pointed out that if inflation continues at a 3.5 per cent a year rate, the corn target could reach $1.73 by 1978.

Administration experts contend that if market prices come down from current high levels, costs under the Senate plan could begin at about $3.5 billion a year in 1974 and rise to about $7 billion annually by 1978.

But Senate Agriculture Committee chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and other backers of the plan argue that if the secretary is right about future increased demand the program costs could be well below the $2.5 billion expected this year.

"If market prices rise above the target, the cost to the government will be nothing. If prices fall below the target ... the consumer will reap the advantage and (farmers) will have been protected from the price effects of excess production. Unlike the current program, there will be no payments if the market price equals or exceeds the target," Talmadge said.

The Senate bill would retain the current system of crop support loans at relatively low levels as a companion to the standby direct payment program. It would also retain the present "set aside" acreage control program under which farmers can be required, if they want to be eligible for crop loans and potential targetprice payments, to idle a portion of their cropland if this is necessary to avoid surpluses.

The measure also would retain the present $55,000 per crop ceiling on direct payment to producers of feed grains, wheat and cotton and would open a potential new loophole in the limitation. The bill provides authority for a system under which part of the payment to each class of producers could be classed as compensation for "resource adjustment" and not counted against the limitation. However, strong efforts to lower the ceiling to at least $20,000 were expected in both the Senate and House.

The 51-page omnibus Senate bill, in addition to the new target price program for major crops, also includes a long list of other provisions including extension of the Food Stamp program for needy Americans and the Food for Peace program covering overseas food aid.

Wreath Is Laid By Schlesinger

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Defense Secretary-designate James M. Schlesinger yesterday laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns in a heavy rain and said the nation must not scorn patriotic sentiment or dedication to ideals.

Schlesinger, acting for President Nixon, lauded returned U.S. prisoners of war and "past generations of servicemen." Then he said:

"As long as this great nation survives, this willingness to sacrifice, this dedication to ideals, this upholding of patriotic sentiment must not be scorned, but rather must be honored. And I believe it will be honored."

Pakistani Plane Crash Kills None

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A Pakistan International Airways (PIA) plane on a domestic flight crashed yesterday night at Lyallpur airport, 89 miles southwest of Lahore, the government news agency said today.

It said the aircraft, a Fokker Friendship, was destroyed but that all of the 40 passengers and six crew members on board escaped serious injury.

Three or four passengers, it said, sustained minor injuries.

Court Says Broadcasters Have Right To Refuse Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 today that broadcasters are not required by either federal law or the Constitution's guarantee of free speech to accept paid advertising on such public issues as war or politics.

The Court reversed a decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals here in a test case brought by the Democratic National Committee and an antiwar group called Business Executives' Move for Vietnam Peace (BEM).

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in the majority opinion that giving everyone access to broadcast advertising time might lead to monopolization of the airwaves by those best able to afford it, and inject more government control over broadcast media.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented from the opinion, rejecting the appeals court ruling which directed the Federal Communications Commission to set up "regulatory guidelines" on how to deal with advertisements on matters subject to varying public opinion.

The Supreme Court, while the case was before it, had frozen the right of broadcasters to continue the traditional practice of not accepting such advertising. And in today's opinion, Burger suggested the FCC, Congress or the broadcasters might work out some limited form of advertising access.

Other actions:

—In another broadcasting case, the court refused to examine the denial of a license renewal of a Media, Pa., radio station with which fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire is associated.

—The justices agreed to examine Virginia's "insulting words" statute, under which three men won a damage judgment against their union because it referred to them as "scabs" in a union publication.

—The court agreed to decide whether the government must prove, to justify a warrantless search, that the person giving permission for it has the authority to do so.

Telescopes Readied For Skylab Sun Study

HOUSTON (UPI) — The three men of Skylab began their fifth and potentially most productive day in space today by preparing a $50 million set of telescopes for man's most extensive study of the sun.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were all business after being awakened by a call from earth at 7 a.m. EDT as their orbital home swept over Australia.

After breakfast, the pilots turned to the business of the day —the start of their first full day of scientific research. Kerwin's job was to check out the solar telescopes while Conrad and Weitz worked on earth resources sensors.

"We're pretty well on our time line (timetable) and we're listening to some country music," reported Conrad.

Skylab is humming like an earth-bound laboratory and the astronauts have already run into some of the problems that face earthlings —the need for routine housekeeping.

"It looks like one of these days we're going to have to halt a couple of hours and 'GI' (clean up) the place if we're going to keep it clean," Conrad told mission control.

Conrad held a private radio talk with Christopher C. Kraft, director of the Johnson Space Center: flight director Neil Hutchinson and astronaut chief Donald Slayton and NASA said it planned to summarize the conversation later today. Before the flight, NASA said such talks would be conducted only in cases of "extreme operational emergency" but Conrad said when he requested the talk Monday night, "it's no emergency or anything like that."

Today's schedule was the first devoted primarily to scientific research since the pilots left Cape Kennedy Friday to salvage the nation's first space station, and with the hopes of staying up a record 28 days. They completed turning on all the systems in the eight-room assembly last night.

Research continued even while the pilots slept. Kerwin wore a special skull cap with sensors that measured his brain activity and eye movement to tell scientists how well he was sleeping.

Scientists believe sleep is affected by weightlessness and previous crews have not slept as soundly in space as they do on Earth. This could be a problem on long missions, according to Dr. James Frost of the Baylor College of Medicine, because a man is not as alert when he hasn't had enough sleep.

105-Day Isolation Ends In Space Program Test

DAVIS (UPI) — The first of six young students isolated for 105 days in two small rooms in an experiment to help predict how astronauts will perform on space stations was released today and immediately underwent psychiatric examinations.

Ricardo Giron, 20, a University of California at Davis student, walked from his 11-foot by 17-foot room at the UCD Bioastronautics Laboratory, looked at a crowd of newsmen nervously and said:

"I don't know what to say. So many people."

He then was examined by Dr. Don Rockwell, assistant professor of psychiatry and codirector of the project, supported by a National Aeronautics and Space Administration contract.

The other five men were released at half-hour intervals. Three other student volunteers were involved, but served as a control group and did not undergo the "social isolation."

In addition to helping predict astronaut performances, the experiment was designed to help explain the time lag disruption felt by jet travelers, Rockwell said.

The six men were divided into two groups. All had electrodes taped to their chests so their electrocardiograms could be measured. Rectal tubes measured and transmitted body temperatures automatically.

A final report on the project was expected to take at least a year to compile, but preliminary results of the experiment showed all six men were "totally bored."

"The whole thing is a drag for them," said Rockwell. "some of them aren't even terribly enthusiastic about getting out. It just seems like a lot of trouble to contemplate reentering the mean old world."

Kentfield Resident Is Found Dead

The man, Roger A. Graham of 312 Palm Avenue, was said by his wife, Joyce, to have been despondent recently, according to the Marin County coroner's office. He worked as an estimator for a hardware firm in San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Medical School Draws Family

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Three members of the Arthur Guyton family are graduates of the Harvard Medical School and two are enrolled.

The graduates are the father, 1943: sons David, 1969: and Robert, 1971. Son John will graduate next month and son Steve in 1975. One sister, Cathy, has been accepted to the school.

The father is head of the department of physiology and biophysics at the University of Mississippi.

Accident Victim Is Off Critical List

Mindy K. Klein, 21, of 30 Corte Sereno, Greenbrae, injured in an accident Saturday night, was removed today from the critical list, but reported still in serious condition at Marin General Hospital.

She was struck by a car on the Tiburon Boulevard overpass of Highway 101, California Highway Patrol reported.

Newspaper Is Hit By Bombing

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI) — An explosion demolished the editorial offices of the Wilmington Journal, a black-oriented weekly newspaper, last night and sent debris sailing into nearby homes and vehicles.

No injuries were reported although two people were in their apartments at the rear of the two-story frame building at the time.

Local, state and federal officials called to the scene said the explosion originated at the center of the building. The front end of the structure, the portion containing the paper's offices, was blown out while the back remained standing.

Nixon Asks Hard Talks In Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon urged today a start of serious negotiations — either direct or indirect — between the Arab states and Israel to find a just and lasting peace in the Middle East.

The American ambassador to the United Nations, John A. Scali, told reporters after a half-hour meeting with Nixon that the United States continues to insist that the November, 1967 Security Council resolution at the end of the six-day June war should provide the "basis for a settlement."

Scali met with Nixon in advance of the opening of U.N. Security Council debate on the Arab-Israeli impasse. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Nixon's national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, sat in on the meeting.

The President also met with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, after the first foreign policy discussion with advisers.

The second meeting was called for review of a wide range of matters, from the outlook for getting the Vietnam cease-fire to work to Nixon's meeting later this week with French President Georges Pompidou.

Kissinger returned last week from Paris talks on the cease-fire and the State Department's expert on the issue, William Sullivan, was just back from Saigon and discussions with the South Vietnamese on results of Kissinger's meetings with the North Vietnamese.

LBJ's Birthday Made A Holiday

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature yesterday designated Aug. 27 — the birthday of Lyndon B. Johnson — as a state holiday. But it wasn't easy.

The creation of another state holiday meant state employees had another day off. This, legislators figured, would cost the state too much money so an existing holiday had to be deleted.

The first choice was June 3, the birthday of Confederate President Jefferson Davis. But the Daughters of the Confederacy objected strenuously, so a compromise was reached that combined the birthdays of Davis and Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee into one holiday, called "Confederate Heroes Day," to be celebrated June 3.

The state senate, however, objected to this plan because it felt it did not give Lee the recognition he deserved. The final bill, agreed to yesterday the final day of the Texas Legislature's current session—made "Confederate Heroes Day" fall on Jan. 19, Lee's birthday.

Condition Improves

Sandra A. Wheeler, 17, of Sacramento, who was injured in an accident last Tuesday at Highways 37 and 121 in Sonoma County, has been removed from the critical list and was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital by hospital spokesmen.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Tuesday, May 29, the 149th day of 1973 with 216 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

John F. Kennedy, 35th president of the United States, was born May 29, 1917.

On this day in history:

In 1453, Constantinople now Istanbul, capital of the Byzantine Empire, was captured by the Turks. Some historians say it marked the end of the Middle Ages.

In 1790, Rhode Island became the last of the 13 original states to ratify the American Constitution.

In 1953, Sir Edmund Hillary of New Zealand became the first person to reach the top of Mount Everest.

In 1972, President Nixon and Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev ended their Moscow summit meeting with a joint declaration of peaceful coexistence.

A thought for the day: In his 1961 inaugural address, President John Kennedy said: "Let the word go forth from this time and place that the torch has passed to a new generation of Americans."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Teen Thinks Something Wrong After Trying To Get Pregnant

Worried writes: "Please help me. I'm 15 years old and, strange as it may seem, I wish I were pregnant. My steady and I have been trying since last June and every month my period is right on schedule. We know all about the 28-day cycle and the right times. I'm not a stupid kid and my boyfriend who is 19 has a good job. But I'm worried that something is wrong with me, although I have no other problems."

Dear Worried: Don't press your luck and be thankful you have not become pregnant. Don't put the cart before the horse — get married first. There is always a possibility that your very nice boyfriend will head for the hills when greeted with the news that his silly 15-year-old girl is pregnant. No doubt he is satisfied with life as it is. After all, he is getting what he wants without the extra responsibility and cost.

INFERTILITY PROBLEMS are the same in the unmarried person as in the married. Physicians usually tell a husband and wife to wait one year before undergoing the tests to determine whether conception is possible. And we usually start with the husband, because the semen test is the easiest of all. In three or four couples out of 10, the husband is wholly or partially responsible. Does he produce sperm and, if so, are they healthy, active, and in sufficient numbers? I wonder how Worried's boyfriend will react to her suggestion that he see a physician for this test.

The pelvic examination of the women includes a careful search for evidence of infection, growths, malformations of the uterus, and other conditions.

MORE COMPLICATED tests answer questions such as: Are the sperm cells going where they should and are they surviving? Do the ovaries release a matured egg? Do these eggs have a clear passageway to descend and meet the ascending sperm?

Many 15-year-olds get pregnant — a calamity because so few are married. Abortion is the alternative. In some segments of our society, early pregnancy is welcome and often encouraged because it means additional relief money. Some of these girls do very well financially, especially when they have two or three children by age 20.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

SITTING TOO LONG

B. K. D. writes: Whenever I go on a trip, my lower legs swell. Is there anything I can take to prevent this problem?

REPLY

Yes. Rise from the seat of the car, plane, bus, or train every half hour and stretch the legs or walk about. Swelling comes from sitting too long in one position, especially when there is pressure on the back of the legs.

CLUSTER OF WARTS

D. K. writes: For three years I've been treated for masaic warts. Are these clusters curable?

REPLY

Yes. If the diagnosis is correct, the entire wart can be removed. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on warts.

EVERYONE DOES

F. L. writes: Do all women get hardening of the arteries after the change of life?

REPLY

We all do if we live long enough.

Planners Will Consider Permit

The Petaluma Planning Commission will consider an environmental impact questionnaire and use permit application for the proposed San Antonio Continuation High School at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the city hall.

The school is proposed for Vallejo Street on the west side of the National Guard armory.

Also on the agenda are tentative maps for four subdivisions, Cambridge Square No. 3, Sunnyhills, Dickson Hill and Sun Terrace.

70 Riders Take Part In Bike Hike

About 70 bicycle riders turned out for Sunday's Bike Hike for the Retarded" in Novato and Ross Valley, according to Peggy Stanley, spokesman for Marin Aid To Retarded Children.

The organization had hoped that its effort would attract up to 2,000 participants and raise more than $10,000. But competition from Memorial Day weekend trips and events, and a series of recent similar hikes for other charities, resulted in the benefit for mentally retarded youngsters getting pledges for only $2,000, Mrs. Stanley reported.

Roadwork To Alter Auto Flow

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced today by the State Division of Highways.

Sections of the freeway involved are:

1. North and southbound lanes at the Richardson Bay Bridge will be closed intermittently from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. to install joint buffers at the end of the bridge.

2. In the vicinity of the Petaluma Creek Bridge, repair and rehabilitation of the roadbed will be undertaken on the bridge's northbound lanes, the highway passing under the bridge and the Route 116 interchange from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. One lane at a time will be closed, leaving the other open at all times to through traffic.

Man Killed By Burglar Of Home

ORINDA (UPI) — David F. Siewet, 58, was killed and his wife, Mary, 51, was wounded late Sunday when they were shot by a burglar they confronted in the driveway of their home.

The Contra Costa County sheriff's office said the couple found a car in their driveway when they returned home. As they approached the house, a man came out, firing at them.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, June 12, 1973, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 1400 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances and service connections. The work to be done lies in Miller Avenue and adjacent streets and rights-of-way in the City of Mill Valley in Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Pipe Relocation at Miller Avenue" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specification will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

Rain Again Delays Indy 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — For the second time in as many days, rain aborted the start of the 500 mile auto race today.

A field of 32 cars ran the parade lap after a delay of more than an hour due to a wet spot on the south straightaway, but before the pace lap was completed and the race actually started, the drivers were red flagged to a stop.

A light sprinkle of rain on the two north turns forced the halt, and one car, driven by John Martin, pulled into the pits during the pace lap.

The million dollar race was stopped Monday when a 10-car crash at the foot of the homestretch on the first lap sent driver Salt Walther to the hospital, seriously injured.

Walther's car was out of today's race, but Martin had a second chance to go since the race was halted. His car also was involved in the Monday crash, and every other car involved raced the pace lap today.

It was cloudy although the sun had peaked out at times before the start was attempted.

With the field ready to attempt a second start rain began to fall again.

Eight of the injured spectators were sent to downtown Methodist Hospital for treatment including Sue Rankin, 15, of Wingate, Ind., who was in serious condition with multiple burns. Two others, Diana Dasey, 14, also of Wingate, and David Keller, 38, of Perrysville, Ind., had "definite eye burns which might be visually serious," physicians said.

The crash occurred near the foot of the homestretch—about 300 yards past the starting line—seconds after the starting flag was waved Monday, causing the race to be stopped virtually before it began.

The drivers already had gunned their engines up to 130 miles per hour when the crash occurred, and several of the drivers were critical of the start.

Walther suffered multiple burns, a fractured left wrist and a possible back injury.

"I'll be back, dad!" From the intensive care unit in Methodist Hospital here, 25-year-old Walt Walther, still listed in "serious" condition as a result of burns and injuries suffered in Monday's 10-car crackup, made that promise Tuesday to his father, George Walther, Jr.

Four separate showers finally washed out the race, the last coming after the pileup. The earlier postponments delayed the start 4 hours 4 minutes.

DAVID (SALT) WALTHER
In Indy accident

The cars of all the favorites escaped damage since they had reached the turn before the collission occurred. Thus pole winner Johnny Rutherford, Al and Bobby Unser, Gary Bettenhausen, Mario Andretti, Gordon Johncock, Swede Savage and last year's winner, Mark Donohue, were rated the most likely contenders for victory and a possible speed record today.

Qustionable starters were the cars of Lee Kunzman, John Martin and David Hobbs, but it was believed Mike Mosley, Wally Dallenbach, Mike Hiss, Dick Simon, Jim McElreath and Jerry Grant would be ready. Their cars also were involved in the accident.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler, who said the usual flying start would be used, said cars would move up to fill any gaps in the lineup of 11 rows of three cars each.

"I don't know what triggered the accident," Fengler said.

"We had a good start. I'll have to see the film to find out what happened."

But Fengler's opinion was contradicted by several drivers. "It was the most ragged start I've seen here," Simon said. "Cars were straggered all over. It was closed up tremendously. People were everywhere."

"I saw five cars abreast at one time," Martin said. "It might have been a lot of guys were a little overanxious after waiting to start. There's no reason to roll over the guy in front of you. All should be prepared for it. Next year if I'm not on the pole, I'm going to start in back."

"It was a strange start," Kunzman said. "Everybody was spread out all over. Some were too wide, some too low. Some weren't accelerating. Others were accelerating to beat hell."

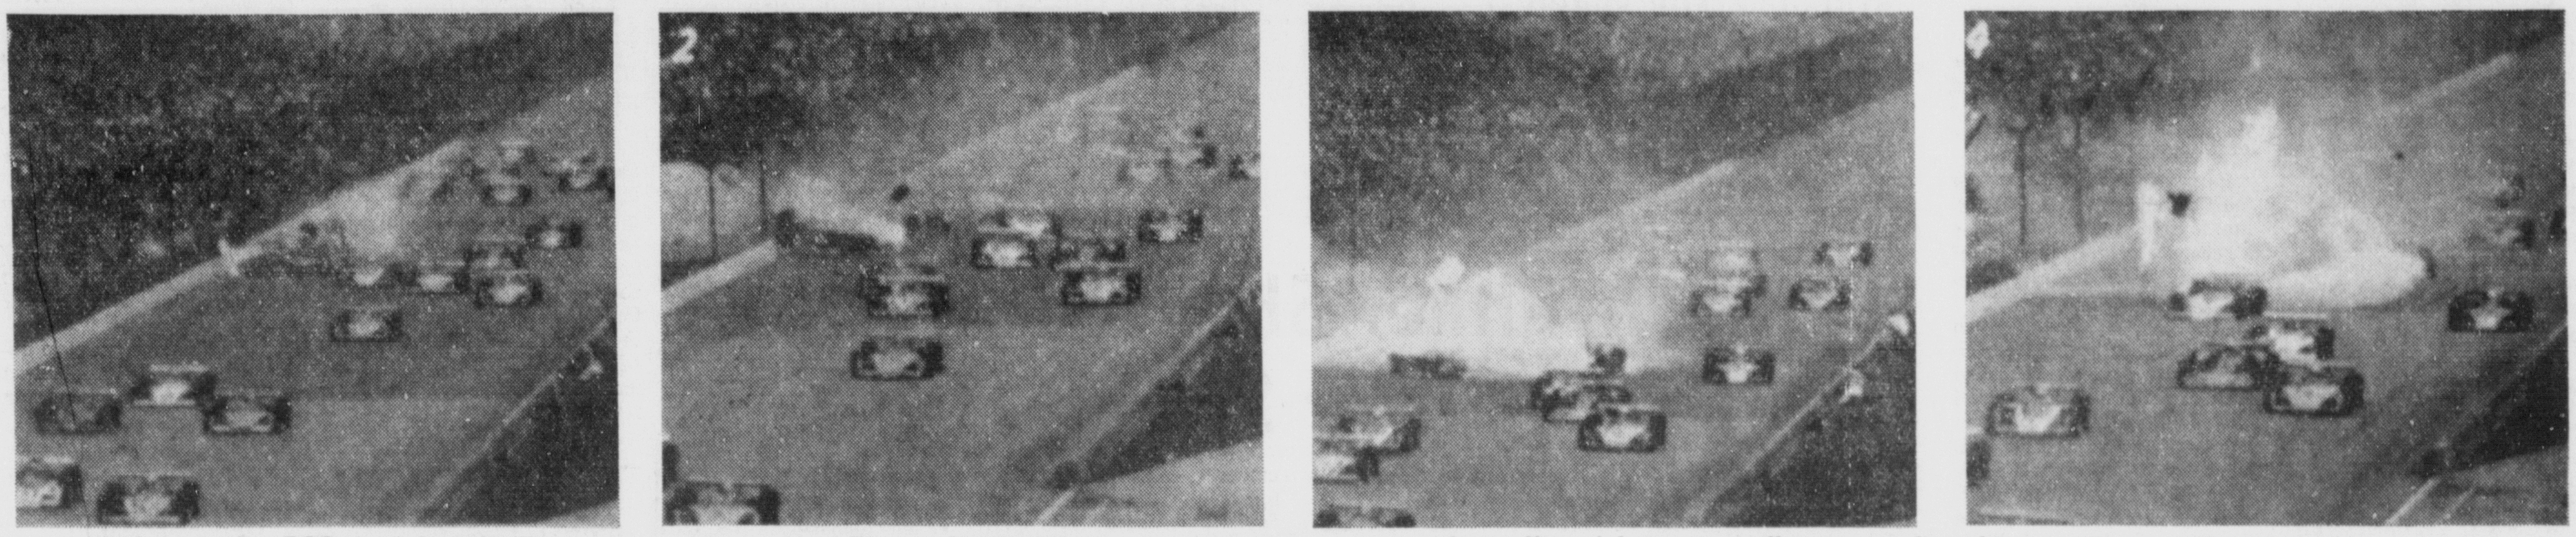
Starter Pat Vidan backed up Fengler with the comment, "It looked all right to me. It could very well have been a mechanical failure."

It happened that Walther's car, in the middle of the sixth row, veered to the right, struck the wall in a burst of flame, bounced back onto the track and was struck by at least one other car, creating bedlam.

Hiss was treated for a minor leg burn and Martin for a dislocated thumb and released while Walther suffered burns, a fractured left wrist and a possible back injury.

Periodic rain chased the more than 300,000 spectators to cover and soaked the track three times, forcing all-out efforts to dry the racing surface to permit the start. Each time the sun appeared briefly to help the effort and after allowing each car a 10- minute warmup, the race got under way.

But only 32 cars took the green flag as Bob Harkey's machine failed to start and was pushed into the pits. Today he'll start again from the back row.



Indianapolis 500 had barely begun yesterday when David (Salt) Walther's racer hit the outside wall and burst into flames on first lap to trigger 10-car crash. (UPI Telephotos)

No Discrimination In Barry's Camp

Max Shapiro, the man who runs the Rick Barry California Basketball Camp out of his San Rafael office, does not believe in discrimination because of sex. And because of that, there will be a Walnut Creek girl mixed in with the 270 boys at the Barry camp in San Jose this summer.

The girl, Mary Whatford, a 17-year-old junior at Carondelet High School in Concord, wrote a letter to Barry and Shapiro last month and inquired about the camp. She became interested after reading one of the camp brochures sent for by one of her younger brothers.

In the letter Mary explained that she is the only girl in a family of eight children and therefore has been playing sports since she was big enough to walk and "I can play as well as any boy my age."

I like the last paragraph of her letter — "Please let me hear from you as soon as possible so I can return my application in time or if I'm turned down because of sexual discrimination, I would feel this would violate the Equal Rights Amendment and would have to follow up this letter with a visit to our family lawyer . . . I would also contact my Assemblyman and Congressman to assure a change in the future for girls who are seriously interested in participating in all sports."

With those words, I would say that Mary Whatford was giving Shapiro some whatfor. But Max wrote back to Mary and told her that two years ago in San Diego the California Basketball Camp enrolled a female and things worked out quite well. Therefore, said he, the Barry Camp would be glad to have her.

So Mary will be attending the basketball camp, along with two of her seven brothers, and women's lib takes another big step forward.

WHAT'S THAT CHILDREN'S game, "Mother, May I?" I-J sports writer Lew Coddington, poring through the box scores on a typical day of major league baseball, came up with his own version of the "May I" game and tried to jot down a team of Mays.

The outfield was easy enough, with Carlos May of Chicago White Sox in left, Willie Mays of the Mets in center and Dave May of Milwaukee in right. He put Houston's Lee May on third, California's Rudy May on the pitcher's mound and Pittsburgh's Milt May behind the plate. He even had a designated hitter in Jerry May of Pittsburgh and a coach in former player Lee Maye, but is now combing the bushes for enough Mays to fill the infield.

THE RAIDERS GET A PLUS and the 49ers a minus because of the television type advertising in the highlight films of each team. True, the Raiders have a Hamm's Beer commercial in the film, the same as the 49ers, since the Hamm's people are paying most of the film expense. But the Raiders' commercial is at the front, before the action, while the 49er film has two, one at the beginning and another right in the middle. And also, there are two versions of the Raider film — one with beer commercials for adults and one without for youth groups. There is only one version of the 49er film, beer and all.

Once you get by the foam, the action in both films is superb.

McCovey's Glove As Useful As His Bat

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Willie McCovey became the San Francisco Giants' hitless wonder Monday.

"I kept Big Mac very busy down at first base," said a grateful Juan Marichal, winning pitcher in the Giants' 6-5 victory over the New York Mets.

McCovey, one of baseball's most feared hitters, was the only Giant starter without a hit in the game. But the first baseman speared four sharply hit drives and turned them into outs to help Marichal record his 26th career victory over the Mets.

"Some days you have good games at bat, some days you have good games in the field," said McCovey with a shrug. "I've never had so many hard balls hit my way. But they've got a lot of left-handed pull hitters, and Juan was making them hit the ball on the ground."

"I know a lot of people talk about my hitting but I take as much pride in my fielding," McCovey said.

"He was just great," said a grateful Marichal. "To me, he is the best first baseman in baseball."

"No one could have asked for a better performance," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "If he doesn't make those plays in the first and seventh, maybe we don't win."

McCovey attributed his fine play in the field to the fact he had a couple of days off recently.

"No question, I felt real loose," he said. "A rest like that can make a big difference sometimes."

McCovey stopped a smash by Wayne Garrett to end the Mets' seventh inning, leaving Duffy Dyer on second base, and relievers Sam McDowell and Elias Sosa finished the game for the Giants.

The Mets loaded the bases with none out in the eighth, and Manager Yogi Berra said later, "One hit and we would have been in business."

Gorman Wins In French Tennis

PARIS (UPI) — America's unseeded Tom Gorman became the first man to reach the last eight in the men's singles of the $150,000 French Open Tennis Championships today with a 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 win over Czech Milan Holecek.

Chris Evert, seeded second in the women's singles, swept safely through to the quarterfinals with a 6-2, 6-3 victory against another Czech, Renata Tomanova.

Miss Evert, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., America's last hope in the women's singles, will meet seventh seed Helga Masthoff of West Germany for a place in the semifinals.

Mrs. Masthoff defeated Pat Pretorius of South Africa 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Gorman of Seattle, Wash., had little trouble with Holecek, the man who put out Australian John Newcombe in the opening round. It was the best performance by Gorman in the French Championships.

On a cold day which threatened rain at any moment, Miss Evert, 18, dropped the opening two games, but then strung together seven consecutive games to take the set and go 1-0 up in the second.

Miss Evert has lost only seven games in the first three rounds and although Miss Tomanova, ranked fourth in Czechoslovakia, gave her the most difficult test to date, she appeared totally in control of her game and as relaxed as ever.

In a match which was interrupted by darkness Monday night, Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic finished off Australia's Phil Dent 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-3, to reach the last 16 in the men's singles.

Pilic, who is appealing a suspension for refusing to play for his country in the Davis Cup, had too great a repertoire for the Australian, who lost the tiebreak 7-5 in the third set and could never recover.

Women's third seed Virginia Wade of Britain, playing at her most erratic, tumbled out of the third round, defeated by French girl Odile de Roubin, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

AT TIBURON PENINSULA CLUB

Strong Field In Bay Counties Net Tourney

The usual strong field will be on hand beginning Saturday for the 76th annual Bay Counties Tennis Tournament at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, according to tournament director Carol Spindler.

The event has added a new sponsor, Fidelity Savings, which is putting up $2,000 in prize money. Entrants will be competing in men's singles, men's doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles.

Play will begin Saturday at 9 a.m., continue Sunday, and conclude the following Saturday and Sunday.

The top-rated player in Northern California, Dan Bleckinger, is touring Europe and will miss the event, but second-rated Chuck Darley and third-ranked Barry MacKay of Ross will be on hand. So will Brazil's No. 8 player, Joao Soares.

Other top names among the men are Whitney Reed, Don Kierbow, Charles Hoeveler, Tom Brown, Steve Cornell, Greg Shephard and Bob Siska.

There will be no admission charge for spectators.

A's Manager Williams Puts Odom In Bullpen

Combined AP & UPI

DETROIT — Doghouse: spell that b-u-l-l-p-e-n for John "Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland Athletics.

Apparently A's manager Dick Williams is tired of letting the veteran right-hander try to pitch his way out of his slump from a regular spot in the rotation.

When a proven pitcher loses eight of nine starts and his earned run average jumps to 7.41, what can a manager do?

Odom was the victim of four Detroit runs in 4 and ⅔ innings Monday night as the A's lost 4-3 in a nationally televised game to the Tigers, who swept the three-game series.

The loss dropped fifth-place Oakland 5½ games behind American League West leader Chicago, which won two games from Cleveland.

"He's been getting behind a lot of hitters. He walks quite a few," Williams said, Trying to explain what Odom has been doing wrong this season. "Control. Control is the big thing."

"Concerned? I'm concerned enough that we're going to put him in the bullpen," he added.

Williams said he didn't know how long Odom would be used as a reliever and he wouldn't say who would be his replacement in the rotation.

Tiger hurler Joe Coleman didn't have an easy time of it either, but despite saying he hates to pitch in the rainy weather present Monday, the Tiger righthander won his ninth game against three losses.

What proved to be the game-winning hit was a routine grounder by designated hitter Gates Brown in the fifth inning. The ball, heading for first baseman Gene Tenace's mitt, suddenly bounced high over his head to drive in the fourth Detroit run.

But another item helped assure the Tigers of winning their 10th game in the last 13. That was a baserunning boo-boo by Bill North, who leads the league in stolen bases with 16.

With Detroit ahead 4-3 in the eighth, North singled and stole second. But when Sal Bando hit a grounder to shortstop Ed Brinkman, North tried for third and was tagged out. On a ball hit to the left side of the infield a runner on second is almost always supposed to hold.

On North's goof Williams said: "He made a mistake and he knows it. He was just too intent on getting over there. He's been playing good ball for us. I have no complaints on Bill North."

North, who represented the tying run, opened the eighth with a single off Coleman. Relievers Chuck Seelbach and John Hiller came on to retire the next three batters.

Detroit jumped on Odom — who beat the Tigers in the final game of last year's American League playoffs — for two quick runs as Norm Cash homered in the second inning following a leadoff walk to Sims.

The Tigers made it 4-0 with two runs in the fifth, Singles by Rich Reese and Mickey Stanley with two outs put runners on first and third. A wild pitch by Odom brought Reese home, then Brown bounced his single over Tenace's head to score Stanley.

Ted Kubiak's leadoff double in the sixth starts the A's three

Provocative Deer Study Statistics

An Arizona State University professor's study of deer production turned up some very interesting statistics.

Sidney W. Wilcox of the Tempe campus' College of Engineering Sciences has completed three years of a five-year study, "Deer Production in the United States."

Wilcox found that, in 1971, 1,866,918 deer harvested by sport hunters in the United States produced 98,754,558 pounds of boneless meat.

Based on the current Sacramento area retail price (98 cents a pound) of ground chuck beef, the value of the deer meat was $96,779,467. (This, incidentally, because of the increase in retail meat prices, was about $10 million more than the value calculated by Wilcox.)

Californians accounted for about 2.5 per cent of the deer taken, and the meat was worth something like $2.4 million, at current retail prices.

The Wilcox study also showed that hunter numbers increased from 8,212,000 nationally in 1969 to more than 8,336,000 in 1970 before slipping back to 8,164,000 the following year.

Up to 500,000 people hunt deer each year in California, but the figure has been closer to 400,000 annually in the last few years.

Regarding the national figures, Wilcox attributed the 1971 decrease to the moratorium on firearms hunting in Minnesota that year, and the lack of data on hunter numbers from the State of Virginia.

Wilcox's statistics also showed the fatality rate among deer hunters from accidents in the field. In 1971, there were 116 known accidental deaths from gunshot wounds among the 7,358,062 hunters going after deer.

This amounts to 0.0015 per cent of the total, or 1.6 fatalities per 100,000 deer hunters. In California, there were two fatal accidents among deer hunters in the field that year, or less than 0.5 fatalities per 100,000 hunters.

Wilcox compared the hunting fatality rate to that for falls in the home, which the National Safety Council says is 4.8 per 100,000 people.

THERE HAS BEEN a great deal of talk lately about finding funds to supplement those of the hard-pressed sportsman to finance the work of wildlife conservation.

Harry Woodward, director of the Colorado Division of Wildlife, is among those calling for a change in the method of financing wildlife conservation programs.

"The day has arrived when nonhunting segments of our citizenry are going to be called on to fully and adequately fund all wildlife activities not contributing to hunting and fishing," said Woodward.

Woodward made his cost-sharing remarks during the Governor's Conference on Wildlife and the Environment in Denver recently. He added:

"This means the adoption of a system of cost accounting which will be the basis for the determination of sharing, for most wildlife populations serve the dual purpose of benefiting both the hunter and the nonhunter, or the fisherman and the nonfisherman, as the case may be."

While hunters and fishermen have been footing the bill for all wildlife in the past, Woodward continued, "It is now time for the non-license buyer — the hiker, the photographer, the bird feeder, the nonhunter who frequently resorts to rhetoric but seldom demonstrates his dedication to principle — to dip his hand into his money pocket. It would give people the opportunity to supplement their rhetoric with their case earmarked for wildlife."

Woodward concluded that "costs must be borne by those who benefit."

Joe Rudi bunted North to third and Bando singled him in. After a ground out by Reggie Jackson, designated hitter Deron Johnson singled Bando home.

In the ninth, Tenace walked with two outs. Rich McKinney singled, sending pinch runner Bert Campaneris to third. But Hiller — who picked up his ninth save — got pinch-hitter Angel Mangual to end the game by forcing McKinney at second.

STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL — Driver David (Salt) Walther's thrashing legs stuck out of his sheared McLaren racer as it skidded down the track upside down yesterday after crashing into the wall on the first lap of the Indianapolis 500 automobile race. Ten cars ultimately were involved in the crackup, Walther, 25, from Dayton, Ohio, was hospitalized with burns and multiple injuries, and three spectators also were hospitalized.

MADE IT ON HIS OWN

Driver Walther Shunned His Dad's 'Silver Spoon'

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Salt Walther wasn't really trying to prove anything to his father, only to himself.

He wanted to prove that a kid like him, born with a silver spoon in his mouth, could go out in the world and still hack it without leaning on the old man's name or resources.

"That 'rich kid' stuff doesn't bother me anymore," he said before slipping into his father's car, a sleek British-made McLaren Offy, for the start of Monday's 500 miler, a race in which he wasn't destined to go even 500 yards.

"It used to bother me at first, but no more," went on 25-year-old Salt Walther. "I've begun to live with it. If they wanna think I'm rich, okay. I'm certainly not poor. But lemme tell you this about myself —I've done everything in my life. I've sold insurance, paved roads and even cleaned out the johns in my father's foundry back in Dayton, Ohio."

Salt Walther is in serious condition at Methodist Hospital today with multiple burns, a possible back injury and a fractured left wrist.

From the way some of them who were down on the track right after they pulled him from his flaming car Monday are talking about Salt Walther now, it sounds as if it may be touch and go whether he survives.

Salt, whose real name is David, knew all the risks involved and chose to take them voluntarily.

"Look," he told me, talking about them, "I've raced hydroplanes for my dad also and turned over in some of them. I know there are risks involved in racing cars or boats, but it isn't really as dangerous as a lotta people think. I enjoy the competition, the excitement."

He has been around race tracks with his father, George Walther, Jr., ever since he was a baby.

A word now about George Walther, Jr.

He's the president of the Dayton-Walther Corp. which has plants in 16 states and eight foreign countries. The corporation is the world's largest manufacturer of cast steel wheels for trucks and the last time anybody bothered counting, it was worth more than $35 million.

George Walther's father used to race bicycles here at Indianapolis, so it was only natural that Salt's father also took to racing.

In the past 19 years, George Walther, Jr., has hired himself some big names to drive his cars here at Indy —names like Troy Ruttman, Johnny Rutherford, Juan Manuel Fangio and Peter Revson.

Last year, Salt Walther was a backup driver for his father but had to bow out before he could complete even one lap due to engine trouble.

The late Art Pollard, killed here two and a half weeks ago, had been very friendly with young Salt before he died.

"C'mon down here, I want to show you something," he said to the youngster a year ago.

Then, patiently and painstakingly, he sat with him in the stands at each of the four turns here at Indianapolis and explained to him how to come in to them and get out of them.

One of Salt Walther's close friends perhaps said it best when they were taking the young driver off to the hospital.

"I know those doctors," said the friend. "The first thing they're going to look for with Salt is any broken bones, but they'll probably never bother to check his heart. That's what's really broken. You have no idea how much he wanted to finish this race."

Marin Catholic Honors 'Bocc'

Mongreal Expos' catcher John Boccabella, an alumnus of Marin Catholic High School, Saturday became the first inductee into the Marin Catholic Baseball Hall of Fame in ceremonies at the school.

Boccabella was featured speaker at a spaghetti supper which followed the varsity-alumni game, won by the varsity, 8-6, as Mike Nivens drove in three runs with three hits.

The game and supper raised approximately $150 for the school's baseball program, said coach Dave Gonsalves. The newly-created Hall of Fame will induct one alumnus annually, he added.

Indy 500 Starter's Rebuttal

INDIANNAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Pat Vidan, the official starter for Indianapolis 500, today defended himself against charges that he got the 33-car field off to a "ragged start" Monday that contributed to Monday's 10-car crackup.

Several drivers were critical of the disasterous start that seriously injured Salt Walther. The accident occurred only 300 yards from the starting line as cars were jockeying for position on the first turn..

"It was the most ragged start I've ever seen here," said driver Dick Simon of Salt Lake City. "Cars were staggered all over. People were everywhere."

Driver David Hobbs of Britian said, "these are suppposed to be 33 of the best drivers in the world you'd think they could at least drive down the bloody street."

Vidan responded to the charges:

"I think the start was all right. You'll hear all kinds of rumors and whatnot. All I know is Harlan (chief steward Harlan Fengler) said go, green." There was jostling for position right after the start."

Trout Plants

Stafford Lake, Rodeo Lagoon and Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County were scheduled to be stocked with catchable size rainbow trout this week, it was announced by the Department of Fish and Game.

Bicycle Racing Slated Sunday

A full day of bicycle racing is slated Sunday starting at 9 a.m. in the San Rafael Criterium and Bicycle Show at the Marin County Civic Center.

Some 600 amateur bike riders are expected to compete in the event sponsored jointly by the North San Rafael Kiwanis and the Marin Cyclists. They will be racing for $1,500 in merchandise contributed by participating merchants, bicycle dealers and manufacturers who will display their products in 20 infield booths. Antique bicycles and autos will also be exhibited. Admission is 50 cents.

Last year's Senior A race winner, John Howard, and runnerup Mike Neal are listed as tentative starters in the 22-mile rematch starting at 1:40 p.m. over the eight-tenths of a mile criterium course. The Civic Center layout is characterized by hilly and level terrain plus nine tight corners.

Other racing classes include Juniors, Intermediates, Women and Veterans. The 16-mile Senior B race begins at 12:50 p.m., the 12-mile Senior C race at 11:15 a.m., the 16-mile Junior race at noon, and the 10-mile Veterans race at 10:30 a.m.

Other race starts are: Intermediates (10 miles) at 9:50 a.m., Women (eight miles) at 9:15 a.m. plus Midgets and Intermediate Girls (four miles) at 9 a.m.

The Amateur Bicycle League of America-sanctioned event will also feature a 25-mile pro race starting at 3 p.m. These professional bike riders will appear under the sponsorship of the Bank of Marin.

Riders from Great Britain, Australia, Canada, United States, Belgium, Holland and Italy will participate in the 12-man pro field racing in the finale at 3 p.m. The pros will be racing for an undetermined amount of prize money.

Amateurs will be competing for merchandise valued at $660 for the Senior A race, $133 for Senior B, $82 for Senior C, $269 for Juniors, $102 for Veterans and $80 for Intermediates, $65 for Women.

AL FEUERBACH

Shot Put King Has A Mission

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Al Feuerbach has finally become the world's shot put king and now he wants to prove it to the Russians.

The 6-foot-1, 245-pound Feuerbach, who surpassed Randy Matson's longtime world mark with a 71-7 heave three weeks ago, has a date in Moscow next week and is hoping he can show the Russians his best.

"I'm very patriotic when it comes to competing for my country," Feuerbach said after a relatively modest 70-4 ¾ effort in the Vons Classic here Sunday. "I'd like to get off my best throw to give some credibility to what I've done over here.

"The track season in Russia and Europe begins much later," he explained. "When we compete over there it's usually not the peak of our season so we never have our best marks.

"The marks coming out of the United States this year are fantastic but they always laugh at the Americans when we don't do well in our meets."

The 25-year-old Feuerbach gives part of the blame for this situation to the Amateur Athletic Union, which he said has made it difficult for his Pacific Coast Track Club to compete in overseas meets.

"An American club visiting Europe could do a lot for prestige," he said, "but the AAU wants to control the sport and make us look bad."

Prior to his record-breaking toss in San Jose, Feuerbach had predicted he would have a good shot at the world record. But he admits that it's impossible to tell when "conditions will be right" for another peak performance.

"I knew (before the San Jose meet) that if I rested and trained properly, the potential for the record would be there," he said. "But you can't predict what will actually happen because that depends upon the conditions."

Feuerbach admits "I'm far beyond the highest level I've ever been" but realizes that it's hard to get up for every meet.

"I am training right through these meets and it's hard to peak up sometimes," said Feuerbach. "I know what my body can do, but you have to reach a new plateau and accept it mentally before you can move up to the next one."

Al is hoping to reach the next plateau in Moscow, which could mean another record. And if it doesn't come in Russia, he isn't going to worry.

"You have to accept what you are doing now before you can go on to the next thing, but I believe it's all a matter of time," he said.

Padres' Transfer Conditions

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — National League president Charles S. (Chub) Feeney said Monday that league approval of the sale was one of several conditions which will have to be met before the San Diego franchise can be transferred to Washington.

Feeney said it was too early to speculate about a possible realignment of the league should approval be given to the switch to the nation's capital.

"If approval for a transfer is granted," said Feeney, "it is conceivable that the Washington franchise could remain in the NL West.

"When San Diego joined our league as an expansion club, it was paired with San Francisco and Houston in scheduling assignments. In Washington, the club could be paired with Cincinnati and Atlanta and still remain in the West."

GIANTS

Dyer grounded out to end the inning and the Mets trailed 6-4.

Another possible right-handed Mets pinch hitter, Willie Mays, was not available. The 42-year-old star was eligible to come off the disabled list Monday and took batting practice, but the Mets decided not to reactivate him for the game.

Rookie right-hander Tommy Moore made his first start of the season for New York and Bobby Bonds hit his first pitch for a home run. Bonds had a run-scoring single in the second when the Giants scored four times to take a 5-0 lead.

"I knew it was the kid's first start and I figured he'd be trying to make his first pitch a strike," said Bonds, a leadoff hitter with the philosophy that, "You don't get paid for walks."

The Giants scored another run in the third on Chris Speier's triple, taking a 6-0 lead.

"It was a laugher for five innings," said Fox.

The New York comeback started with John Milner's two-run homer in the sixth. But it fell short and the Mets, second in the National League East, fell under .500 for the season.

Marichal made his season record 6-4 and his lifetime mark 233-129 as the Giants increased their Western Division lead to one and one-half games.

Ronight, the Mets' Tom Seaver, 5-3, is scheduled to pitch against Jim Barr, 4-5.

Newport Beach Netter Wins Senior Crown

BURLINGAME (AP) — Hugh Stewart, of Newport Beach, outlasted both San Francisco's George Baskevitch and 90 degree heat to win the men's title in the 73rd annual California State Senior Tennis Championships.

Stewart took both sets by a 6-2 margin in the finals Monday at Peninsula Tennis Club.

But in the men's 45 doubles, Stewart and former Stanford basketball star George Yardley lost 6-1, 7-6 to Ed Kauder and Dick Metteer.

June Gay defeated Marge Kohler 7-6, 6-2 to win the women's 40 singles. The women's 40 doubles was taken by Donna Myers and Eve Robards 4-6, 6-3 after opponent Jean Datton reinjured a turned ankle and was forced to retire with her partner, Carol Schneider.

Wood Turns Back The Clock

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Throwing mostly "junk," Wilbur Wood turned baseball's clock back to the turn of the century last night and took two steps toward the record book by pitching 14 innings of six-hit ball and notching his 12th and 13th victories for the Chicago White Sox.

If the world champion Oakland A's rekindled memories of yesteryear last season with their assortment of handlebar mustaches and lambchop sideburns, then Wood's workhorse performances certainly must echo times long gone when pitchers like "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, Jack Chesbro and Ed Walsh started more than 50 games a season and worked more than 400 innings.

Monday was only Memorial Day and not even a quarter of the season has been completed.

Yet, unbelievably for these modern times when starting pitchers get the hook more frequently than not, Wood, a knuckleball expert "without a major league fastball," has a 13-3 record with four shutouts and nine complete games in 131 2-3 innings.

His 12th victory may have been bargain but it was definitely no gift. Wood, who got to know the bullpen quite well before becoming a starter for Chicago in 1971, came to the mound for the completion of Saturday night's 16-inning marathon against the Cleveland Indians which was suspended with the score tied 2-2 because of a 1 A.M. curfew in Chicago.

Wood allowed two hits and an unearned run in five innings in that game and was carried to a 6-3 victory in the 21st inning by Dick Allen's three-run opposite field home run with two out.

Wood, a 6-foot, 200-pounder with a spongy belly and a rubber arm, then started the regularly scheduled game a half hour later and 27 outs, four hits and no runs afterwards, he had victory No. 13, 4-0--putting him 27 days ahead of Denny McLain's 31-game pace for Detroit in 1968.

"I certainly wasn't tired tonight," Wood said, "and I could have pitched many more innings. I think, though, I may have been lucky because they were hitting a lot of good shots but the air was very heavy and the balls were getting caught in the outfield. When I pitch I challenge every hitter, and although they all try to kill the knuckleball, more often than not they'll pop it up."

"Right now Wilbur Wood is the best left-hander in the American League," Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner said, "and I think he's going to prove he's the best pitcher in baseball.

"I told him before the suspended game I'd let him go five innings and then see how he felt. But everything worked out all right. In the seventh inning of the regular game I asked him how he felt. He told me he was okay and I had no reason not to believe him."

At his present rate, Wood is headed toward a 50-victory season and 500 innings pitched.

In other AL games, Kansas City edged Boston 5-4, Detroit nipped Oakland 4-3, California beat Milwaukee 7-4 and Minnesota walloped Baltimore 10-3. Texas at New York was rained out.

Pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua delivered a two-run single with one out in the ninth inning to tie the score and Cookie Rojas singled home Gene Garber with the winning run to give Kansas City its triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run triple sparked a six-run outburst in the third and Steve Braun added a pair of basesempty homers to lead Minnesota over the Orioles.

Pinch-hitters Tom McCraw and Winston Llenas drove in the tying and winning runs and Bill Singer pitched a six-hitter to give California its comefrombehind victory over the Brewers.

The Angels trailed 4-3 in the seventh when Rudy Meoli singled and scored on McCraw's pinch-hit double. Llenas then hit for Sandy Alomar and singled home McCraw with the winning run.

Dodgers' Messersmith Impresses

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Los Angeles Dodgers have been red-faced over a trade they made with the California Angels last winter, but perhaps Andy Messersmith is ready to change their complexion.

Last November the Dodgers gave up superstar Frank Robinson, infielders Billy Grabarkewitz and Bobby Valentine and pitchers Bill Singer and Mike Strahler to the Angels for Messersmith and third baseman Ken McMullen in what until now has become the "steal" of the year for California.

Robinson, Singer and Valentine, before he was hurt, all have done well with California while Messersmith has been struggling and McMullen has lost his job to rookie Ron Cey.

Messersmith, however, may be ready to start paying dividends. The 27-year-old right-hander, who won 20 games with the Angels two years ago, turned in his finest game of the season Monday night when he pitched the Dodgers to a 5-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Messersmith allowed only seven hits and struck out 12, including a major league record six in a row at the start of the game. He joined American Leaguers Bert Blyleven, Ray Culp and John Hiller as the only pitchers ever to have accomplished that feat.

The victory was Messersmith's fifth but it was the first time he had demonstrated the overpowering stuff he had while he was with the Angels.

"I've been trying a lot of things lately," said Messersmith, who has not been pleased with his recent performances. "The way I've been pitching I was lucky to win four. Tonight I came more over the top, something that my old catcher, Jeff Torborg, reminded me of the year I won 20. (Chris) Cannizzaro warmed me up tonight and when he saw the overhand he said, 'that's it.'"

Messersmith was aided by back-to-back home runs by Willie Crawford and Cey in the fourth and a spectacular catch by centerfielder Willie Davis, who took a three-run homer away from Willie Montanez in the seventh.

"That ball was gone until I put my hand on it," said Davis, who reached nearly two feet over the centerfield fence to snare the drive. "I said, 'come back here ball, you can't mess up my friend's game.'"

In other NL games, Montreal beat San Diego 7-6, St. Louis edged Atlanta 3-2, Cincinnati nipped Chicago 6-5, San Francisco topped New York 6-5 and Pittsburgh downed Houston 4-2.

Pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore hit a three-run homer with two out in the top of the ninth inning to give the Expos a come-from-behind victory over the Padres. It was Mashore's second pinch-hit three-run homer in as many days and helped reliever Mike Marshall to his fifth victory. Ron Fairly also homered for Montreal while pitcher Mike Corkins homered for the Padres.

Wayne Granger put out a ninth inning rally to preserve the Cardinals' victory over Atlanta. It was the sixth victory in a row and ninth in 10 games for St. Louis. Granger took over from reliever Rich Folkers with the bases loaded and none out and, after giving up a two-run single to Dusty Baker, retired three batters in a row to preserve starter Rick Wise's sixth triumph in eight decisions. Wise's run-scoring hit in the eighth proved to be the winning run.

Joe Morgan's one-out single in the last of the ninth scored Darrel Chaney with the run that enabled the Reds to beat Chicago. Morgan's hit, which bounced off first baseman Pat Borque's glove, was hotly contested by Cubs' Manager Whitey Lockman, who claimed that the ball was foul. Bourque and Billy Williams hit home runs for the Cubs.

Milt May homered and Dave Cash contributed a pair of run-scoring singles as the Pirates downed the Astros.

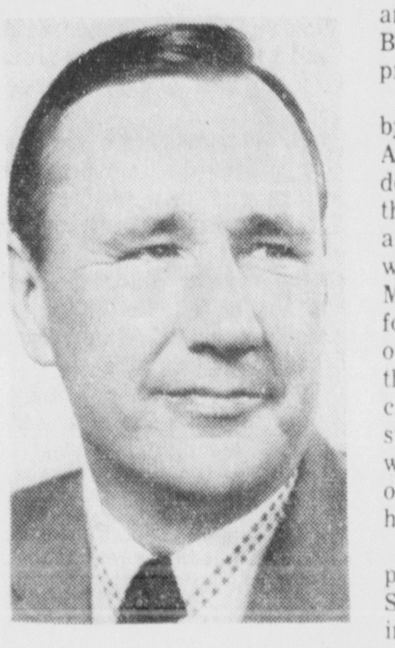
Past Actions Spark Drive For County Planning Seat

(One of a series of stories on applicants for two vacancies on the San Rafael Planning Commission)



DONN E. NISSEN
Appalled by planning

Donn E. Nissen, president of the Terra Linda Homeowners Association, is seeking appointment to the San Rafael Planning Commission because he is appalled by community planning decisions made in the past.

Nissen is one of six applicants thus far for the seats of commissioners Albert J. Boro and Thomas R. O'Toole, whose terms expire June 30.

The 46-year-old Nissen, who graduated from the University of Washington with a bachelor's degree in forestry, is a sales representative for Olincraft Inc., a Concord-based paper firm.

Nissen served four years on the Dixie Finance Committee and on the Terra Linda High Booster Club and is a former president of both groups.

Nissen, citing poor planning by the city, said he opposed Arthur Nicolaisen's proposal to develop a graded hillside near the Civic Center with an office and restaurant complex, as well as a proposal by the McCarthy Co. of Northern California for 292 units on a parcel off San Pablo Avenue, also near the Civic Center. The planning commission approved impact statements for both proposals without considering the effect of additional traffic in the area, he said.

Nissen said he also opposes plans to develop Courthouse Square with dual office buildings and a parking garage and a proposal for a $40 million commercial and residential complex on Smith Ranch Brothers land in northeastern San Rafael.

Such major developments as the Smith Ranch, McCarthy and Nicolaisen proposals, he said, should be halted pending completion of the city's general plan. "I'd like to stop all major development until the general plan is completed."

Nissen said the planning commission has become autonomous from city planning staff, instead operating as a "private club" with a "public be damned" attitude.

Nissen called for more commission communication with the San Rafael Planning Department, creation of an architectural review board, a program whereby developers present plans to local homeowners before appearing before the commission and more comprehensive site and landscape planning.

Nissen also said he supported the proposed countywide plan.

A 13-year resident of the city, Nissen lives at 607 Tamarack Drive with his wife, Thelma May. The couple has a son and a daughter.

Mexico City's Airport Closed By Dust Storm

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A swirling dust storm closed Mexico City's international airport for 99 minutes yesterday, reduced visibility to one-half block and choked and blinded many of its inhabitants.

Air traffic resumed at 4:16 p.m.

The weather bureau said the dust storm was triggered by unusually strong winds gusting across the dried surface of Lake Texcoco on the northeast edge of the capital.

Officials said they closed the airport to all incoming and outgoing flights because of an almost total lack of visibility and possible dust danger to jet engines.

Marin Gets $22,456 In Support Pay

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County has received $22,456 in the 18 months through March as state supplements to child support collected by the Marin district attorney's office from absentee fathers whose children were on welfare rolls.

State Welfare Director David B. Swoap explained that the state payments to the county reflect one-fifth to one-third of the total collected locally from the absentee fathers. Statewide, the local district attorneys have collected some $35 million in the 18 months and the counties have been allocated $7.1 million.

Many of the counties are using their shares to expand staffs tracking down fathers who failed to support their youngsters.

Sonoma County's share in the 18 months totalled $106,248, Swoap reported.

He explained that statewide, some 850,000 youngsters are on welfare because of absentee fathers' failure to provide.

Non-Military Type May Become Navy's First Female Chaplain

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Dianna Pohlman never considered herself a military type and once was more interested in music than in theology. But she expects to become the Navy's first female chaplain.

Miss Pohlman, 32, a native of San Diego, Calif., graduated from the Princeton Theological Seminary in January and expects to be ordained in Washington, D.C., July 1. If her commission comes through, she would be inducted the following day at the Naval Annex in Washington.

She decided to go into the Navy after receiving her Master of Divinity degree when a Presbyterian Navy chaplain in San Diego "asked me to consider the possibility," she said in an interview..

"I didn't look at the other armed forces after the Navy contact," Miss Pohlman said. "Their whole lifestyle and the quality of persons I met in the Navy" were so attractive that "I had no interest in checking out with others," she said.

"I've never considered myself a military-type person, but my own personal feelings and my own theology don't preclude my going into the Navy," she said.

"The Navy and I are very much agreed that it would not be best for the first woman just to work with women, and I'm happy about that because I think a ministry ought to be to all areas of a community."

Miss Pohlman was a music major at Occidental College in Los Angeles. "After a year of specializing in the French horn at the University of Wisconsin," she said, "I had found that when I was very honest with myself, music had become my god."

"About the fall of 1969, I went in to talk to my pastor and realized I had a deep desire to study the Christian faith and the Bible," she said.

A member of the United Presbyterian Church, she chose to attend the Princeton seminary. There, she was one of 74 women out of a student body of 660.

If sworn into the Navy, Miss Pohlman will spend July and August at the Chaplain school in Newport, R.I., before receiving the rank of lieutenant, j.g.

Statue Honors Servicewoman

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — A life-size bronze statue of 1st Lt. Sharon Lane, first American servicewoman to die in Vietnam, was dedicated yesterday as part of Memorial Day services.

Miss Lane, 25, of nearby North Industry, was serving with the Army Nurse Corps at Chu Lai when killed by a Communist rocket in June 1969.

The statue stands on the grounds of Altman Hospital, where she attended the School of Nursing. On the base of the statue are inscribed the names of 110 Stark County servicemen who also died in Indochina.
